—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7. "SMALLPOX IS spreading in India."

Those five words will interest George Bernard Shaw and change objection to vaccination, if he is still in India on his journey around the world.

The ignorant that denounce vaccination little know what they owe to it. Under old conditions such a city as New York would be lucky if it escaped with as few as 100,000 smallpox cases a year, other cities in proportion to their population.

Madame Du Barry remarked: "She would be very attractive if she were dressed as a lady."

And the king said: "Then let's dress her."

SOON MADAME DU BARRY, anxious to please the King, who was growing weary of her, brought the little farmer girl, decorated with paint and beauty patches, before the King, who said: "She shall have supper with us."

After supper the girl had a bath and was put to bed. Meanwhile, her little brother was dying with smallpox. The next day the little girl fell ill and died. On April 28 the King did not feel well. On May 10 he was dead of smallpox. It is a disease which climbs from the gutter to the palace rapidly.

WISE CATHERINE the Second of Russia knew it. She had herself innoculated with vaccine from the arm of a small boy, and when it "took" she was well pleased and created him "Duke of Smallpox." That title has undoubtedly been abolished by what our "best minds" consider a worse disease than smallpox—Bolshevism.

WILLIAM S. LEE, vice president and chief engineer of the Duke Power Company, is horrified by President-elect Roosevelt's suggestion that he may do something about government ownership and operation of power plants.

PRESIDENT-ELECT ROOSEVELT'S plan, with government-owned power to put 200,000 idle to work on a giant project involving reclamation work, worries this power company employe. Says he:

"The more people that work for the government the nearer we approach to socialism."

THAT MAY be, but it is wise not to lose sight of the fact that the longer 12,000,000 Americans remain idle, with the government doing nothing, THE NEARER WE APPROACH TO REVOLUTION.

As a matter of fact, we are not going to have revolution, and we are not going to have any one of the many brands of "socialism," either. What we are going to have, let us hope, is a little common sense, and IN TIME.

CRISP COUNTY, GEORGIA, built its own hydro-electric power plant and issued bonds to pay for it. Now the county calls in bonds, paying them, principal and interest, before they are due.

Of course, anything in the way of "public ownership" is a fearsome thing in the opinion of our "best minds."

But perhaps some that invested in private power plants, Insull plants for instance, wish they had bought bonds of the little Georgia hydro-electric institution instead.

THERE IS religious trouble in Turkey, a most dangerous trouble, particularly when government interferes with the profits and prerogatives of those that make religion a business.

By order of Kemal Pasha, the muezzin, who climbs into a tower and calls the public to prayer, now makes him call in Turkish, understood by the people instead of talking Arabic. This has caused an uprising of orthodox Mohammedan citizens, urged on by orthodox Mohammedan priests, attacking a muezzin, to teach him to talk Arabic instead of Turkish. Kemal does not trifle with opposition, and will hang a few of the rebellious Mohammedan priests and orthodox citizens.

IT IS NOT for well-informed Christians to criticize those Turks. Not so long ago Christians were burned wholesale because they read the Bible in plain French instead of reading it in Latin.

And Dr. Servetus was burned alive by John Calvin, in Protestant Switzerland, for teaching sound philosophy. In Servetus' case Calvin even used damp firewood, to make the burning last longer.

Probably the smoke suffocated Servetus and saved him from the agony of the flames. If so, that is a joke on the deeply religious Calvin.

HITLER, IN Germany, refuses to take his eleven-thousand-dollar salary. He makes a living by his writing.

Our Congress votes to keep salaries of Congressmen at $9,000 a year. As a concession to economy, it decides to spend less money, officially, on attending funerals.

The chief performer at a funeral doesn't know what is going on, and the others don't enjoy themselves much.

M'DONALD DEBT BID HINTED

'Dime-a-Dollar' Deal Discussed; Lindsay Talks to Cabinet

International News Service.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—With settlement of the British war debts to the United States by a lump sum being discussed, it was reliably stated in diplomatic circles today that Prime Minister MacDonald has received a personal invitation from President-elect Roosevelt to go to the United States for a war debt conference.

This invitation, it was said, was conveyed to MacDonald by Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to the United States, who returned yesterday to give cabinet members first-hand reports on the Washington angle of the debt impasse.

'HEART-TO-HEART' TALK

Despite an aura of secrecy that has surrounded the debt question since Sir Ronald revealed President-elect Roosevelt's injunction that "silence is golden," International News Service learned that Roosevelt wants to have a "heart-to-heart" talk with the British Prime Minister, and invited him to the United States for this purpose.

MacDonald, it was said, is still undetermined whether he will accept, owing the pressure of problems at home, but Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, who has declared against a "swapping deal," was represented as "determined to go."

The Cabinet Committee on War Debts, consisting of the so-called "Big Five," will resume its discussions this afternoon.

Great speculation and many rumors surrounded the lump sum payment reports, but a British expert said rumors Britain would offer from $1,250,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 were "rubbish."

Fascist 'Bad Boy' Makes Up With Duce

ROME, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Emilio Settimelli, newspaper director known as the "bad boy of the Fascist party" because of his frequent polemics, has made peace with Premier Mussolini and been reinstated in the party.

He was arrested and suspended from the party in 1931 during an Italian-Vatican clash because he wrote a bitter article urging the "unvaticanizing" of the Vatican and suggested that the Pope, whom he called an Italian renegade, should be arrested.

23-Word Coolidge Will Probated

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 7.—(INS.)—The 23-word will of the late Calvin Coolidge, bequeathing his entire estate to his widow, was probated today in Hampshire County Probate Court.

No figures were given on the value of the estate of the late President, who died at his home, "The Beeches," January 5. The value of the estate has been unofficially estimated at $250,000 or over.

Fought Bandits

ROBERT ROCHE

NEW COLD WAVE ON WAY HERE

A cold wave was reported nearing Pittsburgh today from the West, where blizzards and subzero temperatures heralded the most intense cold in the Middle West and Canada in three years.

The Weather Bureau forecast of snow and colder here may have corroborated the groundhog's recent prognostication of six weeks of winter, but there was another to dispute it. Mrs. H. J. Breinig, of 255 Vineland street, Overbrook, reported a robin hopped about in her yard this morning, and the robin's reputation as a harbinger of spring is of as long standing as the groundhog's reputation as a forecaster.

The grip of winter loosened somewhat last night, but the Weather Bureau said it would be renewed tonight. Meanwhile, sections of Minnesota reported temperatures as low as 20 degrees below zero, and in Montana, 40 below was reported. A low of 10 below zero was predicted for Chicago tonight.

Hoover Home in West Imperiled by Fire

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Feb. 7—(AP.)—Firemen were called out last night to extinguish a chimney fire at President Hoover's residence here.

The blaze, which firemen said originated from a fireplace in the living room, caused no damage and was quickly put out. The home was occupied only by servants.

FIGHTS TWO GUNMEN IN MANSIONS

Clerk in Fashionable Apartment Exchanges Bullets With Pair

More than 150 guests in Cathedral Mansions, fashionable apartment at 4716 Ellsworth avenue, were undisturbed early today as Robert Roche, 25-year-old night clerk, engaged in a pistol battle with two bandits, one of whom is believed by police to have been wounded.

Roche narrowly escaped death when the gunmen fired as they fled through the revolving doors. A bullet ripped away part of the plaster under the mezzanine floor from which Roche fired.

WELL DRESSED YOUTHS

The bandits, described as being youthful and well dressed, entered the lobby of the apartment while Roche was working behind his desk. He was alone. He said:

"They inquired about a man named Jackson. When I told them there was no such person in the apartment, they insisted that he was a newcomer, and told me to look him up in the register. Both men had their hands in their pockets. I suspected a holdup, but I complied with their request, and then found myself looking into the business end of leveled revolvers."

Roche said the men demanded that he "come across" and then proceeded to leisurely ransack the office. They pocketed $11 from a stamp box, took $4.85 from Roche, and spurned a quantity of stamps and several rolls of pennies, the victim said. From the desk they took four envelopes, presumably containing guest rentals, Roche added:

"As they prepared to leave they turned to me and demanded that I face the wall. They threatened me with death if I made an outcry. When they were about half-way across the lobby floor I got my revolver from a secret recess and opened fire. One of the men fired after my first shot, and the bullet hit in the plaster under the floor on which I stood."

FIRES TWICE

Roche said he fired two shots as the men fled. One of the bullets was found later imbedded in the shattered marble floor near the door. The other has not been found, and police said they believed one of the men had been hit. A check of hospitals failed to trace any wounded men applying for treatment.

The men are believed to have escaped in an automobile. The description of the bandit pair, one of whom wore a black leather coat, tallies with that given police after several robberies in that neighborhood during the past several weeks.

Roche, who resides at 534 El Court place, has been night clerk at the Cathedral Mansions for five years. He said none of the guests apparently had heard the shooting, although on other occasions when unusual noises were heard in or about the apartment, there were a number of inquiries at the desk.

Dr. Maits' Mother Dies in Squirrel Hill

Mrs. Sarah Ann Buckley Maits, mother of the late Dr. Charles B. Maits, public health director, died last night in the home of her daughter-in-law, 6692 Kinsman road. Her health had been failing since December.

Mrs. Maits was the widow of John W. Maits. She was a member of Calvary Episcopal Church. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon. She leaves two grandchildren.

AARON HITS TWO COYNE CHARGES

Statements on School Situation 'False,' He Says

Marcus Aaron, President of the Board of Public Education, has answered recent statements by Senator James J. Coyne by declaring that two of them are contrary to fact.

The assertions of Coyne which Aaron declares are false are:

The statement that the Board of Education is the only tax-levying body in the United States which has refused to recognize the plight of the taxpayers and that the findings of the Coyne Committee have been sustained by the Citizens' Committee on Business and Financial Procedure.

ASKED FOR HEARING

Aaron's statement is addressed to the Legislative Committee and to the General Assembly. He declares he asked for a public hearing before the Coyne Committee 38 days ago and that the hearing has not been granted.

Aaron declares that because of reasons beyond his control he will be absent from the city when the Coyne Committee report is given to the public and the General Assembly. For that reason he proposes to answer immediately the published statements arributed to Coyne.

Why the Board of Education was singled out from among the other governments of Allegheny County is a question asked by Aaron. He declares his resentment against the attacks against the schools.

RESENTS CRITICISM

Aaron declared he resented "the malicious and ignorant criticism" by certain members of the legislative committee. Attack on the board's committee brought the reply from Aaron that Dr. William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, and Dr. James N. Rule, state superin-

BUILDING STEEL BUYING SPURTS

A revival in buying structural steel has proved the one bright spot in the otherwise dull steel industry during the past week. A large share of the material is to be produced in Pittsburgh.

American Bridge Company, subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, has booked contracts for nearly 25,000 tons of material. The two largest orders were for 21,500 tons for a warehouse of the New York Central Railroad at New York City and 1,500 tons for a bridge in Illinois.

McClintic-Marshall Company, a subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, has booked nearly 3,000 tons, including an order for 1,000 tons for a postoffice in San Francisco.

Other large structural orders include 4,800 tons awarded the Wheeling Steel Corporation for a Federal Building at San Francisco and 1,100 tons to Jones & Laughlin Steel Company for a lock on the Allegheny River.

Trolley Blows Fuse, Firemen Called Out

The fire engines roared down Fifth avenue as hundreds of persons on their way to work crowded the sidewalks this morning, and many necks were craned for a glimpse of the fire. But there was no fire. An excited passerby saw a flash when a fuse blew out on a No. 75 street car at Masters way and sounded an alarm. When the engines arrived, there was nothing but a crowd.

Actress Needn't Feed Critics, U. S. Decides

LENORE ULRIC . . . . NO CREDIT FOR HER ENTERTAINMENTS

Tax Rebate Refusal Says Feasts Killed Shakespeare

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Lenore Ulrich, who, as a protege of the late David Belasco, became a popular theatrical star, lost a decision before the Board of Tax Appeals today in which she sought relief from income tax deficiencies of $1,377.

The Internal Revenue Bureau refused to allow Miss Ulrich's deductions of $7,075 in 1927 and $4,054 in 1928 claimed as necessary business expense for entertaining newspaper critics, writers, theatrical producers, authors and others. Her income for 1927 was given as $69,533 and for 1928, $42,922.

The bureau ruled these expenditures did not constitute ordinary and necessary business expenses. During the years involved Miss Ulric was appearing in "Lulu Belle" and "Miami."

Miss Ulric testified that critics, unless they have the viewpoint of the actress, may give to the public their own unaided conception of plays. The board said:

"Legend tells us that Shakespeare died on his fifty-second birthday, April 23, 1616, and that his death was hastened, if not caused, by partaking of hospitality supplied by himself in entertaining his friends, Ben Jonson and another poet.

"The potency of donated favors, especially of food in securing adherence is recognized. Francis Marion held together his dispirited troops by adding to their love of home and country some ash-baked sweet potatoes. Cannibals have been turned from a hostile to a friendly attitude by a cup of salt. Arabs, it is said, will not attack those with whom they have broken bread."

FLEET PURSUES 'MUTINY SHIP'

BATAVIA, Java, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—With a flotilla of warships and a squadron of bombing planes closing in on the Dutch battleship De Zeven Provincien, commandeered by mutinous East Indian natives in protest against a pay cut, troops were concentrating at Samarang today to cope with possible disorders when the stolen vessel reaches Sourabaya.

In spite of a conditional offer from the mutineers to surrender, the warships and seaplanes continued the wild chase through the Java Sea, with the reported intention of bombing the outlaw crew if they show any resistance when overtaken.

BLUE LAW'S FOES TURN TO SENATE

Avalon Member Casts Only Allegheny Vote Against Change

Developments in the Legislature today were these:

The House passed ad sent to the Senate a bill to legalize outdoor sports on Sunday afternoons.

A hearing on proposals to repeal the Snyder-Armstrong prohibition act was slated before the House Law and Order Committee.

The doom of the Prince-Chapman primary election repealer was sounded as the Philadelphia organization opposed its provisions.

Senator Reed, Dauphin County, introduced a bill to provide $30,000,000 for unemployment relief which would not be allocated by the State Highway Emergency Relief Board.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(AP.) — Foes of Pennsylvania's long entrenched blue laws swept over the first line of defense today as the House of Representatives approved a bill to legalize Sunday afternoon outdor sports.

By a vote of 127 to 75 the Schwartz proposal for local option on Sabbath observance was sent to the Senate, which two years ago killed a House measure to legalize Sunday baseball.

In today's brief fight, advocates of modification mustered 20 more votes than they did in 1931. The total of 127, however, remained 12 short of the two-thirds necessary to override a Gubernatorial veto expected by many legislators.

SPORTS AFFECTED

The Schwartz bill repeals the act of 1794 as it affects outdoor sports, with or without admission charges, between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m. on Sundays. Cities, towns, boroughs and townships are authorized to enact ordinances prohibiting such sports.

On petition of 5 per cent of the voters who cast ballots at the last municipal or general elections, a referendum on the repeal of local ordinances must be submitted to the electorate. If a majority vote is cast in favor of repeal, the ordinances are automatically void.

Sunday hunting and fishing are barred by the bill, and boxing and

Actor Robinson Races With Stork

The actor recently returned to Hollywood to make a picture when studio officials agreed to rush the production so that he might be through in time to be with his wife at the advent of the expected heir.

Honest Man Hunt Vain, $50,000 Left for Dogs

IRVINGTON, N. J., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Robert Lichtenfels apparently considered his search for an honest man to be a failure, for he decided to use his $50,000 to send his two dogs to "heaven."

Lichtenfels, a 78-year-old recluse, who died Sunday, was found yesterday to have made a contract with the Associated Humane Societies promising to give them all his wealth if they would kill his dogs when he died.

He believed dogs go to heaven with their masters and he said he wanted to make sure his pets did not fall into cruel hands. Yesterday, in accordance with his desires, the dogs were destroyed.

Friends recalled that about a year ago Lichtenfels vowed to leave his money to the first honest vagrant who asked for alms. He said he would invite each beggar to his home and scatter money about. If the man failed to steal, he was to get the $50,000.

Pinchot's Bible Lore Weak, Senator Says

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Senator George L. Reed, Dauphin County organization Republican, wants Gov. Pinchot to buy a Bible for use in his "legislative correspondence."

Reed, a minister's son and bitter critic of the Governor, last night introduced a resolution in the Senate suggesting the executive "purchase at least one copy of 'the Holy Bible' for his future guidance as a legislative correspondent."

The resolution referred to the weekly articles being written by the Governor and mailed to all newspapers in the state.

Reed questioned the Governor's interpretation of the Biblical story of Rehoboam in which the Governor said "the angry citizens who killed Rehoboam's tax collector finally got rid of Rehoboam too." Reed declared:

"Gov. Pinchot, like King Rehoboam, 'has hearkened not until the people,' in that he attempts to destroy local self government and raise the autocratic power of the chief executive to the zenith of monarchial splendor."

The resolution was referred, on motion of Senator Clarence J. Buckman, to the Canals and Inland Navigation Committee. The motion was seconded by Senator Frank J. Harris, Allegheny. Both Buckman and Harris are administration Senators.

FORMER KAISER LIKELY TO LEAVE EXILE WITHIN YEAR

WILHELM STILL REGARDS SELF AS RULER

Household Maintains Imperial Ritual And Pomp

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service.

DOORN, Holland, Feb. 7.—The days in exile of Former Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, are numbered.

Fully convinced that a "call" will come to him from the German people, the once mighty emperor of the Reich is preparing to leave Doorn House, the picturesque chateau he has occupied since his abdication.

But in all probabilities it will be some months before the political situation in Germany can permit him to return to the Fatherland in the manner in which he desires. The consensus of influential opinion is that he may spend one more year on Dutch soil.

TIRED OF EXILE

A visit to Doorn House and conversations with many persons in the exiled monarch's confidence discloses that Wilhelm is becoming restless and is showing signs of being "fed up" with this gloomy little woodland town.

He is spending more and more time in making automobile trips throughout the countryside, even going as far as Amsterdam and The Hague. He is expanding socially also, inviting more people of wealth and substance to come to Doorn for tea or dinner or even to stay overnight.

But they do not stay inside the chateau unless their blood is the bluest of the blue. They stay at the little Dutch inn or Doorn. For Wilhelm's household is still an "imperial" household. All the ritual that Potsdam knew is repeated here on a minor scale.

Wilhelm steadfastly refuses to regard himself in any light other than that of actual ruler of Germany, deprived temporarily of his property, but none the less the rightful proprietor.

This attitude, I am informed by highest circles, is serving to obstruct plans for a Hohenzollern restoration. Wilhelm wishes to take over power himself and spurns any suggestion of divided authority or of permitting any other member of his family to sit upon the throne.

Reichstag Committee Meeting in Uproar

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—National Socialist members of the Reichstag's standing committee for safeguarding parliamentary rights shouted anti-Semitic epithets today at Paul Loebe, who is not a Jew, creating such disorder that it was impossible to continue the meeting.

Herr Loebe was in the chair when the meeting began, but it had hardly been called to order when Hans Frank, a Nazi, declared his party considered it an insult to meet under Loebe, who, he said, had in a campaign speech described Chancellor Hitler as "Adolf the Slovak."

The charge threw the meeting into an uproar; Loebe was unable to speak; the Socialists and Communists left the meeting, and Frank, vice chairman, called a rump session. The Nazis participating declared Loebe, by insulting the Chancellor, had demonstrated himself to be unfit to preside.

2 MEN ACCUSED BY WITNESSES

Two Braddock men were arrested today on charges they tried to intimidate three witnesses against J. E. Geltz, 42, of McKeesport, being tried for the murder of Mary White, 27, of Cherry alley, McKeesport.

The accused are William J. Mallnere, 30, and George Swanih, 32. Swanih also was charged with carrying concealed weapons.

County detectives said the two had tried to instruct Mr. and Mrs. Louis Castan and Dorothy Snyder, of Fourth street, McKeesport, as to their testimony.

Geltz was expected to take the stand late today in his own defense. The state charges that Mary White was found beaten and dying in Geltz5s car.

BACK MAYVIEW NURSE SYSTEM

Continuance of the training of present enrolled pupil nurses at Mayview, providing that present educational standards are maintained, will be recommended to the State Board of Examiners for Registration of Nurses, following a meeting in the office of Health Director Mrs. Enoch auh today.

Sister Placide McCoy, of the State Board of Examiners and Miss Ann Wray, educational adviser for the board of Western Pennsylvania, meeting with Mrs. Rauh and Supt. J. S. Hammers today announced the continuance of the present system of training nurses. The state officers will report the result of their conference at a meeting of the board in Harrisburg next month. Another conference with Mrs. Rauh will follow.

Last week the State Board refused to accredit the Mayview Training School, resulting in today's conference.

'Lobbying Parties' Featuring Nude Dancers Probed

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Police Chief Clarence Barbour said today he is investigating reports of gay "lobbying parties" at which nude women are supposed to have danced before a group of North Carolina Legislators.

Barbour said he had been informed such parties had been held, but that so far his investigation has not disclosed anything tending to substantiate the reports.

The story followed remarks on the Senate floor last week by Senator Boggan, of Anson County, concerning lobby parties allegedly given by proponents of a bill now before the Legislature to regulate the practice of cosmetic arts in the state.

CONTRACT LET FOR BUILDING

The Carnegie Thrift and Loan Corporation has awarded a contract for a two-story office building at 418 Chartiers avenue, Carnegie.

The building will have a frontage of 25 feet and a depth of 60 feet. Plans drawn by J. Lawrence Hopp, architect, call for an Indiana limestone front, walls and ceilings of California stucco and tile floors. The corporation will occupy the first floor of the new building. The second floor, divided into offices, will be rented.

NEWARK, O., Feb. 7.—Seven buildings, including the dairy barn, stock barn, granary, garage, crib and two chicken houses, together with 3,000 bushels of grain, 12 head of cattle and 75 chickens, were burned today at the Julia Bounds dairy farm, near Buckeye Lake. Loss was $15,000.

LEAGUE WAVERS ON JAP ISSUE

GENEVA, Feb. 7.—The League of Nations wavered between action and inaction against Japan today after Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese delegate, officially presented his nation's eleventh-hour offer for conciliation of the Sino-Japanese dispute.

Although the Committee of Nineteen virtually had decided to recommend non-recognition of Manchukuo, thereby inferentially condemning Japan's course in Manchuria, the subcommittee of nine delayed drafting its report while the Committee of Nineteen and Sir Eric Drummond tried to reach a final decision.

Sir Eric, secretary general of the League, and the committee, unofficially considered whether Tokio's final offer left a last chance by which the League might avoid stating its views on the conflict and sidestep all the consequences of this course.

The question was admittedly serious, since statement of its views by the League might precipitate complete shunning of Manchukuo by the rest of the world and possibly lead to an arms embargo and economic sanctions against Japan.

Court Stars 'Flunk,' Schedule Canceled

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—St. John's College has cancelled its freshmen basketball schedule—not because of lack of funds—but for lack of players.

Several of the first-year squad were put on probation after the mid-year examinations, leaving only a few courtsters eligible.

BARRY OUSTER RECOMMENDED TO SENATE

Committee Votes for Dismissal as Sequel To Charges

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Immediate removal of David S. Barry as Senate Sergeant-at-Arms for writing in a magazine article that some members of Congress accept bribes was recommended today by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The case comes up in the Senate automatically today for final determination.

It was generally conceded the committee's recommendation would be adopted, Barry already being under suspension.

A motion by Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, to recommend permitting the 73-year-old officer to resign was rejected by a vote of 11 to 4.

DENIAL BY PROFESSOR

Immediately prior to the drastic committee action, Prof. William C. Johnstone, of George Washington University here, had denied reports that he had taught his political science students there was corruption among the national legislators. He told the committee:

"I have never made a statement reflecting on the integrity of Congress."

Barry had testified he was defending Congress in the article against a widespread belief it was corrupt, and had cited Johnstone's teachings.

The committee took no action on the resolution by Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, to certify the case to District of Columbia and New York state courts for criminal libel proceedings against Barry, but Chairman Norris called a special meeting for Thursday to take this up.

Amidst crowding spectators, Barry on the stand today, reiterated he had no intention of attacking the Senate in his magazine article, only saying a few Senators and Representatives sold their votes.

CLERK QUESTIONED

Before Johnstone was called, the committee questioned William Cheatham, 23-year-old clerk in Barry's office and student in the professor's classes, whom the suspended official had quoted as saying the teacher taught that Congress was corrupt.

In a naive manner, Cheatham told of a lecture by the professor on lobbying, in which—without expressing an opinion on the prevalence of the practice—he described alleged operations of lobbyists.

Senator Norris called Barry's attention to the letter of Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, to the late Senator Caraway, which Barry mentioned yesterday in support of his charge, and asked:

"Is there anything in the letter to cause a general belief in the corruption of Congress."

Barry replied:

"No. I offered that letter yesterday to show that senators have made similar charges."

Senator Walsh asked Barry to cite anything in the letter charging a senator hah sold his vote.

Barry said the letter asserted Senator Davis (Rep.), Pennsylvania, had received money. Norris directed printing of the letter in the record.

Walsh, a member of the lobby committee, said it found "there was absolutely no foundation" for the charge that money was paid to Davis.

Old Insull Charges Ordered Dismissed

BARRIE, Ont., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The original charges of larceny and embezzlement against Martin J. Insull, former public utilities official, of Chicago, were dismissed today and an extradition hearing on new charges of larceny, embezzlement and theft by bailee was scheduled for March 6.

ROOSEVELT OFF BAHAMAS

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—President-elect Roosevelt's yacht cruised out of the Bahama Islands and into the open sea again today for a new try at fishing.

A message received here at noon from Vincent Astor, owner of the yacht, said:

This was the first word from the yacht since the visit of Mr. Roosevelt yesterday to Nassau.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt prepared today to introduce 16 New York City Junior League members to the intricacies of state government in a trip through the New York State Capitol and office building.

Mrs. Roosevelt and her party, made up of students enrolled in a course she teaches in government and current events, arrived in Albany last night in time to visit the Legislature in session.

Rochester Council Defeats Salary Cut

ROCHESTER, Pa., Feb. 7.—Borough Council last night defeated on third reading a salary reduction ordinance of 25 per cent for all employes.

The Valley Water Company and the Duquesne Light Company, however, will find a surprise in store for them. They will be notified, Council ordered, that the borough insists on a reduction of $4,000 a year on the electric bill and will pay the water company only $1,000 a year, eliminating the service charge of $4,400 a year. The tax rate, 18 mills for five years, remains unchanged.

HINT ROOSEVELT DEBT BID

DIME A DOLLAR PLAN

Officials reiterated that Britain favors a 90 per cent slash in war debts, or payment on the basis of 10 cents on the dollar, and said any lump sum payment would have to fit into this basis, the keystone of the Lausanne agreement.

It was said the highest amount America could expect from all Europe, according to this agreement, was about $1,250,000,000 in settlement of the debts.

Scores of members flocked to the House of Commons to obtain seats for the reopening ceremony. Many had waited throughout the night to be sure of obtaining places.

It was expected questions would be raised regarding the debt negotiations and that Prime Minister MacDonald would give only a general reply.

Rainey Predicts Doom of 'Lump Sum' Proposal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leader, expressed to newspapermen today the opinion that "the American people will never stand for the British lump sum proposal whereby Great Britain would cut three-fourths of her debt away."

Rainey made his assertion shortly after Representative Collier (Dem.), of Mississippi, had told reporters he was "always ready for a cash compromise."

Rainey said the United States settled the war debts with Great Britain "once on her own terms. It's about time the debtor settle on the creditor's terms," he added.

The Illinois Democrat indicated that further concessions in the matter of trade would have to be submitted to the American government before any such settlement would be considered.

SENATE TIED UP BY LEADERS' QUARREL

Few of Majo. Bills Likely to Pass At Session

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Legislative wheels that usually whirl at high speed three working weeks in advance of adjournment of Congress were barely revolving on Capitol Hill today as rival party leaders lambasted each other for the session's lack of accomplishment.

Only 19 working days remain to the dying Seventy-second Congress, yet not one of the major supply bills has been enacted and it seemed certain today that few of them can be pushed through before March 4.

EXTRA SESSION

One result of this may be that President-elect Roosevelt will have to summon the extraordinary session of the Seventy-third Congress earlier than he had anticipated. April 17 has been the date tentatively fixed by the Democrats for the special session. If the present session accomplishes no more in the next 19 days than it has in the previous nine weeks, however, it may be necessary to get the new Congress on the job earlier.

Democratic leaders went into a huddle yesterday to discuss what can be done to break the legislative log-jam, but nothing was decided upon.

Later there was a savage outburst in the Senate, with the Republican pot and the Democratic kettle each accusing the other o the deepest blackness.

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader blamed the Democratic-insurgent coalition of the Senate for all the delay. This was hotly resented by Senator Joe T. Robinson, the Democratic leader, who pointed to the record of the Democratic-controlled House, and then compared it to the "Republican-controlled Senate."

LET SENATOR RAVE

Watson thereupon moved to show the coalition's control by proposing an executive session to consider the mile-long list of Hoover appointees made since last summer's adjournment. With the aid of five Republican insurgents, the Democrats promptly voted it down.

Watson said:

"See."

Robinson shouted:

"Let the Senator from Indiana rave as much as he pleases. He cannot escape responsibility."

Then they went at it, hammer and tongs.

Robinson described Watston's leadership as "bankrupt and lame duck." He characterized Watston's national radio speech Saturday night, in which he blamed the Democrats for many governmental shortcomings, as "a most brazen piece of political effrontery."

Red Peasants Begin 'March to Forests'

ARCHANGEL, Russia, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Thousands of peasants drafted for work in the lumber camps of the north have set out on "Stalin's march to the forests" to help the regular lumber camp hands catch up with the timber production scheduled in the second five-year plan.

Villages have been stripped of every able-bodied man and the necessary normal activities must be carried on by women and children for the next month.

Baptismal Party Defies Zero Gale

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Biting gales sweeping through this section, with the mercury nearing the zero mark, failed to halt the baptismal rites of a religious sect which immersed six of its members in a stream near Uniontown.

Included in the group were men and women who walked several miles to their homes, their clothing frozen stiff. The sect is opposed to the use of automobiles, regarding cars as "worldly."

Sees Public Works Only Slump Cure

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(Universal.)—A federal bond issue of from six to eight billion dollars for public works was described yesterday as "the only rational measure adequate to bring about the beginning of business recovery" by the Rev. John A. Ryan, noted economist, of Washington.

Roosevelt's Wife Sees Dangers in Repeal

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt urged women to take an interest in the problems which may arise from repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment in an interview published today by the Yale Daily News, undergraduate publication. The wife of the President-elect said:

"Although I am a dry, I am for repeal because I am not satisfied with conditions as they are. The thing has not been successful.

"But we are a nation that leans to extremes. Just as in 1920 we plunged to the limit as prohibition got under way, so if repeal goes through we are in danger of going to the other extreme. It is a serious problem, and I would especially like to see the women of the nation really take an interest in the matter. I believe, too, that we must all, both young and old, co-operate in a program to meet the problems repeal will bring forth."

Mrs. Roosevelt described herself as "an incurable optimist" and expressed the opinion that although the "world has changed tremendously in recent years" people are "fundamentally the same."

DEAN'S WIFE FREED, WOMAN, 3 MEN SOUGHT AS KIDNAPERS

VICTIM HELD PRISONER FOR 24 HOURS

Hysterical and Near Breakdown After Release by Gang

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Talking incoherently, and hysterical, Mrs. Mary B. Skeele, 65, wife of Dr. Walter F. Skeele, dean of the college of music at the University of Southern California, was safe at home today after being abducted and held 24 hours by a gang which demanded $10,000 ransom.

Her kidnapers, described as three men and a woman, told her she was too "dangerous" to hold longer and put her out of an automobile near her home about 8 o'clock last night.

Lured from her residence into an automobile Sunday night while her husband was at church by a telephone caller, who told her Dr. Skeele was injured and in a hospital, Mrs. Skeele said she was blindfolded and held captive in "a house with big stone steps." She was threatened:

"Make one false move and we'll chloroform you."

GANG SOUGHT

Police were to question her today prepared to move instantly into action against the brutal gang that had chosen a frail, gray-haired woman as their victim.

While a captive Mrs. Skeele said she was warned not to remove the blindfold. About 7 o'clock last night, she said, her jailer told her:

After what she said was an hour's drive "through crooked streets," Mrs. Skeele was released from an automobile which sped away. She walked slowly home, and as members of her family gave a cry of relief she collapsed into the arms of her husband at the front door.

Her dramatic return ended a frenzied search by police that began when her husband and son, Franklin Skeele, advertising executive, puzzled by her absence from home Sunday night, found a note pinned to the front door of their residence which demanded $10,000 ransom and appointed a rendezvous on a lonely hilltop.

KEEP RENDEZVOUS

Going to the appointed place yesterday, Dr. Skeele, with an armed detective concealed in the automobile, found a note which directed him to cross a lonely road and look for a hole in an embankment. Dr. Skeele followed directions and found a second note, which told him to "tie the money thoroughly" to the end of a string and suspend it over a 35-foot embankment, and then 'go on."

The kidnapers, detectives said, ran less chance of apprehension in this manner, as they could have pulled down the package without being seen from the upper road.

The scene was near that in which Alberta Meadows was beaten to death with a hammer a few years ago by Clara Phillips, who is now in San Quentin prison.

AUTO INDUSTRY FACES TIEUP BY STRIKES

Hudson Workers Quit; Red Plot Charged By Briggs

By PAUL WEBER
International News Service.

DETROIT, Feb. 7.—Labor troubles in the automotive industry spread alarmingly today.

While two auto body plants operated with crews of strikebreakers, 3,000 workers walked out at the body plant of the Hudson Motor Company shortly after the day shift started work this morning.

The Hudson strike followed an ultimatum to Max Wollering, vice president in charge of manufacturing. The ultimatum listed 12 demands, ranging from wage increases to better ventilation of the factory. The committee announced it would wait just 30 minutes for Wollering's reply.

When the executive declared he would not reply until 4:30 p. m., the committee went among the plant crew and ordered the strike.

MEN WALK OUT

The order was quickly obeyed and in a few minutes the big plant was empty. No disorder was reported. Crowds of workers gathered at the gates, but under the lash of a blizzard they rapidly melted away, leaving only a few determined pickets pacing in the snow.

Significant in the ultimatum was the demand that workers be allowed to form "grievance committees." This has been opposed by employers, who regard it as the first step toward unionization of the hitherto "open shop" automotive industry.

Wollering characterized some of the demands as "ridiculous." He added that an investigation of the strike committee which visited him revealed it numbered no employes of long standing.

A similar strike almost three weeks ago closed two of the Briggs Manufacturing Company plants, cutting off the Ford Motor Company's supply of auto bodies and forcing shutdown of all Ford plants.

PLANTS OPERATE

Both Briggs plants were in operation this week, manned by armies of strikebreakers. In one of the factories, which has been beseiged by crowds of strikers, the strikebreakers have been billeted in the plant for nearly a week. The company was fearful of trouble if they attempted to penetrate picket lines to return to their homes at night.

Newspapermen, allowed to enter the Briggs East Side plant for the first time yesterday, saw an amazing spectacle. In the huge factory, strongly fortified against possible attack by the surrounding crowds of strikers, more than 1,000 workers were living. The voluntary prisoners had been sleeping on makeshift canvas cots, and obtaining food through the factory lunch room. Reporters found all departments of the plant in operation, although some were manned by very meager crews.

GRAND OLD LADY OF PITTSBURGH SOCIETY DIES

Miss Lide Shaffer Had 'Pulled Strings' for Many Years

The "grand old lady" of Pittsburgh society is dead. Perhaps no other person knew so many of its intimate secrets as Miss Lide W. Shaffer, who died yesterday in her home, 5611 Elmer street.

In her 70 years, she had literally pulled the strings that made society move, as the social adviser to practically all of the powerful Pittsburgh families.

Scores of debutantes today remember her, not as a paid adviser, but as a friend who sent out the invitations to their grandmothers' weddings; the confidante who sat in on the countless family councils presaging some important social event.

All the while, Miss Shaffer remained in the background, timing every move with precision. Seldom was there an important wedding that this kind little lady wasn't "on hand" with just the right suggestion for flowers or an assuring word to the nervous bridegroom.

She ruled Mayfair with a fond hand, but never entered its stage as one of the actors. To her is credited the selection of Pittsburgh's original social register.

She loved society up to her very last minute, when a stroke brought to an end one of the richest associations Pittsburgh's upper world has known.

Miss Shaffer was a daughter of William B. and Ann C. Shaffer. She leaves a brother, Harry B. Shaffer; a nephew, J. B. Obey, and three nieces, Mrs. S. Weitle, Mrs. Maud Billon and Mrs. P. E. Daum. She was a member of the First English Lutheran Church, Grant street.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Samson Funeral Home.

7 TEA TESTERS IN NOISY PARTY

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Seven men today sat down to a drinking party that will last until Friday.

But the drink they drank was tea—tea of every known blend and variety.

The seven comprise a group of the country's most critical tea fanciers. They are the official tea tasters, named by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, to sample and determine just what teas may be imported into the United States in the next year.

Once a year they gather for the government tea party—the noisiest, longest, most critical assembly devoted to the cup that cheers but does not inebriate.

When they finish their task Friday they will have set the tea standard for the country. No brand falling below that standard will be admitted at any port for sale in the United States.

C. F. Hutchinson, chief tea examiner for the Port of New York, explained the mystery of the taster's art:

"We suck it up violently, breaking up the fluid into minute particles. That way the taste registers on the taste buds and olfactory centers at the back of the tongue."

PASTOR DENIES GIRL'S CHARGE

MARSHALL, Mich., Feb. 7.—(INS.)—The Rev. George Lyon pleaded not guilty when arraigned here today on charge of betraying a 17-year-old high school girl. He was placed under $1,000 bond and held for trial at the March term of circuit court.

"I'm innocent and that is all I have to say."

The rudy cheeked Tekonsha Baptist minister has reiterated this statement since his arrest yesterday on complaint of Miss Ruth Thomas, 17, member of the accused minister's Sunday school class.

The minister's young wife sobbed when he was taken from their home. She has steadfastly declared faith in his innocence.

Wales Welcomes Argentina Envoys

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales, representing his royal father, today extended an official greeting to a delegation from Argentina headed by Vice President Roca. The envoys are here to return the prince's visit to South America in 1931 and also to negotiate important trade agreements.

Sand Ledge Wingroves Hosts to 'Dick' Du Pont

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., Feb. 7.—Up here on Sand Ledge, that precarious perch along Chestnut Ridge, they know him as Dick, that likeable young "aviator feller."

Along the Mayfair—Sewickley, Palm Beach, Wilmington, Del.—he is Richard C. duPont, 24 years old; a blonde Adonis, and the debs and sub-debs' hearts go pit-a-pat when he flies by.

Dick, or Richard, even so, he'll be remembered in the backwoods country as a regular fellow and a mighty nervy one at that, for it isn't every day that a young man like him comes swooping out of the clouds to week-end among the hardy mountaineers.

But, we'll let Harry Wingrove, host to the duPont millions, tell it. The grizzled old mountaineer knew his guest only as Dick, "a flying feller from over East somewhere." He said:

"We was just sittin' here Saturday afternoon when Mom yelled, 'Here comes one o' them flyin' machines.' Before the words are hardly outen her mouth th' critter's rollin' down the pasture.

"I yelled to my boy Harry to run down and harness up the team while I pulled on m' boots and Mom and me run out. When we got over in the field the snow was comin' so fast we could hardly see, but there was that feller climbin' out over the side and his machine a-settin' just a few yards from the old stone pit.

"Yes, sir—if she'd rolled just a little further down, we'd a had a cripple to take back to town. But not this feller. He was just as calm as though nothin' had happened and after we'd said our 'howdies,' we just come on back to the house 'cause it's a-gettin' colder every escond.

"We was right pleased to have him stay with us—no use tryin' to get the machine out o' there till the snow stopped, so we just set around Saturday night and most o' Sunday a-playin' the organ and singin.' My boy is a right smart fiddler, Mom plays the organ and I can go on the accordion a bit, so we had a right nice time till he could get over to Greensburg for some help."

"Land sakes—why didn't he tell us. 'Twoul'n't a made any difference to us."

Dick explained:

"Those folks were wonderful. I didn't want them to feel embarrassed, so I just told them my name was Dick and I was flying the ship through for the duPonts. They certainly treated me fine; I never spent a more delightful week-end."

The wealthy young sportsman flier was loud in his praise of the Wingrove festive board. He was glad to get his ship out of the treacherous mountains, however, and headed once more toward the sunny coast of California, where he plans to spend several months in training at the Los Angeles Curtiss-Wright Flying School. He spent last night visiting friends in Sewickley.

Woman, 82, Killed In Fall From Roof

TREATS GOITRE WITH RADIUM

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Sufferers from toxic goitre now have the choice of several methods of treatment, and these include x-rays or radium, which show results "approximately equal to those of surgery," the American College of Physicians was told today.

Toxic goitre is one of several forms of the disease. Hitherto x-rays have been used with fair success, but Dr. George E. Pfahler, of Philadelphia, reported today that of 533 toxic cases treated with radiation instead of surgery, 87.9 per cent had been "cured or markedly improved."

In cases where there was no enlargement of the gland, 84 per cent were cured or improved.

Counterfeit Pays $30 Worth of City Taxes

The city of Pittsburgh has "been taken" for $30 worth of counterfeit money. It was paid in to the City Treasurer's office for taxes, and a resolution is being prepared for presentation to Council to reimburse the Treasury.

Two "phony" $5 bills were taken in last month. A $10 bill was received last May and another counterfeit $10 in July.

Clerks in the office failed to notice the bills, which were returned when the money was deposited in the bank.

YACHT MURDER TRIAL PUSHED

LONG BEACH, Cal., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Edmund Zeranski, a member of the crew of the vagabond yacht Carma, has testified that William J. Guy, Welsh adventurer, resembled the "mysterious man in gray" who asked for Capt. Walter Wanderwell a few minutes before the globe trotter was found slain.

Guy, 28, tall and handsome, is on trial charged with the slaying of Wanderwell aboard the Carma last December 5. The state assumes the "man in gray" who inquired for the ship's master through a porthole, was the slayer. Zeranski, a photographer, was to be recalled to the witness stand today.

Preceding Zeranski on the witness stand yesterday was the young blonde widow of Wanderwell, and Edward Burzinski, signed as cook for an expense-sharing world cruise Wanderwell had planned to start the week he was slain.

Stone Rumanian Minister's Train

THREE IN JAIL FOR FAKE CASH

Nathaniel Fullerton and his brother, Bert Fullerton, and Leonard L. Pierce were in the Clearfield County jail today, charged with making counterfeit five-cent pieces, quarters and half dollars. They were arrested in DuBois by Chief of Police R. R. Love, who turned them over to United States Secret Service operatives.

Pierce admitted, according to secret service operatives, that while previously confined in the Clearfield County jail on a liquor charge he was told how to make spurious coins by Lyman Haney, a government prisoner on a counterfeiting charge.

Fake coins and material for making them were said to have been found in the home of the Fullerton brothers.

PROPOSES PARK JOBS BE CUT

Thomas Liggett, downtown property owner, has written to County Commissioners suggesting where the payrolls in the county parks might be reduced.

Liggett, who recently told Commissioners the parks should be kept in their natural state and not cultivated like city areas, proposed elimination of two architects, a forester, a junior forester and an athletic supervisor, and inquired regarding the duties of persons listed on the payroll as "special representatives" at $3,600 a year.

He said sufficient fees should be raised from the golf courses, tennis courts and swimming pools to pay their carrying charges. He also questioned the payment of $1,800 a year to a golf professional in each park.

Traffic Committee Asks Accident Data

Information cards requesting motorists to report all traffic accidents to aid accident prevention studies will be distributed next week by the Better Traffic Committee. The provisions in state and city traffic laws requiring such reports under penalty of $10 fine in instances where an accident results in death or personal injury, or in property damage apparently exceeding $50, are pointed out in the cards.

The cards explain the law prohibits the use of accident reports as evidence against the person reporting and their only purpose is to serve as data for the study of accident causes so as to prevent future accidents.

Dance tonight Ends Insurance Meeting

Howard P. Dunham, state insurance commissioner of Connecticut, will speak tonight at the annual dinner dance of the Insurance Club of Pittsburgh, which closes the two-day sales congress in the Hotel William Penn.

Conferences and round table discussions occupied today's sessions. Selling problems were discussed. Other speakers tonight will be Walter H. Bennett, secretary-counsel of the National Association of Insurance Agents, and Clarence Axman, president, and underwriter, Eastern Underwriter.

Nearing to Discuss Second 5-Year Plan

BILL FOR TOLL SPAN OFFERED

To put the proposed Highland Park bridge under the class of self-liquidating projects so that it could be built with money borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Congressman Edmund P. Erk has presented a bill in Congress authorizing the Commissioners of Allegheny County to make this proposed span a toll bridge. The War Department has approved the plan.

The Commissioners, without taking definite steps, have agreed that the only way to make the bridges possible is to borrow money under the self-liquidating project scheme and pay back the amount through tolls.

SCHOOLS HERE AFFECTED BY NEW CODE

The proposed new school code which has been introduced in the Pennsylvania Legislature would make far-reaching changes in the school districts of Allegheny County, according to Supt. C. E. Dickey.

The details of what the code would do are not available, but, according to Supt. Dickey, it would bring about a substantial reduction in the school districts in the county, which now number 104.

Positions probably eliminated would include a number of supervisors, instructors in special subjects, secretaries, treasurers, auditors and solicitors.

HEARING SET

In Harrisburg, the House Education Committee has set February 21 as the date for a public hearing on the code. Until that time legislators were apparently inclined to allow the bill to rest in committee, according to word received here.

From all parts of the state, reports indicate that the code has aroused a storm and that the bill will meet with severe opposition. According to a wire, one member of the committee, Wilson G. Sarig, of Berks County, said:

"No one wants to mother the orphan."

The code represents the composite work of the Department of Justice, the Department of Public Instruction and a joint legislative committee.

2,000 DISTRICTS GO

It provides for the reduction of the 2,587 school districts in the state to about 500 and establishes a new basis for the distribution of subsidies. School directors, secretaries and various local groups have assailed the plan.

Supt. Dickey was unable to state how many districts would be eliminated in Allegheny County, declaring that any change of that nature would have to be made the subject of a survey.

Opposition to taking special subjects such as art and music out of the schools was expressed by Supt. Dickey. He said:

"It would be a step backward toward savagery."

Supt. Dickey stated that the county schools have not been able to have some things considered desirable by leading educators. He said:

"Frankly, we considered them beyond our reach."

TEACHERS RETAINED

Very few reductions in the number of teachers can be made in the county schools, he said. The boundaries of the city school district are not affected by the new school code, according to officials.

Teachers employed by the city Board of Public Education whose homes are outside the city, are in peril of losing their jobs today, according to word from Harrisburg.

Representative John R. Lynch, of Pittsburgh, has sponsored a bill to put an "embargo" on outside teachers. The bill also applies to Philadelphia.

According to Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of the Pittsburgh schools, approximately 20 per cent of the teachers in this school district are from other towns.

NEW TAX BOARD SETUP URGED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—Abolition of the city assessments boards in Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Clairton and Duquesne is ordered in a bill introduced in the Senate today by Senator William D. Mansfield. In essence the Mansfield bill is similar to proposals of Senator James J. Coyne, political foe of Mansfield, who had intended to introduce such legislation.

Under the terms of the Mansfield bill cities and school districts in Allegheny County are ordered to accept the assessments of the County Assessment Board, which would continue as an appointive body under the County Commissioners.

Changes in specific assessments are prohibited, and assessments may not be above "actual market value." April 1 is the dead line for assessments, three months after Pittsburgh begins the collection of taxes.

Mansfield estimates savings under his bill would be above $100,000 a year.

Coyne has talked on a board of assessment for both cities and county, which would be elective. He may put in a measure of this nature later.

Mrs. G. M. Lehman Dies in Hospital

Mrs. Corrine Stockton Lehman, wife of George M. Lehman, veteran city engineer and inland waterways authority, died last night in Presbyterian Hospital. Funeral services will be held tomorrow night in the T. B. Moreland funeral home, North Highland avenue, at 7:30 o'clock, followed by burial Thursday in Harrisburg, Mrs. Lehman's birthplace.

Mrs. Lehman, until her death, was an active member of the Civic Club and League of Women Voters. She leaves her husband.

Man Gets 3 Years For Slaying Wife

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 7—Pleading guilty to a charge of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the slaying of his wife, Anna Krich, 45, of Monessen, on November 26, Joseph Krich, 55, of Monessen, has been sentenced to serve from one and one-half to three years in Western Penitentiary. Krich beat his wife to death with a hammer.

Aaron Brands Statements by Coyne as False

tendent of public education, publicly said:

"That a more competent committee of impartial experts in the field of school administration could not be assembled."

The four educational experts from whom the board sought advice for possible economies were Dr. George D. Strayer, Columbia University; Dr. Charles H. Judd, Chicago University; Dr. John W. Withers, New York University, and Dr. Herbert S. Weet, superintendent, Rochester public schools.

Citing many board members have had 21 years' experience, Aaron declared:

"They were not nearly so sure of their position on the educational curriculum as were some of the board's critics who, perhaps, have not thought of school problems since they graduated from the grade or perhaps in some instances, the high school."

ANSWERS ATTACK

The attack on the board brought the retort:

"I deeply resent the attacks, whether veiled or otherwise, against the schools by those whose only purpose is to confuse the thinking of the public by diverting attention from their own plans and purposes. I object to having the people's schools used as a smoke screen for such attacks."

Citing budget figuers and costs, his reply said:

"Replying to Senator Coyne's statements, I have the following to say:

"Senator Coyne's assertion that the Pittsburgh Board of Public Education is the only tax levying body in the United States which has refused to recognize the desperate plight of home owners and business men, is unqualifiedly false.

1933 BUDGET

"The school budget for 1933 is $1,568,755.96 less than the budget for 1932 and $1,861,513.72 less than the budget for 1931, notwithstanding a material increase in the enrollment in the public schools. The board during the year 1932, through the co-operation of its employes and otherwise, effected savings amounting to $1,203,835.65 over the figures fixed in the budget for that year.

"A tremendous sum of money has been saved for those who pay school taxes. It is only because collections have dropped from 92 per cent in normal times to 78 per cent in 1932, that it was necessary to levy 11¾ mills for 1933. If the normal amount of tax collections were obtainable for 1933 the levy could and would have been properly and safely fixed at 9½ mills.

"Senator Coyne's statement that the findings of his committee relative to outrageous executive salaries, overhead expense and particularly money paid to the consulting engineer, have been sustained by the findings of the Citizens Committee on Business and Financial Procedure which the Board of Public Education at my suggestion appointed, is contrary to fact and untrue.

"Relative to Senator Coyne's implication that we could have used more than $2,000,000 to reduce the tax levy for the year 1933, I merely desire to call attention to the conclusion reached in the report of the Citizens Committee appointed by the board:

"'Your committee has arrived at the unanimous opinion that considering all relevant features as above noted, the budget has been prepared on a fair and reasonable basis, and that no change can be made in the tax levy for 1933.'"

Autos to Replace Road Police 'Cycles

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—If sometime in the future an automobile drives up alongside your car, don't think it's an invitation to race. It may be a state highway patrolman.

Secretary of Revenue Leon D. Metzger yesterday revealed that patrolmen eventually will use automobiles instead of motorcycles. The change will be made gradually as each motorcycle wears out. Automobiles will permit the use of radios and will mean greater safety for the patrolmen, he pointed out.

SENATE SPLIT DOOMS REPEAL OF PRIMARY

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—Irreconcilable differences between the Philadelphia Republican organization and rural Senators attached to the Republican state organization have killed the Prince-Chapman bill to repeal the direct primary act.

William S. Vare, leader of the Philadelphia organization, last night sent to the Senate through Harry C. Davis, chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Philadelphia, direct word that he was not satisfied with the bill in the form which accorded to Philadelphia only 82 out of 416 delegates in proposed conventions.

Counter proposals were made which would give Philadelphia a delegate strength proportionate to the tremendous organization majorities the eastern city is able to marshal in a primary.

UPSTATE HOSTILE

These were distinctly unsatisfactory to rural Senators, and the organization Senator best qualified to speak for that group today said the primary bill could be considered as finished business. Senator John S. Howell, chairman of the Elections Committee, was insistent today that the issue eventually would come to a vote, but he lacked the sympathy of a majority of the Senators, many of whom object to being put on record on a bill which is hopeless of passage.

The death of the primary repealer is a distinct setback for the Republican organization, directed by State Chairman Edward Martin. For months the rural contingent had been stimulating sentiment for the old convention system through repeal of the primary, seeing in this the possibility of nominating Martin as the Republican candidate for Governor next year. Unable to muster assistance from Philadelphia, despite the efforts of James M. Hazlett, Republican city chairman of Philadelphia, and a political partner of Martin, the organization failed at the first hurdle.

BILL NOT SCHEDULED

The best evidence that the above is a correct presentation of the situation is that when committee announcements were made for today, no mention of the Elections Committee was scheduled.

Defeated on the primary repealer, the organization now professes a sudden sympathy for the Woodward bill, passed last night in the Senate, preventing any one being the candidate for nomination in more than one primary. This is Democratic doctrine, and long has been urged by the minority party as a protection of its rights against invasion by quasi-Republicans.

In the last primaries in Allegheny County for example, Congressmen-elect Dunn, of the Thirty-fourth District, and Ellenbogen, of the Thirty-third District, were defeated for nomination in the Republican primary, but secured Democratic nomination, under which they were elected. The Woodward bill was before the Senate last night. It was passed with only five dissenting votes. Among them were Senators Frank J. Harris, of Allegheny, and Benjamin Thompson, of Westmoreland. Harris, presumably a Republican, had five nominations in the last election.

Pinchot Appoints Relief Director

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—J. E. Gitt, Hanover, has been asked by the State Emergency Relief Board to accept the directorship of all community markets in the state, Gov. Pinchot said today.

Gitt is in charge of the York community market from which the food was purchased for the 5.5 cents a plate dinner for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt last Wednesday.

Sunday Sports Bill Passed by Penna. House

wrestling are specifically excepted from the legalized "healthful outdoor sports."

With the blue law modifier out of the way, the House Law and Order Committee prepared to act on measures to repeal the Snyder-Armstrong state prohibition enforcement act. A decision to report or kill the proposals will be reached after a public hearing.

SPEECHES LIMITED

Blue law modificationists, who had consistently predicted the measure would pass the House, assumed a passive role as the bill came before the House as a special order of business.

Supporters of the 139-year-old law consumed the greater part of the hour's debate, making a general appeal for preservation of the act which has stood intact since 1794.

Neither the sponsor of the new bill, Representative Louis Schwartz, Philadelphia, nor any of the members who have been most active in the two-year fight took the floor to urge its passage.

A few minutes after 1 p. m. the debate had run its course. Its early termination obviously surprised many of the veteran members and most of the throng which filled the aisles and galleries.

The roll was quickly taken, and after the tellers finally agreed upon the vote, the House had again transferred to the Senate the dispute few of the senatorial leaders welcome.

COMMITTEE READY

The Senate Law and Order Committee prepared to receive the bill immediately. Under plans announced last week the measure will be made subject to another public hearing.

An Allegheny Democrat, James L. Quinn, made the first appeal for approval of the bill. He pictured his constituents as laboring men and women who, though they believe in a "sacred Sabbath," also desire a "liberal Sunday." With them, he said, "the Blue Laws are not popular."

Only one Allegheny vote was cast against the measure, that of Representative William Walker, of Avalon. Representative Dwyer was absent, and the other 25 members voted for the bill.

Penna. Motor Fund Revenues Decline

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—With 95,669 fewer registrations of motor vehicles last month than a year ago, the state's motor fund receipts were $1,387,577 less at the end of January than on the same date of 1932.

The drop in registration of passenger automobiles was 91,747, a decrease of $890,366 in revenues, and 1,057 in registration of trucks, a revenue drop of $273,402.

Motor vehicle operators' licenses issued to the end of last month were 59,879 fewer than a year ago with a drop of $121,390 in revenue.

New Orleans Bank Run Danger Over

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 7.—(INS.)—New Orleans' "million dollar" bank run was at an end today. All banks in the city opened for business as usual and reported only normal withdrawals and renewal of accustomed deposits.

Emergency loans totaling more than $20,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had saved the situation after Gov. O. K. Allen Saturday proclaimed a legal holiday closing all banks in Louisiana, ostensibly to honor the late President Woodrow Wilson.

Aid for Hospitals By Cities Proposed

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Senator Frank Fay Mercer, had a bill in the Assembly today to amend the third class city law by empowering cities to make appropriations to state-aided hospitals.

STATE RELIEF PLAN HIT IN ASSEMBLY

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Policies of the State Emergency Relief Board were assailed in both branches of the Legislature today. About 4,000,000 residents of York presented the House and Senate petitions urging abolition of the board's community market system of distributiog food to unemployed.

Simultaneously Senator George L. Reed, Dauphin, introduced a bill which would appropriate $30,000,000 for unemployment relief for allocation independent of the board. The money would be given directly to local poor districts over a period of 21 months.

Gov. Pinchot today announced J. E. Gitt, Hanover, in charge of the York commissary, had been asked by the relief board to assume the directorship of all community markets in the state.

TWO BILLS PASS

The Senate, which recessed at 11:45 a. m. until 4:30 p. m., passed two Senate bills finally. That of Senator Homsher, Lancaster, permits the Highway Department to borrow money from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance toll bridges. The Harvey (Luzerne) bill authorizes third-class cities to regulate and license itinerant merchants.

Bills passed finally by the House included:

Senator Scott, Centre, making counties from which prisoners are sentenced responsible for damages and trial expenses of penitentiary inmates. Senate concurrence on amendment is required.

BRIDGE LEGISLATION

Representative Baker, Union, requiring the commonwealth to take over and maintain bridges on the rural road system. Under the bill the state takes over the structures on the 20,000-mile program adopted by the Legislature in 1931 on recommendation of Gov. Pinchot.

Representitive Hutton, Franklin, permitting corporations, copartnerships and associations to exercise discretion in authorizing persons or directly making entries on records of mortgages.

Senator Reed, Dauphin, making public bodies responsible for highways up to the line of private driveways.

Representative Simon, Clinton, requiring the commonwealth to pay 50 per cent of the construction cost and maintenance of county bridges.

Senator McClure, Delaware, requiring the state to pay all damages on lands appropriated for highway purposes.

LIMIT ON INTEREST

Limiting of interest on loans of $300 or less is provided in a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Charles Harmuth, Allegheny. The measure would limit the interest rate to 1½ per cent.

Representative Lynch, Allegheny, introduced a bill appropriating $5,000,000 for the biennium to go to cities of second class and second glass A for street and highway purposes. The money would come from the motor license fund.

The Rhodes bill granting the Department of Revenue the right to collect personal property taxes was referred to a sub-committee by the House Counties Committee for study. The measure follows the proposal of Gov. Pinchot in effecting economy in local costs of government.

Driver Breaks Nose As Auto Hits Pole

Icy streets early today caused an automobile driven by Philip Mazzocco, 22, of 1915 Murray avenue, to skid in Chateau street, near Western avenue, and crash into a pole. Mazzocco, his nose broken, was treated at Presbyterian Hospital.

Bills for Hospitals Offered in Assembly

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Senator Benjamin H. Thompson, Westmoreland, has proposed an appropriation of $65,000 for the Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington.

Two other bills were by Representative Lynch, Allegheny, appropriating $90,000 to the Passavant Hospital, Pittsburgh, and Representative Scorza, Allegheny, appropriating $120,000 to the Tuberculosis League, Pittsburgh.

PRIVATE BANK CONTROL URGED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Provisions for state regulation of private banking, now unsupervised in Pennsylvania, are contained in a proposed new banking code presented to the General Assembly last night.

Pennsylvania, with 65 private bankers, is one of three states in which this form of banking is not supervised by the commonwealth.

Under the code's provisions, the state Department of Banking is allowed supervision of banks, trust companies and building and loan associations. Wider powers are granted to the Secretary of Banking in possession of a closed bank, trust company and building and loan association.

For the first time the department would be authorized to examine corporations, associations and persons affiliated with banks, trust companies and building and loan associations where their financial safety is concerned.

Immediate payment of dividends to depositors of closed institutions is permitted under the bill.

Troops in City If Sales Tax Fails – Cermak

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—(Universal.)—If the State Legislature does not enact a sales tax measure to raise money for emergency relief purposes, it will be necessary to call the militia to Chicago, according to Mayor Cermak. He said:

"We have about reached the limit in borrowing from the government. If the bill fails it means the relief stations for the unemployed will close. On the day they close I shall call upon the Governor to send the militia to Chicago. It will cost the people more to maintain peace than it will to pay the sales tax."

COMPENSATION PROBE ASKED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Asking a new deal for the "half-remembered man," Francis H. Bohlen, University of Pennsylvania Law School professor, last night urged the appointment of a commission to investigate the operation of the Workmen's Compensation act.

Bohlen, repealist candiate, defeated in 1930 for the Republican United States senatorial nominations, told Democratic members of the House of Representitives there are reports of "slackness, incompetence and inattention" prevalent in the administration of the act.

JOINS IN RATE BOOST FIGHT

Asserting undue prejudice and unjust discrimination against coal shippers in the Pittsburgh district will result in injury to the general business and trade of Pittsburgh, the Chamber of Commerce has joined the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau in a fight against a proposed 30-cent increase in rates on certain lake cargo coal shipments.

Railroads have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to increase the rates on coal shipped by rail and vessel to ports on the Great Lakes between the Straits of Mackinac and Saulte Ste Marie on the west and Brockville, Ontario, on the east. The carriers claim the rail-water route is used because the rates are lower than the all-rail rates to the same points.

McCANN'S February Fruit Festival

THERE'S no reason on earth why you shouldn't incorporate an abundance of fresh fruits and vegetables into your meal planning. Indeed, they are NOT expensive . . . not at McCann's . . . in spite of the fact that not all of them are in season. You'll find McCanns fresh fruits and vegetables astonishingly reasonable in price . . . selling for very little more than they do in season. And talk about variety: here is assembled almost every known vegetable and fruit grown. You'd never know to look at the McCann fruit and vegetable counter that this was the month of February.

That's the purpose back of this February Fruit Festival. We want to show you how easy it is to provide your family with an abundance of vitamin-rich fresh fruits and vegetables. We want you to know how inexpensive McCann prices are . . . and how great the variety from which to select your wants is. You owe it to yourself to come and see and buy.

COX EXPECTED TO GO HOME

After an absence of three weeks, Father Cox expects to be out of Mercy Hospital tomorrow and back in the rectory of Old St. Patrick's. His health is improved greatly, but it will be several days before he can be as active as he was before he went to the hospital. However, he will be where he can supervise personally the big job of feeding the daily bread line and furnishing baskets of food to needy families. And, out of the hospital, he will be in a position again to make personal appeals for aid in his work of taking care of the jobless. He hopes to make his regular WJAS broadcast at 12:30 Thursday, and probably will get a big welcome from the thousands of listeners who follow him on this station three times a week.

The Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph subscription drive is still meeting with gratifying results. For every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page, Father Cox gets a liberal cash commission for his unemployment relief fund. The Sun-Telegraph already has paid him more than $800, aside from getting many donations in the way of food, clothing and money through the frequent appeals that are made in this newspaper.

I. O. O. F. Lodges To Consolidate Here

Consolidation of Angerona Lodge, No. 289, and Schenley Park Lodge, No. 1037, I. O. O. F., will take place at 3412 Fifth avenue, February 14, the merged lodges to be known as Oakland Lodge, No. 13, I. O. O. F.

Following the consolidation, there will be election and installation of officers. Frank Shannon, secretary of the I. O. O. F., Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, and manager and editor of the Pennsylvania Odd Fellow, will be a guest.

SUNDAY SHOW TO AID HOME

Continuing their policy of giving Sunday food shows for the benefit of the poor of Pittsburgh, the Warner Brothers, under the local direction of Harry Kalmine, announces a show for next Sunday at the downtown Warner Theater. As usual, the Sun-Telegraph will co-operate with the required publicity so long as food only—no cash—will be accepted as tickets.

The donation obtained at next Sunday's show will be turned over to the Jewish Home for Babies and Children, 5508 Breckenridge avenue, of which Mrs. Barnett Davis is the president. The organization behind this home is far reaching—big enough to fill the theater two or three times. For this reason children will positively not be admitted next Sunday unless accompanied by parents. Incidentally the home is urgently in need of assistance.

It is human nature to give least thought to the things with which we are most familiar. Consequently people don't think about the sugar they use.

But, sugar is the one essential food to which you should give most serious attention.

It is made in many countries—made under widely different sanitary conditions.

What do you know about the Sugar You Use?

There is a way in which you can be certain that the sugar you and your family use is pure, clean, wholesome sugar.

WOMAN JOYFUL AT ROOSEVELT INVITATION

"Aunt Maggie," as she is known to her friends, said November 18, when she was celebrating her ninety-fifth birthday:

"I would like to see Roosevelt. I look at all of his pictures in the paper and I like them."

T. G. Dykema, sales manager of the Pennsylvania Glass Products Company, who lives at 808 South Millvale avenue, saw her wish in a story in the Sun-Telegraph. As he is a friend of President Roosevelt, he sent him the story and asked if the meeting could be arranged.

Dykema received a reply from the President's secretary today which read:

"Mr. Roosevelt has asked me to tell you he has written Miss Lambert inviting her to call upon him at the White House, if she should ever be in Washington. He thanks you for bringing this to his attention."

'BUY AMERICAN' CAMPAIGN PRAISED

The Associated Glass and Pottery Manufacturers, through J. M. Hammer, executive secretary, in a letter to William Randolph Hearst, has commended the "Buy American" movement and the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst papers for sponsoring it.

Mr. Hammer wrote:

"Your most courageous stand in behalf of American workmen and wages—the best in the world—is most timely and we are certain it will be of real assistance to the economic welfare of our country.

"Only American products can keep American farmers and workers prosperous. Our American manufacturers make their investments here and they want to pay the highest possible wages so that prosperity can be as widespread as possible. They realize that only through general prosperity can they prosper.

"During our recent annual glass and pottery exhibit in Pittsburgh, 'Buy American' was emphasized. We found buyers much interested. We give much credit to the arousing of this interest to the very active and helpful work of the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst papers."

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Saves $2. No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, lasting relief.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This simple mixture soothes and heals the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

COAL FIRM SUES OVER U. S. TAX

The Pittsburgh Coal Company filed a suit in Federal Court against D. B. Heiner, collector of internal revenue in the Pittsburgh district, seeking to recover $47,942, with interest from January 1, 1927, paid as annual special excise tax of $1 on each $1,000 of the corporation's capital stock for the year ended June 30, 1926, as estimated by the government.

The company asserts a fair value of its capital stock was not over $50,000,000, and not $97,942,246, as fixed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, on which collection was made. It was levied under section 700, Revenue Act of 1924.

reduce the number of representatives by half, which would leave twice as many as are needed for real work, then try to elect Congressmen that would be worth more than $9,000 and pay them more.

IOWA SENDS notice that farmers plan a nation-wide strike. President Reno, of the Farmers' Holiday Association, says there will be a break "between cities and farms," and cities "won't know anything about it until it happens." Then they won't have anything to eat.

The only remedy, he says, is for the government to do something.

Farmers conspiring to starve the cities, while twelve million people wander up and down idle, might be a good idea and might not.

FARMERS say to the government:

"You must give us relief, that is your JOB."

The American Federation of Labor issues an ultimatum telling the government that it must "co-ordinate a comprehensive program of recovery. That is the government's JOB."

The federation says:

"It is time to use national resources and save human lives."

JUST HOW would you use them? The government's Reconstruction Finance Corporation tried to save some banks. And some of them allowed to borrow eighty-nine million dollars have closed since the borrowing. That "saving" was not a success.

THERE ARE ten thousand plans. Some would have the government put a million men to work washing gold in streams where there may or may not be gold.

Others advocate many kinds of inflation, while still others, those who have some money left, yell "ruin," at the freak word, "inflation."

Farmers, Federation of Labor, unorganized workers and white collar men ARE THE UNITED STATES. They are the GOVERNMENT, they are the COUNTRY. Nobody can do for them what they can't do for themselves; there is nobody to hold responsible, nobody to punish.

The country is like Frost's farmer, who decided to educate a powerful young bull calf and yoked himself up with the calf. The calf started downhill and the farmer, compelled to go with him, shouted:

"Stop us, somebody, darn our fool souls."

The middle-aged remember that picture, the country is giving a good imitation of it. We made our mistake when we yoked ourselves up to Europe's war, sent Europe ten billions of dollars, and three million young men, whose pensions and disability will cost the treasury fifty billions of dollars before the bills are all paid.

MAY'S & LIGGETT'S DRUG STORES

ILLUSION:
The stage is all set for target practice. The magician lifts his bow and aims an arrow at the bull's-eye. His lovely assistant then steps in front of the target and he shoots the arrow—apparently through her—and it fixes itself in the very center of the bull's-eye! And she smiles through it all while the audience gasps.

EXPLANATION:
The arrow which the marksman "shoots through" his assistant simply folds up into the crossbow! The arrow which is actually embedded in the target is shot by the girl herself from a belt concealed under her dress. She releases a little spring, the arrow unfolds, and shoots straight into the bull's-eye! It is all done in a flash! So quickly the eye cannot detect the girl's movements! To heighten the impression that the arrow has gone right through, the girl releases a ribbon from the front of her dress—the continuation, apparently, of the ribbon attached to the arrow in the target.

It's fun to be fooled— ...it's more fun to KNOW

Like to see through tricks? Then let's look at another . . . the illusion in cigarette advertising called "Cigarettes and Your Throat."

The audience is told that by certain magic processes tobacco can be made as soothing as cough medicine.

EXPLANATION: The easiest cigarette on your throat is the cigarette that is made from the choicest ripe tobaccos. Cheap, raw tobaccos are, as you would naturally expect, harsh in their effects upon the throat. If you have to consider your throat, the quality of the tobacco in your cigarette is important.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Camels are as non-irritating as a cigarette can be because Camels use choice, ripe, costlier tobaccos.

And because of the matchless blending of these costlier tobaccos Camels have a rich bouquet and aroma..a cool, delicious flavor.

Readers Want Gibbons Back, More Songs by Rudy Vallee And Kate Smith

By AIRCASTER

(And the Worried Wishers)

Herman, the genie of the wonderful lamp I told you about yesterday will go nerts this week trying to gratify, fulfill and otherwise handle the wishes of readers who have swamped this pillar with their radio desires when they learned what a little rubbing of the lamp did for me. My only wish today, that there might be sufficient space to include 'em all.

Read these—and weep!

* * *

That Gracie Allen finds her brother.

That announcers stop telling the stories of dramas before the start.

That Kate Smith sings on more nights per week.

Better programs in the A. M.

More time for Singin' Sam.

More old songs by the Mills Brothers.

That Gibbons come back as a news commentator.

More baritones and fewer sopranos.

That writers of rural sketches would realize that ruralites are not mental deficients.

That the country doctor would stop talking like an ignoramus. Real country doctors would appreciate it.

That all impersonators go to Haitii.

That they would take "cuckoos" and the Sisters of the Skillet with them.

That advertisers would shorten their spiels.

That Aircaster would say nice things about Cantor. (So?)

Fewer song repetitions by air artists.

That W. W. and Bernie resume their spoofing.

That Myrt and Marge and Plain Bill remain on indefinitely.

That themes never be abolished.

That the Genie take off the Crime Club drivel and substitute yarns by Van Dyne or Edgar Wallace.

That Julia Sanderson might stop that giggling.

* * *

And that is only some of the week's work laid out by the readers for the poor genie. Space does not permit an airing of other requests today, but we'll take up others later.

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

We have just disorganized the "signs of spring department" and have gone back to feeding the birds as the major theme of Globe-Trotting.

* * *

These globe-trotters in Coulter write:

"We would like to know if the one who was talking or the one who was grunting was the groundhog. There was no difference between the two."

Hello, Pal.

* * *

And the latest contract bridge remark directed to vulnerable opponents is:

"They're that way."

Sometimes very significant.

* * *

Loole, Glenfield—How can we answer that question? One was a concert and the other was a vaudeville performance with a complete cast.

* * *

Suggested slogan:

"We know it. We'll find out, or it hasn't happened."

But how about those every-once-in-a-while sleepy 9 o'clock Glib Tripper periods?

Wonder what the surprise mentioned by Chris Walter and J. C. Kilroy ill be at the opening of the Associated Artists Show in Carnegie Institute Thursday night? There was no International this year, and this will be Pittsburgh's gala art night.

* * *

Newspaper lads have all turned playwrights. They're thinking up subtly-barbed skits directed at politicians to be presented at the annual gridiron dinner. The radiolites will not be spared, and we'll let you know the worst.

* * *

B. A. M., of Glen Osborne, after reading here about old coins, discovered three ancient half-dollars. But not bearing that expensive "O" mint mark.

Any half-dollar is getting to be rare coin, for most of us.

Seibel Discusses Theater Tonight

A quarter-hour of fun with jovial Uncle Bob and inquisitive little Betty as they read the Sun-Telegraph comic pages is listed on WCAE at 6 p. m.

Speaking from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, flashes the latest bulletins to WCAE and WJAS listeners at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m., and 6:30 p. m.

Charming Simplicity
Pattern 2531
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

by Anne Adams

You'll walk as sprightly as the fair lady sketched when you wear this stunning frock. It boasts such charming simplicity . . . the soft cowl neckline, drop shoulders to which are joined very tricky new sleeves, and slimming skirt seaming. We'd love it of crepey silk—plain or a dainty spring print. So very easy to make, too!

Pattern 2531 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for this pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

SEND FOR THE NEW SPRING FASHION BOOK. Containing 32 colorful pages of lovely Paris-inspired models for ever spring need, this beautiful book shows how to be chic at every hour of the day. Every style is practical, and easy to make. There are models for the larger figure, and pages of delightful junior and kiddie styles. PRICE OF CATALOG, 15 CENTS. CATALOG AND PATTERN TOGETHER, 25 CENTS. Address all mail orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.

Policeman Slain In Holdup Battle

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Police Sergt. Lester Jones, 51, was shot to death with a machine gun when he and Patrolmen Michael McAllen and Willard Hawkins walked in on a holdup at the Peoples Motor Coach and Bus Garage here today. One of the five bandits was believed wounded in the gun fight when Jones' men returned the fire.

Following the battle, the five bandits fled on foot, leaving behind a stolen car, in which were found five high-powered rifles and other equipment. The guns were identified as part of the loot stolen from a sheriff's office at Franklin, O., about 10 days ago.

3 NEW CACHETS FOR AIRMAIL

Pittsburgh collectors will be interested in three new cachets ordered by the Postoffice Department as a result of recent extensions of air mail routes. The postmaster at Boston will be furnished a cachet at the inauguration of the Boston to Albany service on Feb. 12.

The postmaster at Columbus, O., will inaugurate the service from Detroit to Columbus on Feb. 10 with a special cachet, while the postmaster at Buffalo will be given a special cachet when service starts on Feb. 11 from Detroit to Buffalo across Lake Erie.

Stronger than He Was at Twenty

FIFTY-FIVE years old, and still going strong!

Do you want the secret of such vitality? It isn't what you eat, or any tonic you take. It's something anyone can do—something you can start today and see results in a week! All you do is give your vital organs the right stimulant.

A famous doctor discovered the way to stimulate a sluggish system to new energy. It brings fresh vigor to every organ. Being a physician's prescription, it's quite harmless. Tell your druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Get the benefit of its fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and that pure pepsin. Get that lazy liver to work, those stagnant bowels into action. Get rid of waste matter that is slow poison so long as it is permitted to remain in the system.

The new energy men and women feel before one bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin has been used up is proof of how much the system needs this help.

Get a bottle of this delicious syrup and let it end that constant worry about the condition of the bowels. Spare the children those bilious days that make them miserable. Save your household from the use of cathartics which lead to chronic constipation. And guard against auto-intoxication as you grow older.

Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is such a well known preparation you can get it wherever drugs are sold and it isn't expensive.

"34 days without a Run—"

I WAS "UNLUCKY" with stockings. Always getting runs. Especially when I had a date. Embarrassing? Yes, and mighty expensive! Runs kept me poor. Then . . .

"IT'S NOT LUCK," a friend said. "Rubbing stockings with cake soap often causes runs. It destroys the elasticity of the silk so it breaks, instead of giving. Listen—

"YOU CAN cut runs 75% by washing stockings the Lux way. It saves elasticity." Now I use only Lux for stockings. And this pair has worn 34 days without a run or a hole!

The LUX Way to Save Elasticity

Wash this 2-minute way:
1. One teaspoon of Lux for each pair.
2. Add lukewarm water, squeeze suds through, rinse twice.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens threads, fades color. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Mrs. R. Hughes washed 448 pieces with 1 box of LUX!
36 pairs silk stockings
38 pieces silk lingerie
38 pairs socks
40 children's dresses
173 children's undies
60 towels and washcloths
40 diapers
20 children's sheets

As SMOOTH as an Old Gold

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight boxing champion of the world

That's the smoothness of an OLD GOLD. A harmony of the world's finest tobacco, queen-leaf Turkish and domestic tobacco; prime-cured, free of all hot-burning artificial flavorings. A happy blend of winning throat ease and taste appeal.

BENEDUM - U. S. TAX SUIT CUT $66,000,000

M. L. Benedum, Pittsburgh financier who was credited with swinging the vote of the Pennsylvania delegation to Franklin D. Roosevelt at the Democratic convention and who was a leading supporter of the Roosevelt presidential campaign, has won a partial victory against the government's suit to collect an income tax deficiency of $80,000,000, it has become known with the filing of briefs in the case.

Attorneys for the Department of Internal Revenue have slashed about $66,000,000 from their claims against Benedum, his associate, F. B. Parriot, of Tulsa, Okla., and their former company, the Tex-Penn Oil Company, in their briefs filed with the United States Board of Tax Appeals.

ORIGINAL CLAIM

The original claim in the suit was for an alleged deficiency in taxes in 1919 of $58,384,639. With interest the indebtedness would have amounted to about $80,000,000.

Hearings were held on the case last fall. The briefs filed today indicate that the government has reduced its claim to $14,000,000 of which about $3,000,000 is interest.

The date for final argument of the case has not been set.

The tax claim involves a profit alleged to have been realized when Benedum and Parriot acquired 1,007,834 shares of stock in the Transcontinental Oil Company in 1919 when the company took over the Benedum-Parriot interests in the Tex-Penn Oil Company.

STOCK VALUE

The original tax claim was based on a value of $47.50 a share placed on the stock, since it averaged this price between June 21 and August 1, 1919.

Testimony given in the case by the Benedum interests was to the effect that the stock had no real market value at that time and that the market was "rigged." The stock was not actually disposed of for years.

The testimony is given as the reason for reducing the valuation of the stock to $12 a share in the brief filed by the government attorneys.

PARK COMBATS KLINE APPEAL

District Attorney Andrew T. Park and others associated with him in the prosecution of Mayor Charles H. Kline for malfeasance in office, will present reasons to the Supreme Court why that tribunal should not review the decision of the Superior Court, sustaining Kline's conviction.

Chief Justice Robert S. Frazer, of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, yesterday granted a rule on District Attorney Park and District Attorney Edgar H. Negley, of Butler County, to show cause why the request of Kline for the right of appeal should be denied. The counsel have until February 16 to make reply, the rule having been made returnable as of that date.

Should the Supreme Court refuse Kline's application to have the case reviewed, that might end his fight. The petition filed last Friday by Attorney Charles B. Prichard, asking permission to file an appeal, was sent direct to Justice Frazer.

Small Boy Dies After Being Burned

Burns suffered when his pajamas caught fire while standing near a gas stove in the bathroom of his home yesterday caused the death of William White, 5, of 512 North Sheridan avenue, according to a Coroner's report.

Mrs. James White said her son was in the bathroom January 26, unknown to her. She said she heard him shriek, "Mother!" and running to the room, found him ablaze. After extinguishing the fire with a rug, the child was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

'Runaway' Truck Crashes Into Home

Mrs. Rebecca Fleider, 60, today was recovering from shock suffered late yesterday when a heavy truck crashed into the front of the residence of Joseph Kitman, 332 Dinwiddie street. Mrs. Fleider occupied a room on the second floor of the house.

According to police, a truck owned by the Center Lumber Company backed down 150 feet on Dinwiddie street and crashed into the front of the house. They said the emergency brake on the truck had become released while the driver, Elmer W. Miller, was delivering lumber. Mrs. Fleider witnessed the crash from the window of her room.

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(Take that, and that and that!)

That the Ainu women of a certain sector in Japan tatoo mustaches on their lips. (Yoohoo, Miss Dietrich!)

That when Wolpin's, an actor-patronized restaurant near the Palace closed—one ham owed the place $1,200 for only COFFEE AND CAKE.

That the one sight that amazes foreigners in New York City is watching the fire engines speed to a fire. (In Yurrop they don't.)

That ice and steam are dry. Ice is only wet when it melts, and then it's not ice. Steam is both invisible and dry. (Like this fact).

That George Price claims to have found the difference between passion and asthma. (Sure! Asthma lasts!)

That it costs N. Y. C. $19,695 a day to light its streets.

That you could put the whole population of the world into the state of Texas and have less than a dozen persons to the acre there.

That dental scientists now claim that they can cure a toothache immeejitly with a shot of ultra-violet ray. (Oh, sure!)

That in "My Pal, the King"—the window Tom Mix was supposed to have jumped through was made of candy. (Oooh, was the big mans hoited?)

That some of the members of the Cloud Club (atop a famous skyscraper) suffer from aerophobia (fear of high places to you!), so they also have (next to the top floor) a room built like a cellar!

That the wrist watches with the alarms are swelegant. If you have a date and may forget it—you set it to wake you up while walking.

That an Oriental, they say, won't harm a man with whom he has eaten salt. (But I don't like salt!)

That orange blossoms are the symbol of marriage in this country. In China it is the peach and in India the mango.

That dogs are supposed to have wet noses, because (so goes the legend) the pair on Noah's Ark stopped a leak with their schnozzles.

That there is only one more Friday the 13th this year. (Don't start worrying—it's not until October).

That after all the fuss they stirred up, the technocrats came off Scott free. (Awright, awright, I won't do it again!)

That most singers stick their lower lips out so far (a la Chevalier, et al) to get heavier tones.

That Gen. (Civil War) Sherman was a great humanitarian. He destroyed property instead of lives to accomplish military feats.

That in Mexico it is considered poor manners to let your friend be first to light up. You should light first to waste the fumes.

That the stables at Hialeah Park, Miami, have radios because music soothes and quiets the gee-gee's nerves.

That Pat Rooney was the first "single" act to draw $100 a week in vaudeville. (A namesake died recently—not Pat.)

That in England a butcher who kills livestock is not allowed to sit in on a jury. (Because he has no mercy, I presume.)

That you photograph phatter than you are. (Hello, Kate!)

That those kids in Nassau, who dive for coins, don't trust each other, and hold the found coins in their cheeks.

That Los Angeles, Cal., is the largest city in the U. S., in area, and its suburb, Hollywood, contains most of the biggest heads.

That Florence, Italy, is pronounced Firenze.

That there is an old law prohibiting the selling of gems in N. Y. after sundown, but no one pays any attention to it.

That Frederic J. Haskin says the controversy about Queen Mary's hats should be stopped! That the fact is that the hat, like the crown, is hereditary. It was Queen Victoria's and is still going strong.

That the jig-saw puzzles originated in an insane asylum.

That you can win bets that hot water weighs more than cold water. (And not because I'm usually in it!)

Noel Coward's 'Cavalcade' Is Supreme Triumph Of Hollywood

By GEORGE SEIBEL

You don't feel like piling up superlatives of praise after seeing the Noel Coward "Cavalcade," shown on the screen at the Nixon Theater last night—you feel like sitting down and just thinking. And, after ripe thought, you decide that this is not a picture at all. It is an epic; it is a satire; it is a newspaper; it is a sermon. It carries you along like the mighty river of time—a river in which human beings are as drops of water and the current's flow is history. Nothing like this has ever been put on the screen before—nothing so vast or so stirring. And Noel Coward did it—the same man who put the airy wit into "Design for Living" also produced this heart-rending tragedy of our times.

George Seibel

The picture is conceived as the story of an English family from the Boer War to the present day. All the strands of life of all the members of the household are woven into the history of the Empire. You can find almost anything in the vast canvas—from a temperance sermon to a discourse on love's young dream, from the humors of childhood to the horrors of a Zeppelin raid.

Perhaps the highest point of tragedy is reached in the welter of scenes that chronicle the years of the war—men marching and dying, bombs bursting and skies aflame, while above the carnage and the reek of hell a crucifix looms in ghastly mockery of the fighting mob who call themselves Christian.

HOMER AND ST. JOHN

It is this that gives the picture its deeper import. It is a Homeric picture of wars, but it is also an Apocalypse of St. John. It is a more powerful indictment of war than "Journey's End" or "What Price Glory." It is no less powerful as an indictment of a world whose moral ideals have been wrecked in a whirlpool of jazz and rumba. There are scenes of tenderness and pathos, gleams of infectious humor, high visions of loyalty and hope. But much of it is as terrible as the scourge of Juvenal, lashing the back of a civilization gone mad with greed and hate.

Thousands and thousands of people are used in the sequences of this film. Squares filled with yelling mobs, from the relief of Mafeking to the Armistice—troop ships and trains jammed with soldiers—the funeral of Queen Victoria and the splendors of a royal reception—scene follows after scene of vast and stirring impressiveness.

And under it all we hear the voice of the poet whispering:

"What is it all but a trouble of ants, in the light of a million million of suns?"

LLOYD'S MASTERPIECE

Frank Lloyd, who made the production, has achieved a masterpiece. At his elbow stood Homer, Dickens, and St. Paul. It is history turned into a mighty sermon, yet as fascinating as the daily newspaper.

So much for the masses—for the architecture—for the symphonic setting.

No less may be said for the acting of the individual players. Clive Brook, as the head of the family whose fortunes are entwined with the epic, does the noblest and most human acting he has ever done. Diana Wynyard, the lovely English actress who plays the wife, is no less touching in her dignity and humanity. There is hardly a theatric touch in these appealingly natural portraits.

Herbert Mundin, as the servant who becomes owner of a pub, has many rich, humorous touches; Una O'Connor, as his wife Ellen, is a fitting foil.

There are four children who are the sweetest and most adorable youngsters ever assembled for any picture.

Beryl Mercer is full of gleaming quiddity as a cook; Frank Lawton and Ursula Jeans, John Warburton and Margaret Lindsay, do exquisite work as two pairs of young lovers. But the entire cast is so well chosen, so well directed, that it is hard to distinguish between such acting and the actuality of life. Nothing is overdone.

And when you have seen the last flash and heard the last strains of "Auld Lang Syne," you feel like sitting down and just thinking—just thinking.

Franchot Tone Makes Good

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7.—Newest sensation in Hollywood is young Franchot Tone, not so long ago president of the Cornell Dramatic Society, and more lately of Broadway.

On the strength of one picture, Joan Crawford's "Today We Live," Mr. Tone is proclaimed a find, and is assigned to portray the hero of "Bombshell," a story about Hollywood, which has been so kind to him.

Furthermore, he is to appear opposite Jean Harlow, another major star on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot.

This youthful leading man is not new, however, to the business of supporting prominent actresses. Was he not Lenore Ulric's vis-a-vis in "Pagan Lady?"

Around the lot, Tone is a very approachable young man with a nice smile and a humorous glint to his eye. He is a bachelor, lives in a small beach cottage at Santa Monica and is fed and groomed by a Korean house-boy.

But if you want to see him really nervous, just call him the new comet in the cinema sky.

Baritone Tops Variety Bill

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

George Dewey Washington, Negro baritone, lends distinction to the stage and screen program that opened yesterday in the Variety, with "The Secrets of Wu Sin," melodrama of Chinatown, as the photoplay feature.

It is one of those so-so films, involving a rich man engaged in smuggling Chinese into the country, a managing editor on his trail, a young Chinese who would like to be decent, and an elder one who doesn't want to let him. It has a murder plot against the editor, and a double romance, one between editor and a girl reporter and the other between the young Chinese and a girl of his own race. Lois Wilson and Grant Withers are featured.

Mr. Washington tops the stage acts and the audience noisily lets him know it by its reaction to three songs, "'Round the Turn of the Road," "Chloie" and "Brother Can You Spare a Dime." He puts plenty of feeling into his songs.

The acts, presented under the title of "The Song Shop," include a 'cello number by Nat Nazarro, Jr., dancing by the ensemble, a novelty by Senor and Carmita, and song, dance and comedy by Angell and Fuller. "Senor" is twins, a fact that explains some most rapid changes of costume in the act, which includes acrobatics and dancing.

All-Strauss Program Saturday Feature

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra will present an all-Strauss program, entitled "An Afternoon in Old Vienna," Saturday afternoon, February 11, in Carnegie Music Hall, at popular prices.

For the first time in the history of music a great symphony orchestra will devote an entire program to the works of the two famous brothers of Vienna, Johann Strauss, the waltz king, and his brother, Joseph. Eugene Ormandy, young conductor of the Minneapolis orchestra, has interspersed in the waltz program lively polkas, marches and even the overture to Johann Strauss' "Die Fledermaus," (The Bat).

Broadways of the World

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

BRISTOL HOTEL, VIENNA, Austria.—Here is a story that they told me the other night. It was told to me by the brother of the man in question, and it's as elementary an incident as you could possibly find. That, probably, is why I choose to write it. So:

Leopold, an Austrian youth, had a definite horror of warfare. It was more than a horror with him; it was a mental and physical fear that preyed on his mind at all hours of the day and night. Anything that smacked of a uniform made him turn away in fright. He was a photographer by trade, and he asked nothing more than to be left in peace.

The war was on, and it had been for a long time. Leopold was not a slacker. He wished that he had the courage to join the army. He prayed that something might happen to remove this terrible fear from his mind.

Just so long as he possibly could, Leopold evaded the draft. Still very young, he married in order that this might be another point in his favor. He managed to stay out of the Great War for more than three years. But eventually they nailed him.

They tried their best to make a soldier of him. They weren't training their troops very long in Austria in those dread days; a week's marching and drilling—and the youths were shoved right into the front lines. The other boys accepted their new deal fairly philosophically. But the moment they handed a gun to Leopold, he became violently ill.

The man was not shamming. He was definitely sick with fear. Had they sent him along with the other men, his heart would most certainly have stopped beating before very long. Someone must have been wise enough to know this. For Leopold was placed in a kitchen far behind the lines.

Thus, as those things sometimes happen, this youth survived the great struggle that had killed so very many. Still little more than a boy, he returned to his home and to the wife who loved him.

But what to do? How to earn a living? The man had a camera and a small knowledge of photography. His was the mind of a dreamer and he cared far more about photographing a beautiful tree than he did about taking pictures for profit.

More, these were sad times in the town in which they lived. People had difficulty in buying bread, let alone pictures. There was no work for Leopold to do. It was a question of moving along with his wife—or starving. Such a situation is not really a question; it's an answer. They moved along.

With his wife to urge him on and to attend to the business angles, Leopold managed to eke out a living. For the taking and developing of a family picture, Leopold collected a few pennies here and a few pennies there. His wife saw to it that they did not spend all their pennies, no matter how hungry they became. And, bit by bit, the pennies began to accumulate.

For the first time in his life, then, Leopold was a fairly happy man. His wife loved him and understood him, and he trusted her judgment implicitly. He was free, and he was not often hungry. He could wander through the fields he loved and take pictures that he knew would turn out beautifully.

He asked but little from life. With the war almost forgotten, he felt that he was getting much. He was happy . . . .

They came one day to a little town near the border. It was high in the mountains and Leopold, looking about, cried out with joy. This was scenery to delight his soul. He left his wife for a moment—she always objected to these pictures because she felt that the developments were a waste of money—and set up his camera.

While he was happily searching for the best location, his wife came running to him.

"Leopold," she cried, "you must be careful. There are fortifications near here. You must make no pictures. If you do, there may be trouble."

The man, almost ready to take his first view, closed his camera hastily. The very mention of fortifications had made him shiver. He wanted no more of this. The view was beautiful, but not worth the risk. The yearning of the artist hastily made room for the terror of the man. He smiled gratefully at his wife and retraced his steps.

Too late. Although he hadn't been aware of it, a group of soldiers had evidently been observing him for some time. They closed in on Leopold and his wife, seized his camera and told the man and woman that they were under arrest for photographing fortifications.

Brought before a commanding officer, Leopold was too frightened to talk. But his wife had no such fear. She swore that her husband was innocent, that they were taking pictures only to eke out a living—and that Leopold had made no pictures at all that morning. The commandant was impressed. But his tone was severe.

"Very well," he said. "If that is your claim and you are innocent, no harm will come to you. You will turn over your papers and all the photographic materials, and everything will be examined. If pictures have been made, I need not tell you of the outcome. You will be held on suspicion of being spies until everything has been investigated."

Spies. Have you any conception of what that word meant to Leopold? It frightened him so that his mind hung in the balance until, two days later, he was summoned again before the commanding officer.

"Luckily for you," he said, "your credentials are in order. Furthermore, we found no pictures in your camera. You and your wife are free to leave. And I would advise you to leave this section of the country as rapidly as possible."

You can imagine with what haste Leopold and his wife carried out those instructions. They literally fled from that border town, using fully half of their saved pennies to hasten their departure. And late that night, they sat in a small rooming house many miles away and talked of their narrow escape.

His wife, utterly fatigued, went to sleep. And Leopold, for the first time, took out his credentials to see that everything was in order.

He looked at one paper and then another. Suddenly, his eyes widened in terror. He squealed with fright, and his wife awakened. Shaking as if with the palsy, he dangled a paper before her eyes. It was a complete plan of the fortifications from which they had just been discharged!

How had it got there? Very simple. The commanding officer had been at fault. He had gathered Leopold's poor papers together without too much investigation. And among the documents he had handed back was this complete fortification plan.

It was too much for this man's brain. Before his wife could stop him, he was eating the paper upon which the plans had been drawn. He was laughing now—hysterically. And when the last scrap had been swallowed, he dashed madly from the room.

They found his body the next day at the base of a cliff. The fear that had saved him during the war had killed him in times of peace.

Russian Film Is Meant To Make Men Work

How those Russians love work! That appears to be the lesson of "Men and Jobs," the Muscovite film at the Avenue Cinema this week. They will slave and sweat to win a prize, a pair of boots or an accordeon, or just to show the American engineer how bolshevism greases your elbows.

The American engineer is known by his plus-fours and his portable victrola to play jazz. He also sends picture postcards home addressed to "Darling."

But these are just incidents in a symphony of toil, in which the whir of machinery blends with the musical accompaniment. The film is like a Rollo book for good little Communists to get them to work harder. It is apt to scare the Tired Business Man and discourage any parlor pink. This Utopia is irrigated with too much perspiration.

There's also a picture, "Unholy Love," in which H. B. Warner and Lila Lee do an Americanized Madame Bovary toboggan into sin and sorrow—not especially convincing.

Second Trial Gives Increased Award

Robert Weir & Sons wa awarded a verdict of $4,943 in Judge Harry H. Rowand's Court in the retrial of a suit against Irene G. Ivory, growing out of claims concerning erection of a concrete block dwelling at Osborne. The verdict was about $1,500 higher than the award in the first trial. A dispute arose because of extra work amounting to $7,127. The original contract price was $17,334.

Business Poor, Flier Works on Machinery

James Bernard Franklin, famed throughout the Pittsburgh district as a stunt flier, has been "grounded" week days by the depression. Found yesterday caring for the machinery of the John F. Casey Company in the West End, Franklin explained that in slack times people don't want to see stunt fliers risk their necks. He keeps his hand attuned to the controls on Sundays by flying from Rodgers Field.

Stampede to Farms Seen by Churchman

There's a stampede from the city back to the farm, Benson Y. Landis, associate secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, said last night in Irene Kaufmann Settlement at a meeting of the League for Social Justice. Landis expressed apprehension that the result of this exodus would tend to set up rural slums instead of city slums and shift the burden of relief from cities to counties.

Your Income Tax

Cost of Using Auto In Pleasure Not Deductible

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

(This is the fourteenth of a series of articles analyzing the revenue act of 1932 and discussing the problems of income taxpayers.)

Many taxpayers own automobiles which are used for both business and pleasure. In cases such as this the entire cost of operation is not allowable as a deduction, but the expense may be prorated in proportion to the amount of use for business purposes.

In a case such as this all the maintenance and operating expenses which would constitute allowable deductions for income tax purposes should be computed. Then they should be allocated to the two uses on the basis of the time that the machine is used for each. For example, if the total expense of operation and maintenance plus depreciation for 1932 amount to $800 and the car was used three-fourths of the time for business and the balance of the time for pleasure, the allowable deduction for Federal Income tax purposes would be $600.

It is important, of course, that a taxpayer should keep a close accounting of the expenses incident to the operation of an automobile for business or partly for business so that he can be in a position to answer any questions which may be asked by the revenue department in regard to this item of deduction in the future. A taxpayer also should have some means of showing that his automobile actually was used for business purposes to the extent shown.

Losses sustained by reason of damage while the car is being used for business may be included in deductions providing the loss is not covered by insurance or some other means. Damages paid for injury to a pedestrian could also be included as deductions provided the car was being used for business at the time and again providing that the loss was not covered by insurance. Insurance fees paid on a car used for business purposes are allowable as a deduction.

WOMAN LOST 10 LBS. IN A WEEK

Mrs. Betty Luedeke of Dayton writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Get it at any druggstore in America. If the first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.

Store Loot Suspect Held Over for Trial

George Hickman, 24, of Washington street, Dravosburg, was held for court last night before Justice of the Peace P. H. Allen at Dravosburg on a charge of entering the confectionery of James Clark in McClure street, Dravosburg, early Sunday.

Police Chief Charles A. Livingston said Hickman was found crouching in the basement of the store when police were summoned by Clark to investigate a broken window. A burlap sack and suitcase filled with merchandise were found in the store, Livingston said.

Man Badly Injured On B. & O. Crossing

Harry J. Anderson, 38, of Snyder street, Etna, was reported in critical condition in Allegheny General Hospital today after he had been struck by a passenger train on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad near the Butler street crossing, Etna. An arm, a leg and his skull were reported fractured.

Afraid in Auto, Breaks Hip in Fall

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Afraid to ride down a step, snow-covered grade, with a motorist who was giving him a "lift," John Simmons, 69, a farmer, got out of the car, saying, "I'd rather walk." He fell—and suffered a broken hip.

The motorist put Simmons back in the car and rushed him to a hospital.

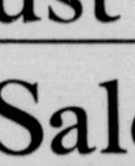
New Mouthwash and Gargle by the Makers of Vicks VapoRub Does Everything an Oral Antiseptic Can and Should Do—At Half the Usual Cost!

Local Druggists Have Special Trial Size—a 25c Value for Only 10c—While Supply Lasts.



To the millions who use a mouthwash or gargle for halitosis (bad breath), oral hygiene, and other antiseptic uses—here is news, indeed, of unusual savings. The makers of Vicks VapoRub have produced a quality oral antiseptic—Vicks Voratone Antiseptic—at actually less than half prevailing prices! The regular size, large 10-ounce bottle—a usual 75c value—is only 35c.

This answer to the public's problem of antiseptic costs is made possible by the record low price of raw materials, combined with Vicks facilities for mass production. Born in a depression year and priced accordingly, Vicks Voratone Antiseptic brings a new revelation of economy in an article widely accepted as a modern household necessity.

Vicks Quality, Of Course

Quality in keeping with the Vicks name and reputation is, of course, maintained in this new product. It is the best oral antiseptic Vicks Chemists could produce . . . and they were aided in their research by the chemists, bacteriologists, and pharmacologists of their 16 allied organizations, both here and abroad.

Vicks Voratone is a balanced antiseptic. Mild enough for daily use without risk to delicate membranes. Strong enough to do everything an oral antiseptic can and should do. It is designed for all usual uses—in the customary way.

Unusual Trial Offer

Of course, the only real proof of its quality—and its economy—is in actual use. To furnish such proof, the makers have supplied druggists with five million bottles of a special trial size at less than cost of manufacture. Each bottle contains 2½ ounces—a 25c value. The price—while the supply lasts—is only 10c.

Patricia Pitt's Society Comment

In Maytair —With— Patricia Pitt

At Cavalcade, opening at the Nixon last night, those who are usually first, were last. That is, the social registerites were to be found in the back of the house instead of the front last night.

The reason, of course, is that at a motion picture the back seats are the choice ones. Scores and scores and scores of the smart set were there, scarcely distinguishable in their costumes from the hundreds and hundreds and then more hundreds of theater patrons. For, of course, the smart set dressed simply for the movie, with most wearing street clothes and a few, black dinner dresses.

Among those I noticed in the crowded theater, for the finest motion picture I have ever seen, were Emily Frew, La Salle Dorrance, Mrs. C. A. Painter, Jr., Mrs. Donald C. Bakewell, Mrs. S. T. Patterson, Laura Oliver, Mrs. T. J. Hilliard, Mrs. Raymond Hilliard, Mrs. A. P. Brill, Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson, the Roberdeau Green Annans.

Seen at Theater

Still others were the George A. Kellys, the III, the J. Shirley Austins, Mrs. John McKelvy, Mrs. Grant McCargo, the William Sage Dalzells, the Simon T. Pattersons, the William R. Jarvises.

Marian E. Scott Is Married to M. B. Ankrom

The marriage of Miss Marian E. Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Scott, of Nakomis street, to Marshall B. Ankrom, son of Mrs. Ida Ankrom, of Corliss, formerly of West Virginia, took place Wednesday evening in the first Methodist Episcopal Church, Chartiers avenue. Officiating was the Rev. John D. Van Horn. Miss Rachel McDermott played the wedding music and Edward R. Gorham sang.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a costume of rown crepe and a corsage of spring flowers.

Miss Betty Bruce, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing brown crepe, and another cousin, small Doris Marilyn Bruce, was ring bearer, wearing a frock of canary yellow. J. Bruce Scott, brother of the bride, was best man.

The reception was held in the Scott home, after which Mr. and Mrs. Ankrom left on a wedding trip. After February 15 they will be at home in Nakomis street.

South American Travel Talk Given for Club

Mrs. Rufus W. Emery's delightful talk on her travels in South America was an unscheduled but not unexpected feature of yesterday's meeting of the Literary and Musical Club. A large audience came to hear the former Pittsburgher and also Mrs. William M. Davidson's and Mrs. George Ewart's papers on Russia. Mrs. Davidson described a day in the Soviet capital and Mrs. Ewart told of the peasants' problems. Music was by Miss Mary Sprott, Miss May Adams and Miss Ruth Simons.

Reviewing Defense Presented by H. S. Canby

Reviews of literature are today a necessary branch of adult education, Henry Seidel Canby, told the Twentieth Century Club in his "Defense of Reviewing" yesterday morning. And it was from the angle of education rather than from that of criticism that Mr. Canby, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, approached his subject.

Time was when the educated person "stayed educated" for 25 or 30 years, Mr. Canby said, in speaking of the adjustments necessary in education today and of the change in the "mental climate" of the reviewers since the frankness and prejudice of 100 years ago when reviews were intended only for a literate few. Today the reviewer is writing for a vast audience, an audience of no literary background, an audience that lives in a world of radio and many newspapers and that natively and naturally does not want to read.

M. E. Missionary School Opens Thursday

All-day sessions will feature the second annual training school in methods of leadership which the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Pittsburgh Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church will conduct on Thursday and Friday. The day sessions, opening at 9:30 on Thursday and 10 o'clock on Friday, will be held in the Downtown Y. M. C. A.

The presence at all sessions of Mrs. Cora Downs Stevens, national promotional director, will be of especial interest, as she will conduct forums on practical problems of management. Mrs. Albert J. Dawson, head of young people's work in the conference, will present worship programs and illustrative story methods and will preside at the Thursday evening meeting, which will take place in the Deaconess' Home, Fifth avenue. Mrs. Alexander Black, accompanied by Mrs. Bert Link, is to sing Thursday afternoon.

Actress-Lecturer Addresses Club In Sewickley

Mrs. CHARLES M. BREGG

Today it is free love; it used to be called sin, Mrs. Beatrice Forbes - Robertson Hale, English actress and lecturer, remarked in her talk before the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club yesterday. Free love, spinsterhood and companionate marriage were named as alternatives to marriage, and were thoroughly discussed in turn, Mrs. Hale asserting that each was ultimately unsatisfactory. At the beginning of her witty and altogether delightful talk on "Can the Modern Woman Afford a Husband," Mrs. Hale disclaimed authorship of the title, saying she had accepted it on a dare from a friend.

With characteristically humorous flashes, she sketched the "marriage of day before yesterday" when a man could not afford not to have a wife—the day when the woman was merchant, wholesaler, retailer and mistress of all the arts and crafts and trades in her home, an "unpaid housekeeper" who was busy with childbearing and child-rearing until she reached middle age.

With the decrease in the size of families and the introduction of labor-saving devices the American woman has become the largest leisure class the world has ever known, the speaker observed.

In passing, Mrs. Hale said voluntary parenthood is much more important than anything else in the world because it means an entire change in women's circumstances. It will one day lead to a fine race because only those parents will have children who want them, she believes. After consideration of several types of women, Mrs. Hale defined the "modern woman" as the "ever increasing number of educated women in business or professional life, or one who has an avocation that amounts to a career." She branded as fallacious the belief in some quarters that marriage disqualifies a woman for her job.

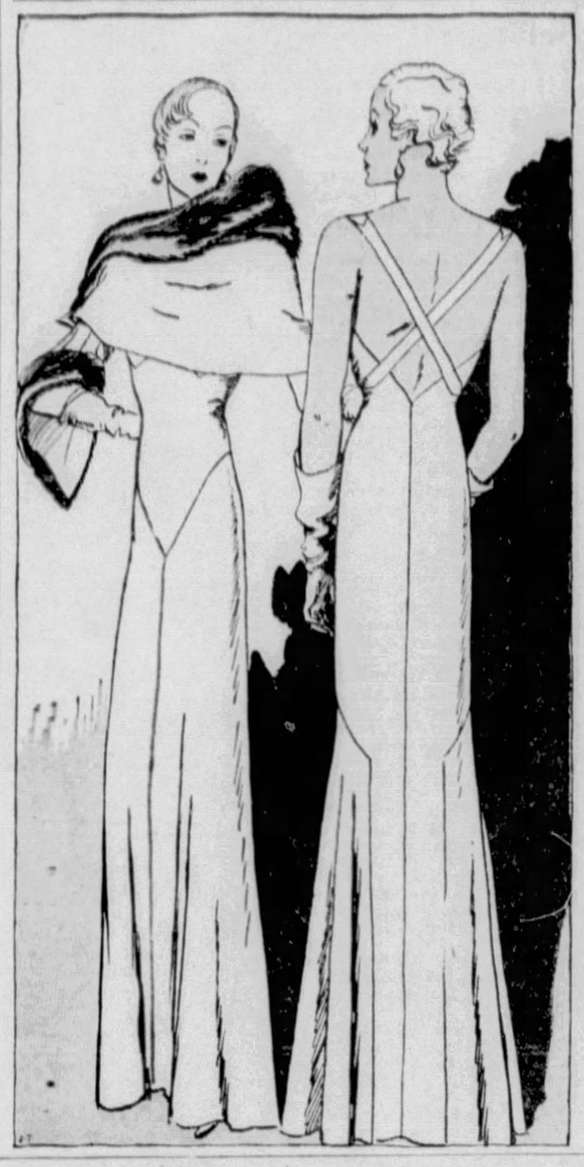
ATTRACTIVE VELVET FABRICS USED IN LATEST SMART GOWNS



THE VELVET CALLED velours paysan looks much less like a velvet than it does a very soft and supple version of duvetyn. It has no glossy surface, its nap seems a solid mass rather than made of individual little threads, and it crumples into the smallest space without becoming wrinkled.

* * *

VELOURS paysan, originally introduced as a fabric for winter dresses, has almost become a standard material among the big dressmakers. Many of them are using it in the making of spring frocks. It is lightweight and easy to wear, and like heavy satin, may be made into the simplest form-fitting gowns with success, because of its texture.

* * *

ONE DESIGNER likes this material in all-white. He uses it to make the most classic gowns — dresses which show off to every advantage the beauty of the fabric.

* * *

IN THE DRESS pictured today, he makes the entire dress in little more than two portions, so that few seams mar the surface of the material. The back of the gown shows an extremely deep decolletage, with criss-cross straps repeating the V-shaped lines.

* * *

THE WRAP accompanying this dress is likewise classically simple. It is really nothing more than a scarf, edged with zibeline fur; its single elbow-length sleeve is also fur-edged.

At headquarters for the Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, these scarves may be ordered in red and white, blue and white, tan and white and black and white. And they are.

Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller of Sewickley, one of the officers, is responsible for this clever bit of advertising of her cause.

The young Sidney H. Binnses have gone into the manufacturing business! They are producing clever little carts, with gayly painted wooden wheels and a striped awning cover, that are marvelous for country homes.

In the cart there are separate compartments for ice, hot food, fruit, napkins and silverware, and goodness knows what all.

A hostess can pack the cart, have it wheeled out on a terrace, and serve luncheon or tea or supper all from the cart.

One of these carts, copied from the sort used by Italian street salesmen, will be on display at that benefit-bridge we're hearing so much about—the one the Woman's City Club will give Saturday afternoon in the William Penn's Chatterbox.

Mrs. H. E. Wherrett, who's chairman of the Woman's City Club bridge, tells me that at her church, the East End Christian, the women are making a study of how they can economize by getting good value for their money.

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Boys Do Not Have to Look Far for Good Girls

If there are, why can't Jerry find them?

So far, all the girls he has asked out have expected him to take them to Big Whoopee at some night club, and spend a couple of week's wages on an evening's "fun."

And he's beginning to think they're all like that—and going sour on the whole feminine sex.

Listen!

Dear Elsie:

I am seeking an answer to a question that so far hasn't been answered in your column. Will you please help me out? This is it—

Are the present day girls just a bunch of pikers and big-time gold-diggers? Or are there still some real "honest to God" girls left, in this year of 1933? If there are any, where are they? I haven't seen them.

I am no cynic or crank, and so far I am not exactly soured on the human race entirely. I am holding down a fairly good position at present, and draw a regular salary.

I am not addicted to the use of tobacco or liquor in any form, and I do not gamble. I could provide a fairly decent home for the right girl if she could be found—but so far I have failed to find her.

EXPECT TOO MUCH

All the girls one meets just look to a fellow for the "good times he can show them." They expect him to take them to an expensive show, a flossy party, or some expensive night club, every time they go out. And if he doesn't spend a couple of weeks' wages on the evening's "fun" they brand him as a Cheap Piker, and strike him off their calling lists. Then they go looking for some other sucker to furnish their entertainment.

What has become of the girl who was willing to go 50-50 with a fellow, and be contented with the entertainment he could reasonably provide? I don't mean that a fellow should be a tightwad, but no man working for a modest salary can afford to spend like these girls you meet nowadays expect, especially if they expect him to keep on repeating the performance night after night.

GOOD ONES PASSED UP

There are plenty of them, son—

But I suspect they're too simple and retiring for you to notice.

Fine girls? You see scores of them every day—on the street; in the office where you work; at parties you go to—but you pass them up because they don't have cerise finger nails, swanky clothes, the latest in permanents or a skittish line. And you think they're too "slow" for a snappy number like you to notice or bother with.

Of course there are plenty of Gold-Diggers. There always were. But there are also plenty of courageous, honest, fair-dealing girls, who are willing to work with their men to build a real home and real happiness.

So, before you come barging in here to talk about "going sour on the human race," learn to use your head.

Stop expecting high-flyers to be quiet little hens, and learn to recognize a regular female when you see one.

It is also just possible that you're no great treat yourself, in spite of your virtues, and that the only interesting thing about you is the money you spend.

So—ask yourself a few questions before you lay all the blame on the girls for not "appreciating you for yourself." We usually get what we expect; receive what we give.

Weigh Well the Faults of Prospective Spouse, Advises Fay King

By FAY KING

No one is perfect. Everyone has faults.

It seems to me that when young persons intend to marry it is important that they consider the faults they notice that each has. The good qualities will never cause them any trouble. Faults often grow worse as one grows older.

It is so easy to overlook faults in those we admire. Yet the day may come when these same faults we can so easily forgive when we are first in love will annoy so much that one sees nothing else.

Consider well those little things you do not like in the one you love.

Be sure that you can continue to overlook them, because these are going to be an important factor in your future.

Grantland Tells Madge That She Must Obey Husband

"Please be in readiness from nine o'clock on."

Hugh had spoken the words quietly, but they echoed in my brain as if they were thunder. No longer could I put off the issue that they raised. I must tell him at once that I could not be one of the rescue expedition.

"What is the matter? You are troubled about something!"

"Yes, I am sorely troubled, because—I—can't go with you tonight."

His lips tightened, the only indication of unpleasant surprise he ever betrays, and it was only after several interminable seconds of silence that he spoke.

"May I know why, or is the reason one which you prefer not to give me?"

I did not stop to analyze the feeling that I would infinitely prefer not to give him the reason for my defection. I was dimly conscious that perhaps loyalty to Dicky should make me shield his part in the spoiling of Hugh's plans. But the memory of many dangers shared with this old friend, and of the signal services he had rendered me, made me most reluctant thus to stultify myself to him.

"My husband insists that I must stay at the hotel tonight," I said simply.

I heard a sibilant breath from Hugh, but no other sound, then there was another silence that I could not stand.

MADGE TERRIFIED

"He thinks both of us should not be out there tonight, for fear of—something happening," I said nervously. "He is thinking of the children, you know."

"I—dare—say." The words came slowly, and I wondered if I imagined that they were delicately tipped with the venom of suspicion that Dicky was less concerned with my safety and the children's welfare, than with the fact that I would be closely associated with Hugh if I shared in the sortie upon the kidnapers' hide-out.

I dared not speak, for I was terrified at his silence. It was like sitting breathless in the ominous hush that precedes a cyclone. I knew that black anger was riding him, and that he was silent because he feared to loosen even for a second the rein he was holding over his temper; but when it seemed to me that I could no longer hold back a nervous shriek, he spoke in his normal, courteous manner.

"Shall we go back now?" And will you let me drive? You are hardly up to it, and I am afraid you will need all your strength to persuade Lillian that she must not go with us tonight, but must keep Mrs. Brixton from suspecting anything, instead. And will you send Harry to me as soon as possible?"

"Yes," I choked the word out, and he turned to me quickly.

"Why, there are tears in your eyes!" he exclaimed. "Tell me, did I say or do anything to wound you? Don't you know that I wouldn't—couldn't—hurt you?"

HUGH APPROVES

"It isn't anything you said or did, Hugh," I told him, when I could force my voice to speech. "It's because I am failing you in this piece of work. I can't bear being a quitter!"

He muttered a quick anathema, then put his hand for an instant over mine.

"Please don't call yourself that," he said earnestly. "Don't I know the brave, golden heart of you? But your husband is right, I suppose. At any rate, there is but one thing for you to do, and that is to obey him. Perhaps—he may change his mind."

I shook my head. "Please, let us go home now," I said, and silently we changed places. But during that short drive, one oddly alien thought—at least it had no place in the present stress—kept intruding itself upon my consciousness.

In Hugh's creed, there was but one thing for a wife to do when there was a clash of marital wills—obey her husband. If I had been his wife instead of Dicky's in the present crisis, I wondered what his attitude would have been, and I decided, not for the first time, that Hugh was far more rigidly archaic in his ideas of women than was my Peter Pan.

Hints for the Household

To remove grease spots from carpets cover the place with blotting or brown paper, press with a hot iron, renewing the paper as it gets discolored.

If you have a skin rug on the floor, place folded paper in the center underneath. It will look and wear far better, giving the rug a thicker appearance.

Add a few drops of methylated spirit to the rinsing water after washing silk stockings. This will prevent rain from "spotting" them.

How to Keep Well

Thymus Gland Still a Mystery

Each of us possesses a number of the so-called "ductless glands," such as the thyroid gland and the adrenal gland. Within the past decade our knowledge concerning these vital parts of the body has greatly increased.

Dr. Copeland

Yet one of these, the "thymus gland," continues to be a mystery. Little is known about its function. The scientific world has some understanding of it, but after all there is much to learn.

The thymus gland is found just below the thyroid gland, in the region of the "Adam's apple." It is located in the middle of the neck and extends to the chest. Its function is probably a temporary one.

At birth it weighs less than two ounces. During the first five years of life it gradually decreases in size until it weighs less than one ounce. Later it almost entirely disappears, although a small portion of it remains through life. This gland differs from other glands apparently similar, in that it has no internal secretion, or if it has, that fact has never been discovered. Some students of the subject believe that when the gland degenerates certain poisonous substances are liberated within the body. The toxins or poisonous substances may do great damage to the body.

Though the thymus gland normally decreases in size under certain conditions, it may actually grow larger. When this happens we have something that is really most undesirable. It is found in a disease called "status lymphaticus." In that ailment the gland may be five to 10 times larger than the normal size. Fortunately this condition is rarely met.

Suspicion first attached to this organ after a careful analysis of sudden and unexplained deaths in childhood. The disease should be suspected in fat and flabby children who have persistent difficulty in breathing and suffer from convulsions. Often the convulsions are not present and the only complaint may be the difficult breathing. If suspected there should be a thorough investigation. Negligence is dangerous.

The determination of the truth is of vital importance because the sufferer must be protected from minor injuries, accidents and operations. He should receive medical care and nursing during the progress of the common childhood diseases.

I am glad to say that though our knowledge of the thymus gland is still limited, it is now possible to deal with it successfully. X-ray treatments have proven extremely beneficial. The trouble leads to a fatal termination only when it is overlooked or discovered at a late stage.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me the correct way for a man to ask a lady to go to the theater with him. Would it be correct to say: "How would you like to go to a show with me" or "Would you like to go to a show with me?"

Also how should he ask her to go to church or a dance? BILL.

Perhaps it would be best to make the invitation more direct and definite, by adding the time and the name of the play. For instance, "Would you like to go with me to see 'Hamlet' next Tuesday evening? It is playing at the Shakespeare Theater." Or, "There is a dance at Happy Hall on next Saturday evening. Would you enjoy going?" Or, "Would you care to go to church with me next Sunday evening. The United Church, if you wish, or any other that you prefer?"

I am sure that the lady would be very happy to accompany you on these occasions.

Contract Bridge

-:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

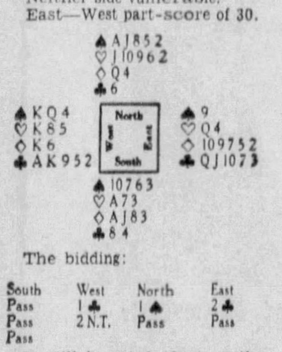
The Declarer Squeezed

Most stories about squeezes at the Bridge table are chronicles of the effective tactics whereby the Declarer has been able to force one opponent or the other to give up protection in a suit and thereby permit the triumphant fulfillment of a contract not otherwise obtainable. The story today, however, is one in which the Declarer was not the one to apply the squeeze, but rather the helpless victim of his opponent's well-planned tactics.

South—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

East—West part-score of 30.

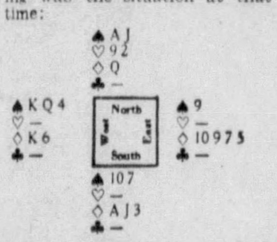


The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♣
Pass	2 N.T.	Pass	Pass
Pass

It will be noted that, as the cards lie, it would have been much easier for West to have made four clubs than two no-trump, but the cheaper contract appeared to him more productive.

North's Opening lead was the Knave of hearts, upon which the Queen was played from Dummy. South won with the Ace. West ducked the heart return and won the third trick with the King. He then ran 5 club tricks, upon which North echoed in spades. The following was the situation at that time:



The Declarer led the spade 9 from Dummy, and North won with the Ace. He then cashed 2 good heart tricks, upon which the Declarer found himself squeezed. He had to retain the King of spades, otherwise North's Knave was good for a trick, and, in order to do so, he was forced to bare down to the diamond King, thus permitting South to win the last 2 tricks and defeat the contract.

Today's Question

South, the Dealer, opens with a bid of two spades and West passes. What should North respond with the following hand?

♠ J 10 6 3 ♡ A K 4 ◇ J 10 5 3 2 ♣ J

Answer—Three diamonds, a shaded biddable suit. The hand is strong enough to raise to five spades. However, the spade support can be shown on a subsequent round after first giving partner some indication of the distribution of the hand.

CHARGE COUNTY PENSION DEBT

Trustees and members of the County Pension Fund at a meeting yesterday charged the County Commissioners have ignored a law by failing to pay at least $2,000,000 toward pensions. The conferees voted to retain an attorney in an effort to collect the money.

The State law says that the Commissioners shall annually appropriate into the Pension Fund not less than one-half of one per cent, and not more than two per cent of all available moneys received by the county as taxes during the preceding calendar year, it was pointed out. It has been the custom of the Commissioners to appropriate $75,000 yearly.

Deputy Register of Wills William F. Berger, President of the Fund, declared the County owes it at least $2,000,000. He added that in his opinion there is little hope of recovering it.

It was voted to employ an actuary to examine a bill drawn up by George B. Buck, an actuary employed by the Commissioners, which would increase amounts paid into the fund by the County and employes, curtailing to some extent benefits for employes.

Seer's Tip Wrong Quartet Lands Behind Bars

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Four men were digging on the municipal golf course. They had dug a hole five feet deep when police arrived.

"What's up?" demanded the law.

"We are looking for the treasure chest with the gold in it," said the quartet's spokesman.

"What gold?"

"A fortune teller told us there was a treasure chest buried on the Municipal Golf Course."

The men were arrested for damaging property.

Bill to Cut Fees To Motorists Offered

HARRISBURG, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Representative Roy W. Shreiner, Dauphin, has stepped forward as the motorists' friend.

He introduced bills in the House calling for a cut in the gasoline tax from the present 3 cents to 2 cents and for reduction of registration fees.

His one bill would fix the registration fee for motor vehicles at 40 cents for each horsepower, with minimum fee of $5 instead of $10.

SAFETY RECORD HERE BEST

With a 27.2 per cent reduction in fatal traffic accidents last year, Pittsburgh made the best showing of any large American city.

This is revealed in the annual report of the Bureau of Traffic Planning submitted to Director James M. Clark, of the Department of Public Safety, today by Lewis W. McIntyre, City Traffic Engineer.

The report points out that the accident reduction was not only greater than in any large American city, but it was accomplished without a corresponding decrease in traffic volumes.

Baby Killed by Fall Into Scalding Water

Burns suffered when he tumbled into a bucket of scalding water at his home resulted in the death, early today, at McKeesport Hospital, of John Ripple, 17-month-old son of Charles Ripple, of Pansburn Hollow road, near Elizabeth, according to a Coroner's report. The accident occurred last night.

Pinchot in No Haste to Name County Judge

—By MARK SHIELDS—

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—It may be the end of the legislative session before Gov. Pinchot appoints a county judge in Allegheny County to succeed the late Thomas C. Jones. The vacancy has existed for several weeks, and meanwhile the work of the court has been falling farther and farther behind.

Mr. Shields

Theoretically, the courts are not presumed to be in politics, but when it comes to appointments, politics and politicians function all over the lot.

The three outstanding aspirants for the post at the moment are Attorneys Benjamin Lencher, Frank Piekarski and Ralph Frank, the latter an assistant county solicitor. Each has his supporters, and each brings to the law elements of strength.

One qualification Mr. Pinchot always examines—after or perhaps before considering other qualifications—is, whether an appointee can achieve election to succeed himself under appointment. To that qualification now is being added, according to reliable report, a stipulation that the appointee shall bring to the next primary some substantial bloc of votes to support the nomination of Judge Ralph H. Smith, of Common Pleas Court, the most recent of Pinchot judicial appointees.

Additionally, the Governor has certain legislation which he wishes passed and he needs all the votes possible. So long as the appointment is held in abeyance, he is apt to receive assistance which otherwise might be denied, both in Senate and House.

* * *

Harris, Mansfield, With Pinchot on Two Subjects

Automatically the general public considers in the Senate that Senators William D. Mansfield and Frank J. Harris will vote for any legislation promoted by the state administration. This is not necessarily true. On the subject of vote reform and the basic elements of utility law reform, the Governor and the two Allegheny Senators agree. But there are other subjects of the administration program upon which there is not a certain agreement.

The Governor may dangle this appointment, just as he is dangling before conflicting elements in Philadelphia the appointment of a judge of Common Pleas Court in the eastern county. With his legislative program finally voted upon, he then will be in position to consider the sponsors of the various candidates and reward those from whom he has received the most assistance.

Senator Harris was not entirely satisfied with the appointment of Judge Smith, though Senator Mansfield was. Harris was backing Attorney A. P. Lindsay, who is certain to be a formidable candidate in the primary election next September. After the Smith appointment was made, Harris approved, but he preferred Lindsay. The latter was unsatisfactory to County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, who had as his candidates Smith and Attorney W. Clyde Grubbs. Mansfield has claimed credit for swinging the balance to Smith.

Under ordinary conditions the Governor might be disposed to listen now to Harris in making the County Court appointment, but there are uncertain votes in the House to be considered also, and Mr. Pinchot is not noted for paying political debts in advance.

It is highly improbable that the wishes of Senators James J. Coyne, Morris Einstein or Joseph G. Armstrong will be considered in the County Court appointment, and Senator Herman Brandt also is not being given much heed by the executive offices.

For all of these reasons, and because of the ramified political considerations involved, it is not probable any County Court Judge will be named within the next few weeks. Mr. Pinchot may be criticized for this, but he is merely following the precedents of the game, in which not only governors, but attorneys and judges have played their part.

* * *

Anti-Pinchot Group Scores in Inquiry

The investigation of the Highway Department, with Secretary Samuel S. Lewis as the chief witness, has up to now been something of a political stand-off, though all parties to the controversy insist there is no politics in the whole show. Secretary Lewis first insisted the Governor, rather than the Highway Department, had dictated the future highway program, only to have that flare back in a letter to the investigating committee from the Governor, insisting that the department had been consulted. And Secretary Lewis signed the letter.

Score one for the anti-Pinchot group.

Then the inquisitors attempted to show that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation money for work relief in Pennsylvania had been allocated for political purposes in the interest of the Governor. But Secretary Lewis finally ventilated this with a belated explanation to the committee that the money was spread about by the State Emergency Relief Board, comprising in addition to the Governor, Auditor General Waters, State Treasurer Martin, Lieut. Gov. Shannon and Speaker Talbot.

This is a clear organization majority. If there is politics in the allocation it should be organization politics. And if the Governor is able to override this majority against his political principles, then we have a sad commentary on the force and ability of organization politicians.

Or was any additional commentary necessary, in view of the past?

MILLS LIGHTING UP THE PITTSBURGH SKY OVER PITTSBURGH'S STRIP . . . . . PART OF THE GREAT INDUSTRIAL EMPIRE THAT ANDREW CARNEGIE BUILT

Family Left Scotland Because of Depression, First Chapters Reveal

(The latest biography of the great ironmaster, published for the first time in any newspaper, abridged for exclusive publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph by special permission of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie.)

Andrew Carnegie's birth is recorded, and something of his family and of his school days at Dunfermline, Scotland, is told in the opening installment. The biographer gives a picture of the terrible industrial depression in Great Britain which led to the emigration of the Carnegie family to America in 1848. A letter written by Carnegie four years later concludes the installment. In this letter the 16-year-old boy gives a lively description of Pittsburgh and Allegheny as they were 81 years ago.

I.

A professional artificer of greatness once informed Andrew Carnegie that he was descended from Scottish Kings. The suggestion was quietly conveyed that, for a consideration, he could be provided with an illustrious pedigree. "I am sorry to hear that," replied Carnegie, "because my wife married me under the impression that I was the son of a weaver."

* * *

Andrew Carnegie's birthplace was a two-story stone cottage, with red tiled roof and dormer windows — the usual weaver's dwelling, of which there were hundreds almost identically the same in Dunfermline. The family living quarters amounted to little more than a single room in the attic floor; this one apartment served as kitchen, dining room, parlor and bed chamber. The building stands today, almost intact, as in Carnegie's childhood — even to the bed, built bunk-wise against the partition under the sloping eaves. Across a little hall was a second room, the duplicate of the first; this served similarly as the habitation of another weaver's family. On the ground floor was a slightly larger space, which was used as the loom shop. This dwelling, to which William Carnegie had brought his bride, Margaret Morrison Carnegie, rented probably for three or four pounds a year. The young couple were so poor that, on the occasion of Andrew's birth (November 25, 1835), they could not afford a midwife.

Starts to School

Fortunate as Carnegie was in his surroundings and in his parents, he was similarly fortunate in his mental training. Of definite schooling he received little, but teachers were not lacking who filled his childish mind with the poetry of Scotland and with political ideas that remained his realized possession to the end. The mere fact that Carnegie's "Heddekashun" did not begin until his eighth year was no handicap. His parents, he said, had promised him, in an unguarded moment, that he need not go to school until he himself requested it—perhaps on the theory that the cheerful attitude of the child was an essential element in the scholastic life. It is likely, too, that the preachings of the great family mentor, William Cobbett, partly explain this unusual toleration. The best university, Cobbett insisted, was an intelligent home; no child should be put to school until he was 8 years old. Andrew accepted literally this idea, for his indifference to study persisted so long that it aroused parental anxiety. One day Robert Martin, the head of a Lancastrian school in Rolland street, took Andrew and a few other boys for an outing—this being merely a strategic move stimulated by the Carnegie family. Andrew, who, all his life, made decisions on personal grounds, took an immediate liking to Mr. Martin, and, returning home, propounded his long hoped for request. He embarked upon this new enterprise with characteristic zeal. Schoolmaster Martin soon became one of his heroes ,and the dingy one-storied Rolland street building had the same charm for him that the spires of Oxford have for more pretentious scholars.

'Dod' and 'Naig'

From Robert Martin, Carnegie learned his letters, and even a few bits of Latin, but his real education was derived from another source. His training began long before his schooldays. Home, relatives, and the events of a stirring period provided it. The most intimate companion was a

BLAST CAUSES BLAZE, 1 HURT

A fireman was burned early today in a fire following an explosion, believed caused by chemicals, in the Gilbert Manufacturing Company building, 6367 Frankstown avenue. The force of the blast routed five Negro families from their homes on the second floor, shattered the windows and hurled the front door across the street. Firemen estimated the damage at $2,500.

The injured fireman was Frank Harris, 32, of 6334 Walnut street, hoseman at Engine Company No. 8. He suffered burns to his hands, face and right eye. He was taken to Mercy Hospital.

The bomb and arson squad is investigating.

The building is one of the oldest in East Liberty. In recent years it has been the scene of numerous political gatherings, community meetings and dances, and in the nineties was headquarters for the old National Guard.

Tax Millage Cut At West Homestead

A reduction of 2 mills in the borough tax levy was voted last night by West Homestead Council. The new millage was set at 9 mills.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. Feb. 7.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

That was an impressive ceremony over the radio yesterday, held in the House of Representatives to pay a beautiful tribute to the memory of Calvin Coolidge. The lawmakers gathered in that body can pay more homage to a President in death, and deal him more misery in life than happens in any civilized nation. After the Massachusetts jurist's fine oration on Mr. Coolidge's achievements, we listened breathlessly for a moment for fear some Senator would get up (just out of force of habit) and denounce the oration as being, "Partisan, misleading, and made in the interest of the opposing party," and Mr. Hoover sitting there thinking, "I have to die to get this."

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

LOST LICENSE THROUGH ERROR

A mistaken certification by the Lancaster County Clerk of Courts to the Department of Revenue that W. A. (Gus) Greenlee was driving while intoxicated was responsible for suspension of his driver's license, January 10, for one year, it was learned today.

Although the suspension holds, the Clerk of Courts has notified the department that Greenlee was operating his car on July 18, 1932, when his license had been suspended for a three-month period. The first suspension was because Greenlee was operating a car with another person's license. Greenlee was not in an automobile accident on Frankstown avenue on New Years Day as had been reported.

Secretary Sought For Agriculture We Used to Have

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Mr. Roosevelt has selected all his cabinet except Secretary of Agriculture.

Maybe that's because there ain't any agriculture. The farmers have been so busy suffering from relief that they've worn a new national highway between the postoffice and the bank.

Which is a reminder that Carter Glass is going to write his name plenty and use dollar bills for slates. He gets the job that Andy Mellon spurned by request.

Jim Farley is the Postmaster-general and will see that the farmer's grain silo is stuffed with mail-order catalogues.

Jim's first purchase should be a folding opera hat. We cannot afford to buy new motor cars just because our postmasters are just as tailing sitting down as standing up.

That agricultural post will take some filling. It is going to be tough to find a real dirt farmer since most of the farms have been macadamized.

Seeks to Ban Window In Neighbor's House

W. Warren Miller, Mt. Lebanon contractor, is a strong advocate of sunshine.

A window on the west side of a new $28,000 house Warren is erecting at 121 Jefferson drive, next to Stevenson's home, would assure the former of the desired sun light, but from that spot people in Miller's structure could look right into Stevenson's bedroom, if they wished.

Unable to effect an amicable agreement, they appealed last night to Mt. Lebanon Township Commissioners, who upheld Stevenson after he declared he sold the lot to Miller with a provision in the deed that no windows be placed in the second floor on the west side of any house Miller may build on the lot.

When preparations were made to put the window in Miller's new house, Stevenson protested to Secretary Cooke, who denied the permit for it, and police stopped construction.

They will go to court.

Federal Tax Enigma For Puzzle Makers

The jig-saw puzzle business is now puzzled itself.

The Bureau if Internal Revenue, trying to find a new source of revenue to help balance the Federal budget, has ruled puzzles of more than fifty pieces are adult games and subject to a 10 per cent tax.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, one-time foe of bootleggers, has been engaged by a Long Island City, N. Y., firm, which produces millions of the puzzles weekly, to contest the ruling.

Mrs. Willebrandt contends that a puzzle of more than fifty pieces can still be a juvenile game. Supporting her on this is Dr. Laurence Shaffer, of the psychology department of Carnegie Institute of Technology. He said:

"Many children can work puzzles of more than fifty pieces, and in fact many are really intended for children. However, the ease with which they can be worked depends on the pattern and intricacy of the pieces."

HUSBAND'S SLAYER TO FIGHT FOR RELEASE AT HEARING

SHOT TO ESCAPE BLOWS, WIDOW DECLARES

NEW CASTLE, Feb. 7.—Mrs. Anna Mae McNeil, comely mother of two, today planned a vigorous battle for liberty when she is arraigned before Alderman L. C. Mantz for the alleged murder of her husband, Harold, 34, in their suburban home near here early Sunday following a liquor party.

The 30-year-old widow will plead that she shot in self-defense as she sought to protect herself from a beating her husband had promised her was to be "like none she ever had before." She said:

"I never intended to kill him. I didn't even intend to hit him; all I wanted to do was to scare him so he would stop beating me. Why would I want to kill him? We have two little kiddies, Lee, 3, and Betty Jane, 6. Would I want to kill the father of my two children?

"I was desperate when he started after me. Many times before he had beaten me. I guess I must have lost my mind for the time. There isn't much use saying I am sorry now, I guess. He is dead and I killed him, but I was afraid after his threat that he might kill me. He had me cornered and, in a desperate attempt to save my life, I fired."

'Y' ACTIVITIES EXTENDED

Extension of Y. M. C. A. activities to new communities of Allegheny County is under way today with organization of a new committee of management for the City-County branch. There will be no increase in the number of paid employes or operating expense, Y. M. C. A. officials said, because the supervising committee is composed of laymen.

C. H. Langbein

C. H. Langbein is chairman of the committee. Other members are Prof. T. M. Buck, of Bethel Township High School; Prof. F. H. Carson, Wilkinsburg High School; Dr. C. E. Dickey, county superintendent of schools; Dr. H. Ward Ewalt, Jr., John C. Hill, Charles Lockhart, Joseph Torrence Miller, A. J. Russ and Prof. E. L. Shepard, superintendent of Fayette Township schools.

R. F. Rope, of the Pittsburgh Metropolitan "Y" staff, is executive secretary for the committee.

Funeral Arranged For Plunge Victim

Funeral services for John Getsinger, 78, of Duquesne road, Mifflin township, who died yesterday in the Homestead Hospital after the Coroner reported he leaped from a second floor window of the institution, will be held tomorrow afternoon from the residence of Ernest Bausch, 233 East Virginia avenue, Homestead Park, Munhall.

Getsinger, who had been in the hospital several weeks, leaves his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Rees Getsinger; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas J. Ingram, and three grandsons.

TAX ROW AIRED AT HOMESTEAD

Replying to charges by members of the Homestead Taxpayers' League that Burgess John J. Cavanaugh's home was under-assessed, Councilman M. F. Delaney declared at a meeting of Council last night that Cavanaugh's property was purchased at $24,000 in 1926 and is now assessed at 70 per cent of that value.

He said the Cavanaugh property at Eighth avenue, near West street, is assessed at $11,900 for the land and $3,000 for the house. It was charged the property was originally assessed at $7,000, but the assessment valuation lowered to $2,500 following its purchase by Cavanaugh.

Council delayed filing of an appeal from the assessments of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes until the borough solicitor recovers from illness.

A committee to meet with Duquesne Light Company officials to discuss reduction of the borough light bill was named by Council. The committee is made up of members of the fire and light committees, President of Council J. M. Honse and Solicitor P. H. McGuire.

ILL MAN SAVED FROM BLAZE

Frank J. Boyle, an auditor for the State Department of Property and Supplies, was carried from his sickbed when fire damaged his home at 5504 Howe street early today. His wife, Mrs. Mary G. Boyle, Independent leader in the Seventh Ward, and two sons, Attorney Edward C. Boyle, 28, and James Boyle, 26, and Mrs. Boyle's brother, P. Paul Freyvogel, escaped unaided.

Boyle was removed from the house by a neighbor, Stewart Bartley, after the sons had discovered the fire in the basement. Battalion Chief Fred S. Beckett estimated the loss at $1,000.

NEW HAIR VOGUE RAGE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK'S most popular girls—by thousands—are talking about the new way they are doing their hair to make it soft, lustrous, beautiful.

All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you arrange your hair. That removes oily film; brings out the natural color of hair; gives it new sparkle and life!

The first applications dissolve the worst crust of dandruff. The hair becomes softer, fluffier; is more easily arranged when Danderine is used. And it stays in place for hours.

Danderine cleanses hair and scalp. Soothes the scalp. Invigorates hair roots. Helps hair grow longer, thicker and more abundant. A fragrant necessity for the well-groomed girl!

Don't Coddle a COLD!

The moment a cold shows, Knock it off! Don't let it linger—and don't attempt to palliate it! Many remedies merely pamper a cold, to the victim's regret. The only way to deal with a cold is to kill it—as quickly as you can!

If treated promptly—when the sneezing or headache begins—a cold can usually be knocked in 12 hours. But you must get at the root of the trouble, a germ infection within the system. This calls, first of all, for a COLD remedy, not a cure-all. A preparation that's good for all kinds of ills and ailments can't be equally effective for a cold. Many popular remedies only make relief more difficult because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

A Cold Is An Internal Infection

Take a cold remedy and an INTERNAL one. A cold is an internal infection and, as such, requires internal treatment. Don't be fooled by merely local or external applications. They can't reach the seat of the trouble and they can't stop the spreading of the infection within the system. Your doctor will tell you that.

Your doctor will also tell you that there is nothing better you can take for a cold than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Most physicians will frankly admit they couldn't write a better prescription for a cold if they wanted to. For Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine does the several things necessary to rout a cold, in the way that is necessary.

First, it gently, but thoroughly, opens the bowels—the first requirement in overcoming a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

That is the treatment you want for a cold and, for your own safety, be satisfied with nothing less!

The "Stitch in Time"

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine may be safely taken by young and old and whether you stay indoors or go out. There is no penalty attached to its use. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Always ask for it by the full name and look for the letters L B Q stamped on every tablet. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 50c. Resent a substitute as an attempt to explain you.

NOTE: During Epidemics a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine every morning and night will do much to fortify your system against infection.

Life Story of Andrew Carnegie

cousin, George Lauder; the two boys, of virtually the same age, had been inseparable playmates from infancy. Andrew called his cousin "Dod" or "Doddie," this representing the nearest his baby lips could approximate the syllable "George;" similarly Lauder called Andrew "Naig"—this being his most successful effort with the name "Carnegie." Through all their lives—and both men passed the four score mark—they remained the closest friends and business partners; and always, even when they were white-haired octogenarians, these old names were used in their familiar intercourse. An almost uninterrupted association of 80 years—where shall we find the like? Perhaps their most affectionate link was the constant companionship the two children found in Doddie's father. What the elder Lauder meant to Carnegie he has himself recorded. On the final letter received from the old man, carefully preserved among his papers, appears the following notation: "The last note received from the man to whom I owe most, and who was nearest and dearest to me of all men. My uncle and father, for such he was since I reached manhood."

* * *

He Sees the Queen

"One of my fond memories," Carnegie wrote to the son of John Bright, in February, 1909, "is that I was privileged to know your great father, who was the favorite statesman of our whole family connection in Dunfermline, where I was taken to hear him speak when only 10 years old." On this occasion Mr. Bright was advocating the Liberal candidate for Parliament. Andrew's commentary at the time was that the English leader was sadly at sea in the pronunciation of the English language. "He called Mr. Smith a man," the child informed his mother, "instead of a mon." About the same time, Queen Victoria, then 22 years old, made her celebrated visit to Edinburgh. Doddie and Naig were taken across the Forth for a view of their youthful sovereign. Both boys were unimpressed.

"She's not sae tall as your mither," said Dod.

"And her dress is nae sae braw," replied Naig, looking at his mother who accompanied him in her best clothes.

"It was from my uncle that I learned all that I know of the early history of Scotland—of Wallace and Bruce and Burns, of Blind Harry's history, of Scott, Ramsay, Tannahill, Hogg and Fergusson. I can truly say in the words of Burns that there was there and then created in me a vein of Scottish prejudice (or patriotism) which will cease to exist only with life. Wallace, of course, was our hero. Everything heroic centered in him. Sad was the day when a wicked big boy at school told me that England was far larger than Scotland. I went to Uncle, who had the remedy.

"'Not at all, Naig; if Scotland were rolled out flat as England, Scotland would be the larger, but would you have the Highlands rolled down?'

"Oh, never! There was balm in Gilead for the wounded young patriot. Later the greater population of England was forced upon me, and again to Uncle I went.

"'Yes, Naig, seven to one, but there were more than that odds against us at Bannockburn.'"

* * *

Burns became not only Carnegie's favorite poet, but his teacher in most of the important matters of life—in religion, and, above all, in politics.

"The first penny I ever earned or ever received from any person outside the family circle was one from my school teacher, Mr. Martin, for repeating before the school Burns' poem, 'Man was made to mourn.'"

* * *

II

"Your childhood and mine have been remarkably alike," Carnegie wrote William T. Stead in 1897. "I was brought up among Chartists and Republicans. Our family is distinguished for having had an uncle in jail for holding a prohibited meeting in Chartist times. My childhood's desire was, to get to be a man and kill a king."

* * *

The fact that throughout this period Great Britain was a very hungry nation, with a populace living practically on the edges of starvation. The factory system had practically ruined the working classes, especially the weavers; the Corn Laws prohibited the importation of foreign grain; business and trade had reached stagnation; and misery stalked over the country. Among the most desperate popular agony found expression in the burning of haywicks and the smashing of machinery; riots broke out everywhere, which the military was frequently called upon to put down; while among the more intelligent the patch to salvation seemed to consist in political reform—the repeal of the Corn Laws, the "Six Points" of the People's Charter, even the abolition of the monarchy. Dunfermline was the great rallying place of the popular cause in Scotland, and thus it happened that Carnegie's childhood witnessed a panorama of public meetings, processions, window-breakings, large-scale riots, and at the domestic hearth, an endless flow of talk. A fact of especial biographical importance is that the Dunfermline radicals, in the eighteen forties, were outspoken enemies of war. The city had its Peace Society, in which the Lauders and the Carnegies were active spirits; its representative in Parliament, Mr. J. B. Smith, was elected largely as a foe to increased military expenditures; and "peace meetings" and long petitions to Parliament to curtail the army and navy were frequent happenings.

* * *

The Great Famine

"I remember the cavalry parading the streets of Dumfermline to quell riots," Carnegie said afterward. "An old lady recently sent me a copy of a handbill, in which an appeal is made for £300 to defend my uncle from charges of conspiracy, in holding a Chartist meeting. When His Majesty, King Edward, visited Skibo, I showed him the bill, duly framed and hanging on the wall, as my title to nobility."

The time presently came, however, when Dumfermline and the Carnegie family lost interest in their riots, their Chartist meetings, even in their anti-war demonstrations. As the forties dragged along, life meant one thing, and one thing only, to the city's several thousand weavers. The all-absorbing concern was now the next day's food. On every hand factories were rising that more than threatened to reduce the workers of an ancient craft to starvation.

* * *

The winter of 1847-48—the last the Carnegie family spent in Scotland—witnessed the extreme of suffering. In its long history Great Britain had experienced few such crises as this; three hundred thousand people died of starvation in Ireland alone. The local chroniclers of Dunfermline furnish many details of the prevalent distress. City revenues reached so low an ebb that the streets were no longer lighted; houses were everywhere falling into disrepair; the shutters were up in the loom shops; certain housewives, more fortunate than their sisters, could be seen carrying bowlfuls of meal, or of potatoes or cabbage, to their languishing neighbors.

* * *

Already Margaret's two sisters and brother had pointed the road to possible escape. Several years before, the three, with their families, had left Dunfermline and settled in the New World. Sisters Kitty and Anna—Mrs. Thomas Hogan and Mrs. Andrew Aitken—had made themselves a home in Allegheny, Pennsylvania, while brother William Morrison had found prosperity on a farm in Ohio.

* * *

As the future loomed so dark and uncertain, especially for the two boys, it is not strange that Margaret Carnegie's eyes should turn more eagerly westward.

* * *

The party sailed early in the morning on May 19, 1848, from the Broomielaw in Glasgow. The ship was the Wiscasset, an old whaling schooner built in Maine, now square rigged for the merchant marine. On the dock, for the final parting, stood Doddie, Uncle Lauder and Uncle Tammy, the latter, as always, in frock coat and top hat, leaning upon his mighty walking stick. Just before embarking Andrew broke down again. Spying Uncle Lauder, he ran to him, threw his arms around his neck and cried, "I canna leave ye! I canna leave ye!" One of the sailors was obliged gently to pry the child's arms away from the older man. Finally, with a favoring wind, the Wiscassett began its slow progress down the Clyde.

III

Allegheny in 1852

In one of his letters to Uncle Lauder, written four years after the Carnegie arrival, Andrew describes the progress the family had made in the United States. It will provide the best available introduction to Carnegie's career in his adopted country. The portrait which the 16-year-old boy unconsciously draws of himself embodies many of the traits that marked him as a man. Even Carnegie's love of peace crops out in his objections to "warriors" as presidential candidates. The paper on which the letter was written displays, as letterhead, a woodcut of Allegheny and Pittsburgh in 1852.

To George Lauder, Senior.
Pittsburgh Telegraph Office,
May 30, 1852.

My Dear Uncle,

. . . The above picture is a correct view of our American home, but it is taken from a point that does not show the city to advantage, the greater part of which lays back of the Cathedral (that building with the high steeple). The building opposite is the Court House. It is a splendid building of free stone, the river to the right is the Monogahela, the wire bridge across it leads to Birmingham and Sligo where the Coal Hills are. You will observe a flat boat coming down; it is loaded with coal for points below. Pittsburgh supplies all places below with coal — its coal trade amounts to many millions of dollars yearly. The steamboats are very well done, they will no doubt appear funny to you, they are very different from yours, they are light and some of them go at the rate of twenty miles down stream. The largest of them draw only 4 feet and in the summer months the River gets so low that they cannot run, and little boats drawing only 18 inches take their places. The river on the left is the Allegheny, called that by the Indians meaning Clear Water. Up the Allegheny there are great forests and hundreds of rafts of lumber come down every season. There is one in the picture coming down just at the lower bridge. The bridges lead over to Allegheny City—they are very like the originals. Allegheny contains 22,000 inhabitants. There is not much business done in Allegheny, the greater part of the people there are engaged in some business in Pittsburgh. Our house is opposite the lowest tree on the left marked X. You will see little ferry boats on the river. Some of them run to Manchester, two miles below, where there are public gardens. In the summer they are much visited for it is so warm we are glad to go and get under the shade of a fine tree.

We have had a flood this year. Every season when the snow melts on the mountains the rivers raise very high, but they have not been so high for 20 years before. It rained for three weeks almost constantly, and both rivers rose at once. It was up to the ceiling in our house, and for two days we had to live upstairs and sail about in rafts and skiffs. It was a great time. The lower part of Allegheny was all flooded; it caused great destruction of property. Our telegraph was swept away in some places, and I had to go down the river 70 miles to take all the eastern business from Pittsburgh and send to a station below from where the line was all right. I was away more than a week and enjoyed myself first rate.

Views on Politics

The politicians here are all in great excitement about the Presidency. Every candidate (and there are about 20) is trying everything he can think of to gain popularity. They write letters to different associations flattering them, make speeches on popular questions, taking every occasion to flatter the Enlightened Citizens of the Great Republic, &c, &c. You would laugh to see how low they have to bow to their sovereigns, the People. The two most prominent candidates, I am sorry to say, are warriors, one Gen. Scott, Commander-in-Chief U. S. A.—he is a Whig. The Whigs here go for protection against foreign labor and are in favor of a national bank and are conservative. The Democrats go for free trade and no chartered bank. I take great interest in politics here and think when I am a man I would like to dabble in them. I would be a Democrat, or rather a Free Soil Democrat—Free Soilers get that name from their hatred of slavery and slave labor. Slavery I hope will soon be abolished in this country.

There is much excitement upon the subject of Temperance. The state of Maine passed a law prohibiting the manufacture or sale except for medical purposes of all intoxicating liquors. Several states have passed similar laws and, of course, the rum sellers are trying all they can to protect their right (!) to sell what they please. That is a step in advance of you at any rate.

* * *

Mother is in good health and sends you and aunt her very kindest regards. Father has been away selling his cloths lately. He is in fine spirits. He does not take very much interest in politics here, but that land reform has really excited him, he is in great glee about it. Aunt Aiken has commenced keeping a store in Allegheny in partnership with Mrs. Scott, a Scotch woman, they are getting along very well. Aunt sends her best respects to you and aunt and all friends. She is a strong pillar of the church and has great influence over all its members. She has taken James, Uncle Morris' youngest son, to raise. Our meeting house is the story above our office. I have just come down into the office from Sunday school.

We have a nice school. I take great interest in it and am a young Swedenborgian. Do you still read the Works? I still continue to like my business and intend to continue at it. I have very easy times and I may say I have no master, for the operators in the office are very nice men and never say a cross word, at least very seldom.

Although I sometimes think I would like to be back in Dunfermline, I am sure it is far better for me that I came here. If I had been in Dunfrmline working at the loom it is very likely I would have been a poor weaver all my days, but here I can surely do something better than that, if I don't it will be my own fault, for anyone can get along in this Country. I intend going to night school this fall to learn something more and after that I will try and teach myself some other branches. My paper is nearly done. Please give my kind remembrances to Mr. and Mrs. Martin and John Grant, tell him we were happy to hear that himself and family were getting along. Now my Dear Uncle, please writ me soon. I would be so glad to get a letter from you. I will write you regularly. I forgot to ask when you intended coming out. I remain your much indebted nephew.

CITY EMPLOYE KILLED BY FALL

Charles Kestner, 51, of 243 Climax street, asistant engineer at the Mission Street Pumping Station, South Side, died early today in South Side Hospital from a fractured skull suffered in a fall from a 45-foot ladder in the pumping station, according to the Coroner's report.

Kestner, a veteran city employe, was believed to have been oiling an engine when he lost his balance and fell from the ladder. Fellow employes found Kestner unconscious and summoned police who took him to the hospital.

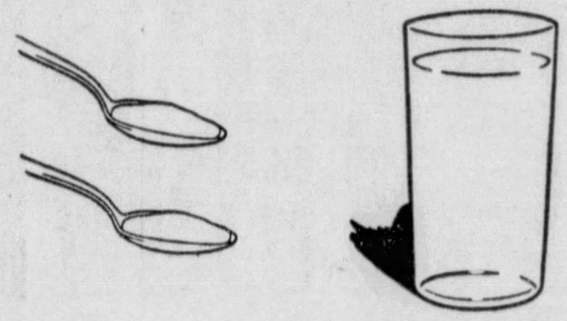
The accident was believed to have occurred shortly after 11:30 p. m., when Kestner was last seen by other employes.

Exchange Club Meet Hears Dr. Madden

"Some Observations of Our Laws" was the subject of an address by Dr. J. W. Madden, University of Pittsburgh Law School, at the regular Tuesday meeting of the National Exchange Club of Pittsburgh. Miss Georgia Orwig, of the Fillion Studios, in piano compositions featuring modern composers, also was a feature of the program.

SIMPLE TO GET RID OF ACID STOMACH NOW

Almost Instant Relief This Way



TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

According to many authorities, some 80% of the people of today have acid stomach. This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

It usually makes itself felt in headaches, nausea, "gas," "biliousness," and most frequently in stomach pains that come about thirty minutes after eating. So you can easily tell if you have it.

Now Quickly and Easily Corrected

If you do have acid stomach, don't worry about it. You can correct it in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

What This Does

That's all you do. But you do it regularly, EVERY DAY, so long as you have any symptoms of distress.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy.

Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

L. J. KORPANTY KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO AT MT. ROYAL

CAR OF FALCON LAWYER SENT 50 FEET

Attorney Leo J. Korpanty, 40, of 1909 Chislett street, was killed shortly after midnight when his automobile was struck by the New York-bound Capitol Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at the Mount Royal crossing between Glenshaw and Allison Park, according to the Coroner's report.

Korpanty, who maintained offices in the Bowman Building, apparently did not see the train approaching. The machine was hurled about 50 feet down the tracks, according to Deputy Coroners Stanley Guzenski and John McQuaid. A motorist sped for help to the home of Dr. George F. Roberts, Allison Park, who pronounced Korpanty dead from a broken neck and internal injuries.

Korpanty, counsel for the Polish Falcons of America, of which his wife, Mrs. Marie Korpanty, was vice president, was in Beaver yesterday, on business for the Falcons and then went to Warren, O. He was returning from Warren when his machine was struck.

Korpanty, born in Wilkes-Barre, was graduated from Duquesne University Law School in 1916 and in 1917 was admitted to the bar. He leaves his wife, three children, Henry, 15; Irene, 12, and Leo, Jr., 10.

The crossing is one of several in that district being eliminated. Construction of a new road has been under way for more than a year.

NEW MOVE SET TO 'AX' SUBWAY

A new swan song for the $6,000,000 subway bond issue, authorized by the people in 1919, is being written by Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner, who will present an ordinance revoking the bond issue before City Council next Monday.

Following Controller James P. Kerr's recent announcement he would introduce a bill in the State Legislature repealing the bond issue because he didn't believe Pittsburgh was ready to carry out the rapid transit project, Benner discovered that an act of 1927 gives Council authority to block sale of the bond issue.

Council at a later date could repeal its revoking ordinance and order the sale of the bonds, it was explained.

Mrs. Rauh to Hear Of Board's Action

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, head of the city welfare department, today was to meet two representatives of the State Board of Nurse Examiners to hear an explanation of the recent elimination of Mayview from the state's list of accredited nursing schools. Miss Anne Wray and Sister M. Placide McCoy were to see Mrs. Rauh.

Displaymen Elect, Plan Convention

Plans for the national convention in June and election of officers marked a meeting of the Pittsburgh Displaymen's Association in the William Penn Hotel last night. Officers elected were: President, C. F. Goettman, of the Joseph Horne Company; vice presidents, Fred Heidelberg, of McCreery's, and A. Greiner, of Kaufmann's; secretary, Jack Baldinger, of Frank & Seder, and treasurer, William Wallace, of the Rosenbaum Company.

TOOK PILLS FOR 30 YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Mr. Forsythe Endorses ALL-BRAN for Constipation

If you suffer from headaches, loss of appetite and energy or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read this voluntary letter:

"After taking pills and tablets for about thirty years for constipation, I started to take your ALL-BRAN three times a day according to directions. Today I can eat cheese, and that is binding, and certainly feel fine."—Mr. Ed. Forsythe, Box 219, Youngstown, N. Y.

Science says ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using patent medicines—so often habit-forming?

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. In serious cases use with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

CHARGE THREAT IN 'NUMBERS'

When Charles Johnston, Negro, of Webster avenue, appears in the office of Justice of the Peace Margaret M. Morgan, Sewickley, tomorrow night, he will be prosecutor in one case and defendant in another.

Johnston will prosecute in the "numbers" headquarters raid at 1407 Wylie avenue, which operated under the title of the Crystal Smoke Shop. Three Negroes, including William (Woogie) Harris, will be defendants.

Johnston, Squire Morgan said, will defend himself on a charge of sending a threatening letter to June Turner, a defendant in the "numbers" raid, asking him for $27.97 for train fare for Winston-Salem, N. C., with a promise not to appear as a prosecutor in his case. Johnston is now in the county jail.

RAZE MANSION TO ESCAPE BIG TAX LEVY

To avoid payment of heavy taxes the old McDowell mansion at Baum boulevard and Aiken avenue is being dismantled by Horace McDowell, son and heir of the late J. C. McDowell.

The house was in good condition.

A stained, leaded glass window that formerly was at the head of the staircase will be taken to Victoria, Texas, where Horace McDowell is living, and placed in a new Methodist Episcopal church to be built by him as a memorial to his parents.

J. C. McDowell built his home here 32 years ago and lived in it until his death. He was prominent in Pittsburgh business and charitable circles.

He began life as an oil driller. Later he made a fortune estimated at more than $60,000,000.

He was one of the organizers of the Philadelphia Gas Company and of the Duquesne Light Company, and was first vice president of both.

As a pioneer in the field of natural gas he instituted the first pipe line of natural gas in the United States and the first use of a natural gas heating unit in the home.

He was first vice president of the Harry Dougherty Oil Company and first president of the Gulf Refining Company.

Mr. McDowell was the donor of the Christ Methodist Church, where he served as superintendent of the Sunday school for a number of years. He contributed over $2,000,000 to the Women's Christian Temperance Union, friends say.

Slayer Suspect Arrives From Coast

Louis Dallo, alias Scaratow, 22, of 41 Overhill street, was in the county jail today on a murder charge after being brought from Los Angeles by Detective Walter Monaghan.

Monaghan said Dallo admitted being present when Charles Weddles, owner of a barbecue in McKeesport road, was shot to death in June, 1930, in a holdup. Louis Zemmler is serving a life sentence for the murder.

Aged Man Ends Life To Avoid Poorhouse

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—L. C. Palmateer, 70, critically wounded his wife with a shotgun discharge and then committed suicide with the same weapon in their home here last night. He left a note saying:

"This crime has been premeditated for three years. She was planning to send me to the poorhouse."

PASTORS HERE FAVOR LEAGUE

Answers to a questionnaire submitted to 92 ministers who are members of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches was made public late yesterday.

Immediate entry to the League of Nations was favored by 62. Seventy-eight voted against military training in schools; 75 favored substantial reductions in armaments, even if America has to take the initiative and make proportionately larger reductions; 59 opposed armed intervention, and 63 thought the churches should go on record as opposing future conflicts.

Drug Store Window Discovered Smashed

A show window of the Southview Pharmacy, 1146 Brownsville road, was found broken early today by police, who said no apparent attempt to enter the store had been made.

Homewood Church Will Stage Comedy

At the Westinghouse High School auditorium Friday, the amateur thespians of the Homewood Presbyterian Church will present Barry Conners' three-act comedy, "Applesauce."

Mr. Clawson.

Two Men Fined $50 As Pool Operator

Robert Klanor, 23, of Freyburg street, and Frank Waldo, 37, of Holt street, were fined $50 each, with an option of 30 days, in South Side Police Court today. They were charged with operating a numbers lottery.

LOAN OF HORSES HELD ILLEGAL

City Council wants to lend two teams of horses to the Helping Hand, but the city's Law Department says it isn't legal.

The horses, old ones in the Bureau of Highways and Sewers, were to be used for spring plowing at the Helping Hand's farm at Harmarville.

John S. Herron, president of Council, says the horses are not needed by the city and that he will try to find some way to let the Helping Hand have them.

Fire Bureau Auto Purchase Proposed

An ordinance authorizing the expenditure of $4,500 for five automobiles to be used by the Bureau of Fire was in Council today. Another ordinance calls for the purchase of two bookkeeping machines for the Mayview business office at a cost not to exceed $3,393.

Turtle Creek Agrees To Tax Cut Parley

A Councilmanic committee to meet with a taxpayers' committee to discuss a reduction in the 1933 tax millage was named last night by Turtle Creek Council.

A petition was presented Council by members of the Non-Partisan Civic Club of the borough, requesting a three-mill reduction from the present levy of 14 mills.

WILKINS' WIFE GOING TO POLE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Sir Hubert Wilkins is planning another submarine exploration of the North Pole, and this time, it appeared today, Lady Wilkins may accompany him.

In an address before the Poor Richard Club, the noted explorer reaffirmed his faith in the submarine as the safest vessel for exploration of the polar regions. The second trip will be made in a new craft, the Nautilus II, built especially for navigating under the ice.

While the new craft is being constructed, Sir Hubert said he will join the Lincoln Ellsworth expedition to the South Pole. Together with Bernt Balchen, he and Ellsworth plan to fly across the continent from the Ross Sea to the Weddell Sea and return without landing, he said. The expedition will leave Norway in August for New Zealand and will start for the Antarctic regions about December 1.

Although Lady Wilkins would "love" to go on the second polar expedition, she said it was "entirely up to my husband."

ELEVEN REDS GIVEN FOR BOTTOMLEY

BESIDES BEING A holdout and a newlywed, Jim Bottomley has gained distinction in another direction. In the trade that shifted him from the Cardinals to the Reds, more players were delivered in payment for him than ever before were given up in exchange for one diamond athlete. At the time the deal was made, many baseball followers suspected that the Reds were giving more than Estel Crabtree and Owen Carroll for the slugging first-sacker, and that they had the right dope is proved by developments, which show that Cincinnati parted with no fewer than 11 men to acquire Sunny Jim.

Jim Bottomley

In addition to giving Outfielder Crabtree and Pitcher Carroll to St. Louis, the Reds have since released nine other players to Cardinal farms. Third Baseman Wally Gilbert and Harvey Hendrick, utility man since purchased by the Cubs, were turned over to Columbus in the American Association; Outfielder Lance Richbourg and Pitcher Al Eckert were shipped to Rochester in the International League; Outfielder Gene Moore went to Houston in the Texas League, and Dale Mills, John Rigzo, Ed Meyers and Norbert Kleinke were transferred to Elmira in the New York-Pennsylvania League.

THOUGH THE A'S generally are pictured as a veteran club, they actually have more young players than any other outfit in the American League. The outfield of Cramer, Finney and Coleman is the junior group of the circuit, not one boasting a full year's major experience. Shortstop Eric McNair is a kid and Third Baseman Mike Higgins is only 23.

Jimmy Foxx, though considered a veteran, is but 25. Mickey Cochrane is not yet 30. Max Bishop, 33, is the only oldtimer. The pitchers, except Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg, are young men.

THE CLEVELAND CLUB had to boost its first offer to get Vosmik and Hildebrand in line, but is not making much progress with the other holdouts.

In general, Cleveland is giving Brooklyn a run for the holdout leadership. Among those who have demanded better terms are Wes Ferrell, Roy Spencer, Mel Harder, Johnny Hudlin, Willie Kamm and Dick Porter.

ONE OF THE points raised by Connie Mack in urging the final passage of the bill legalizing Sunday baseball in Pennsylvania is that among all the cities where Sunday sports were made legal there never has been the slightest desire on the part of the citizens to repeal the law. They found out it was a good thing for the morals of the community, stopped corner loafing and other nuisances. "Money does not enter into my feelings," Connie adds. "Why, in the few remaining years I have to spend on this earth, what good would the dollars I might get out of Sunday baseball do me? If I never opened the gates of Shibe Park, and never pocketed a dollar from games played on Sunday, I still would be a strong advocate of sports on the first day of the week."

John McGraw

WILL JOHN M'GRAW eventually follow Honus Wagner as a comeback? Many baseball men in the East believe there is at least a possibility. They hold that Bill Terry is distinctly on trial this year, and that if the Giants sag Terry will be the goat.

So they see a chance that McGraw will do his return from Elba before the end of the 1933 season. Certain it is, they declare, that if the Giants flop, their crowds will be thin, they will be the butt of the jokesmiths in the big city, and the demand for McGraw to put on a team-saving stunt will be too strong to be denied.

COACH ROY CLIFFORD, whose Western Reserve Redcats will come to town tomorrow to try to wrest their third consecutive basketball game from the Pitt Panthers, will have in his lineup two men who have played only under his own personal supervision through a stretch of eight years.

Steve Bernardic and George Berwald, forward and center, respectively, have played on Clifford-coached quintets all their court lives. Both come from Collinwood High School, in Cleveland, where they were coached by their present tutor. Entering Western Reserve, they found Clifford coming in at the same time as head coach of the Redcats, and he saw to it that their freshman training was just so.

THESE ARE THE scoring stars of the Reserve team, and they are playing their final year together, along with Eddie Finnegan, guard, and Eddie Cherlillo, forward. The four were responsible for the 32-14 defeat handed to Pitt in 1931 and the 45-19 licking administered last year. Incidentally, the visit of the Clevelanders will remind Pittsburgh fans that a former Panther sports chief, Karl E. Davis, is executive secretary of the Reserve athletic committee and doing a fine job in bringing the school to the front.

When the Sun-Telegraph recently published the fact that Syracuse University oarsmen had decided to put on some races at their own expense in order that Coach Jim Ten Eyck, now almost 80, might realize his ambition to complete 30 years of coaching at that school, John T. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the A. M. A., sent a letter of congratulations to the veteran.

The Taylor family, like the Ten Eycks, has been famous in aquatic sports. The late James Gordon Taylor, father of John T. and James R., the latter now swimming coach at the Keystone Club, was one of the greatest oarsmen of his day. Ten Eyck pays the elder Taylor a tribute in a letter from Syracuse just received by John, and also recalls the old Hulton course at Oakmont and the late John Teemer, once great sculler of McKeesport.

"I WAS VERY glad to receive your letter," Ten Eyck writes. "Indeed, I have not forgotten your good father, Jimmy Taylor. Neither have I forgotten his wonderful prowess with the oar and sculls, nor the records he has left behind. The Taylor-Winship crew! What memories it brings back to me!

"I saw them row at Saratoga. I was a kid and the guest of the Ward brothers at the races there, as I lived near them on the bank of the Hudson at the time. The Hulton regatta also is fresh in my memory. What a race that was, if you remember, in the final heat, between John Teemer and Peter Connolly.

John T. Taylor

"SO YOU PLAYED water polo with my son Ned when he was a student at Penn? That is very interesting to me. Ned made a fine coaching record at Wisconsin, Duluth and in Havana. Last spring I was hit a knockout punch by that arch enemy, bronchial pneumonia, and was down for, not the full count, but on my back for several weeks in a hospital, the first time in my life. I summoned Ned, and he did a great job. He has a son of 22, and when Ned was his age he was a ringer for the kid. The lad is named James A. Ten Eyck II. He was a freshman at Carnegie Tech a couple of years ago, but the depression forced his dad to withdraw him from school. There will be rowing at Syracuse this year, but the students will be compelled to finance it themselves. I am in very good health and expect to be on the job as usual."

CITY LEAGUE LEADERS IN TILTS TODAY

By JULIUS LEVIN

Preparations for the staging of the annual basketball elimination series involving the various sectional winners in the W. P. I. A. L. will be arranged tomorrow evening when officials of the league hold a meeting in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

The meeting will be attended by Edmund Wicht, secretary of the P. I. A. A.; George W. Cassler, chairman of the W. P. I. A. L. basketball committee; J. Foster Gehrett, secretary of the W. P. I. A. L., and W. H. Crane, president of the W. P. I. A. L.

TO DISTRIBUTE GAMES

Steps will be taken to play off some of the eliminations away from Pittsburgh to save expenses. Heretofore the majority of the games were played in the Pitt Stadium pavilion. Last year some of the contenders found it to their advantage to play their championship games within their territory.

The races for the championships in the various sections of the W. P. I. A. L. will be resumed tonight, although some divisions will remain idle until Friday.

Both leaders in the City League see action this afternoon. In Section I, South goes after its eighth straight victory by opposing Fifth Avenue at the South Side Market House. South has been extended in its last three games, although it displayed enough class to squeeze out victories over Allderdice, Connelley and Westinghouse. In two of the games, the South Siders won by a margin of two points, while in the Connelley contest only one point separated the two teams at the finish.

FIFTH STRONG

Fifth Avenue is one of the strongest teams in Section I, and may prove a tough opponent for the Washabaugh boys this afternoon. In other Section I games Schenley plays at Peabody and Westinghouse at Connelley.

Perry High, leader in Section II, likewise makes a bid for its eighth straight victory by opposing Allegheny Vocational on the latter's floor. Langley plays at Oliver and Allegheny stakes its hopes for the title on the outcome of its battle with South Hills in other Section II frays.

BUTCH SCORES TECHNICAL K. O.

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 7.—Youngstown fistic fans today were planning to invade Pittsburgh next Monday night for the purpose of looking further into the case of the Steel City's hard-hitting little southpaw, Mose Butch, who meets Fidel LaBarba, nationally known featherweight, at Motor Square Garden.

Butch met Baby Face Matheson, of Buffalo, here last night and won by a technical knockout in the tenth and final round when the referee stopped the bout to save the Buffalo boxer from further punishment. Butch weighed 121½ pounds, Matheson 116.

In a six-round go, Red L...ton, of Ellwood City, defeated Tom Farrow, of New Castle.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A MATCHBOX TONGUE—Zelman Gogi, who is able to light a match by striking it against his tongue, can do so through a curious development of the conical papilae of the tongue. He was examined by Dr. Bruce, associated with Queen's College in Benares, who found that the papilae of the subject were oversized and of a hard, horny structure. He demonstrated his curious skill with matches repeatedly, and the examiner reported that his sensation of taste was apparently atrophied.

LOCAL GOLFERS WIN IN SOUTH

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7.—C. M. Scott, of Pittsburgh, teed off this morning in the first round of match play for the South Florida golf championship here.

TRAILS MEDALIST

Scott qualified yesterday with a card of 37-35-72. But for erratic putting on several holes, the Pittsburgh golfer would have romped off with the qualifying medal for he garnered four birdies, which includes a pair of deuces.

Playing in defense of his title, Albert R. Hakes, of Dunkirk, N. Y., won the medal with 34-36-70. One over par to lead the field by two strokes. Scott was second and L. M. Goss, of Bedford, Pa., followed with 37-37-74. Tommy Goodwin, New York state amateur titleholder, with 37-38-75, came next.

MRS RILEY QUALIFIES

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7.—The first round of matchplay in the annual Bay Shore-La Gorce women's golf championship is being contested here today. Among those participating is Mrs. L. G. Riley, of the Edgewood Country Club, of Pittsburgh, who is opposing Mrs. Jack Hagen, of Salisbury, N. Y.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, Mo., women's Western champion, won medal honors with 41-40-81. The Missouri player set the pace for the field by three strokes, second place going to Miss Bea Gottlieb, of New York.

Y CARDS STAG NIGHT

Boxing and wrestling will feature the "Stag Night" program at the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening. Members and their friends are invited. Following the entertainment the Emblem Club will have a meeting and a buffet luncheon.

GELBERT LOST FOR SEASON

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Branch Rickey, field marshal of the St. Louis Cardinals' far flung baseball forces, definitely has abandoned any hope he had felt that Charley Gelbert, once considered the greatest young shortstop in baseball, would play in the Redbird infield this season.

Gelbert swung into conference with the Cardinal vice president on crutches, meeting Rickey for the first time since the accidental discharge of a hunting gun all but tore away the calf of one of his legs last fall.

FRISCH NOT SIGNED

Frankie Frisch, co-star with Gelbert for four years in the Cardinal infield, came with his limping mate and for three hours they talked of their individual problems. Rickey made slight progress in reaching a settlement with Frisch of the financial differences that sprung up when the former flash of Fordham glimpsed the figures on his 1933 contract.

But of Gelbert, the David Harum of the Cardinal varsity and farm system could only express optimism for the future. Rickey said:

"Charley may not even go South with us. He's very optimistic, and I am, too, but it's for 1934, and not this coming season.

"At first we were afraid that Gelbert would never play again, but the doctors who operated on his leg in Philadelphia did a remarkable job of nerve grafting. He still has an open wound in the calf and he insists that he'll be in there at short during the summer."

SECOND OPERATION NEEDED

Rickey further explained that even when the wound was healed, and another plastic operation performed, it will take Gelbert a long time to regain normal strength in his leg muscles.

During the long hospital siege, muscles unaffected by the gun shot have shriveled through inactivity and must be developed all over again.

Race Association To Safeguard Sir Malcolm

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Racing Association officials here have taken steps to safeguard Sir Malcolm Campbell from taking any hazardous chances when he opens his assault for a new world land speed record here February 10.

They announced he will be instructed to take his car to the beach at the time deemed advisable by the local association and that he also will be instructed as to what speed he may attain safely. Beach conditions, visibility and all other factors bearing on Campbell's safety will be considered by the association.

WYKOFF WINS AT NEWARK

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Frank Wykoff, one of the world's fastest humans on the cinder path, is ready to go places on the hard boards served up to indoor track athletes.

The Southern California speedster ran off with two firsts and a second in the three-event sprint series of Seton Hall College's annual games last night.

Ed Siegel, New York A. C., drew first blood by outstepping Wykoff in the 40-yard race, but the westerner registered his first indoor triumph a bit later by scooting off with the 50-yarder, and he added his second first in the 60. Siegel was second by inches both times, and Bill Bruder, of the Newark A. C., was third in all three. The times were 4 3-5, 5 3-5 and 6 2-5, respectively.

George Lermond, New York A. C., won the two-mile handicap by 20 yards, in 9 minutes 30 1-5 seconds.

Bernie McCafferty was just as impressive in winning the famous "Waldron 600" in 1 minute 13 4-5 seconds.

INTERNATIONAL CARD SET

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The International Baseball League, beset with financial and managerial worries since the close of the 1932 season, solved a few of its problems yesterday with the announcement of the sale of the Albany franchise, the adoption of a 168-game schedule, exclusive of the playoffs, and the approval of a player bonus for the team finishing at the top of the entire league standing.

The Albany franchise, owned by the Chicago Cubs and operated the past two years under option by Clarence Rowland, was sold to Joe Cambria, of Baltimore. Although not officially announced, Bill McCorry, for 10 years manager of the Albany club of the defunct Eastern League, was said to be associated with Cambria in the deal, and probably will manage the Senators.

The 168-game schedule, the same as last year, opens the season April 12 in the four Southern cities and closes September 10, eight days earlier than in 1932.

The early closing date was set to allow time for the series of playoffs, adopted at the last meeting. The dates for the playoffs probably will not be set until the teams qualifying are definitely determined.

Hyatt Stars Again As Oilers Advance

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The Tulsa Oilers defeated the Alberts, of Cedar Rapids, 34 to 21, last night in a Missouri Valley A. A. U. basketball game.

The home team led throughout two-thirds of the encounter, but fell behind as Wilcox and Ed Break, recently declared ineligible for Western Conference basketball at the University of Iowa, went out on personal fouls.

SEVENTH WIN IN ROW AIM OF LOCALS

The Lineup

DUQUESNE		GENEVA
MacDougall	F	Aultman
Birch	F	Ginsberg
Brenner	C	Nase
Feldman	G	Manning (C)
Moore (AC)	G	Grahame

By JESS CARVER

The cry of Duquesne University's varsity basketball warriors tonight is that famous old ..... "Come Seven!"

The Dukes, making their second appearance in four nights on the Beaver Falls High School floor, battle Geneva College's tough Covenanter quintet in the second game of the annual home-and-home series and for the second time within a week and, if they can win, they'll not only make it two in a row over the Genevians, but they'll hang up their seventh win in a row since losing the second contest of the season to Westminster.

REITER ON BENCH

The odds do not favor the Dukes to any great extent in their start against the formidable Gold and White quintet. Not only will they be attempting to beard the Covenanters in their own den, but it looks as if they'll have to try the bearding act minus the services of one of the star members of the caste—Marty Reiter. The clever little guard is suffering with a throat ailment and does not figure to play tonight.

He was out of yesterday's final warm-up drill and Coach Chick Davies shifted Art Feldman to Marty's guard and inserted Jim MacDougal into the lineup at forward. This combination isn't a setup by any means, but it is not the one that has been clicking so well since the locals lost to Westminster.

Geneva, appearing here in Pittsburgh last week, gave the Dukes a merry tussle before bowing by a 37 to 31 count. A year ago, the Beaver Falls team lost here, but rallied to turn the tables on their own court, although they had to go into an overtime period to accomplish the feat. The same situation may well arise tonight.

Aside from the shift involving Reiter, both lineups will be the same that battled it out here last week.

PITT AFTER REVENGE

Pitt's "point a minute" quintet, which has averaged 41 points per game in its last half dozen starts, will hold a final preliminary drill this afternoon in preparation for tomorrow night's engagement in the Stadium Pavilion with the Western Reserve Red Cats.

When Pitt (or Tech or Duquesne, for that matter), beats a team two years hand running it's not a especially hot bit o' news, but when a team takes one of the local quintets the same way, it is something. That is exactly what Western Reserve has accomplished against Pitt.

Coach Carlson was well pleased with the way in which his charges performed in the East last week in nailing Fordham and the Army. The contests were little more than good workouts for the Panthers, who trounced the Rams with ridiculous ease and were not forced to any great lengths to knock off the Cadets.

This Reserve team, however, is a veteran aggregation. It has been together for three campaigns, and in Bernadic, Finnegan and Charlillo, has three crack performers.

Both the Pitt and Duquesne boxing teams, which meet in an Intercollegiate Conference match in the Stadium Friday night, are being driven at top speed by the coaches this week. Pitt's strength has been added to by the return to the team of Cowboy Seigal, the left-hooking Iowan.

Pat Corr's swimmers have two Eastern Collegiate Swimming Association meets on for the week end. Friday they take on Franklin and Marshall at Lancaster and meet Delaware on Saturday.

Ny To Attempt Comeback Saturday

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Erik Ny, Swedish middle distance runner, will run the mile in the Boston A. A. Games this Saturday, confident he can atone for his poor showing in the Millrose meet last week.

Ny collapsed on the ninth lap of the Wanamaker mile in the Millrose Games and explained afterwards he had been so excited over the ceremonies leading up to the event, the introductions and a radio speech he was called upon to make at the last minute, that he could not do justice to himself.

COLLEGE GAMES TONIGHT

Duquesne vs. Geneva at Beaver Falls.
Bethany vs. Thiel at Greenville.

SULK, DEMORE SCORE QUICK KNOCKOUTS

Introducing the 1933 junior A. M. A. amateur boxing champions—boys, step up and take your bows:

112-pound class—Joe Sulk, Willow Club—a nifty puncher.

These lads won their titles last night as the annual A. M. A. tourney was completed at the Keystone A. C., with the Willow club team, of Pittsburgh, capturing the team trophy and five of the eight titles. Two of the lads, little fellows, Joey Sulk and Tony DeMore, won their titles via the thrilling knockout route, stopping highly touted opponents in both instances.

The K. A. C. gymnasium was jammed to the guards, standing room was at a premium and so exciting the action that not a soul left until the last bout was over.

SEMI-FINAL ROUND

112-pound class—Matt Oznak, Emerald A. C., defeated Frank Flavin, Willow Club, three rounds; decision. Joe Sulk, Willow Club, knocked out Sam Cravotta, Monon Valley A. C., first round; time, 1:40.

118-pound class—Sammy Angott, Tucker A. C., Washington, won from Phil Tumenalli, Willow Club (technical knockout), second round; time, 2:25. Tony De More, Willow Club, defeated Frankie Wingo, Willow Club, three rounds; decision.

126-pound class—William Miller, Boys' Club, defeated John Matthews, Pleasant Valley A. C., New Salem, three rounds; decision. Harry Krause, Pittsburgh Lyceum, knocked out Bill Coll, Boys' Club, first round; time, 1:40.

147-pound class—Jimmy Clark, Oil City A. C., defeated James Campbell, Y. M. H. A., three rounds; decision. Tarzan (Art) McGivern, Willow Club, defeated Jimmy O'Brien, Y. M. H. A., three rounds; decision.

Semi-finals—Dutch Weir, Twenty-seventh Ward Republican Club, defeated John Kavaushaney, Pleasant Valley A. C., three rounds; decision. John Ochs, Willow Club, defeated John Neistinger, Aliquippa A. C., three rounds; decision.

FINAL ROUND

Toledo Club Given To Bondholders

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 7.—(INS.)—The franchise of the Toledo Mudhens, American Association club, now in receivership, today was turned over to the club's bondholders in a decision handed down by Common Pleas Judge James Martin.

Three bids for the purchase of the club were rejected by Judge Martin. Two of the bids had been made by local interests and the third by Clarence (Pants) Rowland, of Chicago.

The action of the bondholders as to whether they will operate the team or sell it has not been decided, it was said.

The new franchise holders have bonds of $115,000 outstanding against the club, which was thrown into receivership late in 1931.

Truxal New Coach At Youngwood High

Truxal is a graduate of Youngwood High School. He atttended and graduated from Bucknell University with the class of 1930. During his college career, Truxal played end for the Bisons. Upon his graduation he served as line coach at Bucknell for one season, accepting a position as assistant coach under A. A. (Buzz) Wesbecher, at Youngwood, the following year.

Sport Shorts

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—An amendment to the Illinois boxing law, which would make possible 15-round bouts, was expected to be introduced in the State Senate and House today. The amendment is sought to permit a heavyweight match, possibly between Max Schmeling and Max Baer, as a World Fair attraction some time next summer.

PALM BEACH, Fla.—The Artists and Writers Association started its annual golf tournament with scores ranging even higher than Rube Boldberg's 118. Grantland Rice, president of the association, was medalist with an 82. Some of the players listed in the first round match parings didn't even turn in cards, but were presumed to have "qualified" anyway.

CLEVELAND—Announcement that Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, will meet King Levinsky in a 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden, New York, on February 17, has been made by Risko's manager, Danny Dunn.

TURTLE CREEK VICTOR

The crack Turtle Creek Union High School swimming team captured its seventh dual meet of the season yesterday, defeating Allegheny, 39 to 25.

Between Rounds

Battling Gizzy has suffered a cut lip in training and both of his bouts in the South are off. He was to box Chino Alvarez at Savannah, Thursday night, and Battling Shaw at New Orleans, next Monday night.

The card is complete for the popular-priced show in the Moose Temple tomorrow night. Eddie Zivic boxes Don Asto in the main bout and there will be seven four-rounders, as follows: Jimmy Gilligan vs. Dan Billick, Red Bruce vs. Martin Pregard, Johnny Birek vs. Mike Barto, Ray Jennings vs. George Pirrung, Sammy Burns vs. Jimmy Loizes, Patsy Wallace vs. Joe Bazzone and Elmer Wilson vs. Frankie Portland.

Motor Square Garden, which has Fidel La Barba and Moose Butch in its windup next Monday night, is working on a fourth meeting between Ted Yarosz and Eddie (Kid) Wolfe for two weeks later.

Sammy Paris, local bantamweight, and Jimmy Engle meet in the main bout at Youngstown next Monday night.

I. K. S. FIVE UNBEATEN

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement House basketball team, undefeated in 21 straight games, will meet Mingo Junction on the I. K. S. floor Friday. The I. K. S. Reserves meet Goodwill in the preliminary.

FIGHT ON BLUE LAWS HOLDS UP MAJOR CARDS

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The 1933 major league schedule probably will not be announced for several weeks, perhaps longer. The schedule-makers are delaying final action until the Pennsylvania Legislature rules definitely on the question of Sunday baseball.

Three clubs, the Philadelphia Athletics, of the American League, and the Phillies and Pittsburgh Pirates, of the National, will be affected by the Legislature's decision, whichever way it may go.

The American League listed no mid-winter meetings this year, but the National League solons were booked for a session here today.

Three more Giant players sent in their contracts today, bringing the total to 26. They are Joe Martin and John Tobin, outfielders, and John Salveson, pitcher.

First Baseman Eddie Morgan, a stubborn holdout the past two years, came to terms with Cleveland. Al Wright and Dick Gyselman infielders with San Francisco last year, signed with the Boston Braves.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

West Virginia vs. Wash-Jeff, Washington, Pa.

Battling Shaw vs. Joe Ghnouley, 10 rounds, St. Louis.

Miss Hollins Wins Coast Play Medal

TUNERO VICTOR

PARIS, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Kid Tunero, Cuban middleweight, outpointed Kid Nitram, of France in 10 rounds here last night to gain the right to face Marcel Thil, generally recognized as champion of the 160-pounders, in an outdoor championship match this summer.

Dublinsky Beats Falco, But Foe Gets Decision

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago lightweight star, learned a lesson last night in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden, and it is that almost anything may happen when you don't knock out your man here, as he did Frankie Bojarski in his local debut recently. Last night he whipped Tony Falco, of Philadelphia, in all but the first and ninth rounds, and wound up the loser of Referee Robinson's decision after the judges had split, with L. K. Meininger, who has developed into one of our best judges recently, voting correctly for him, and Judge Frank Brown splitting on a draw.

There was no excuse for a three-way vote, or, for that matter, any question of Dublinsky's superiority. He won convincingly and by a wider margin than that by which Midget Wolgast, the flyweight champion, cakewalked in against Jackie Wilson at the Arena last Friday night, only to have the latter battle declared a draw.

BODY BLOWS TURN TIDE

Dublinsky was too tall and rangy and too good a body puncher for Falco, who started off at top speed and punched the Chicagoan all around the ring with both fists in the first round and part of the second and then wilted gradually under Dublinsky's piston-like punching to the body and straight lefts to the head. Time after time Tony had to grab clinches to break up the midsection pounding of his opponent. Dublinsky let down a bit in the ninth round, and Falco, the aggressor, took that session by a shade, but the final round was a rout, with Dublinsky never easing off and fairly raining blows upon his foe.

Falco put up a good fight considering his physical disadvantages, which also included two pounds in weight, but he didn't come close to winning the fight.

ALABAMA KID WINS

The Alabama Kid, Negro southpaw middleweight puncher, of Dover, O., made a poor showing in the eight-round semi-final with Rosy (Kid) Baker, of Indianapolis. It was a slow motion affair, with both missing more punches than they landed and each taking a lot of time between leads. Alabama won, but the fight was far from a good one, after his string of fine exhibitions here.

Max Elling, of the Hill, was awarded the second bout on a foul when he sank down from an alleged low blow with five seconds to go in the fifth round. Ringsiders were divided in their opinions as to whether he had been hurt with a low punch or had doubled up from a clean blow to the body. Under the rules, he stands suspended for 30 days for refusing to continue, while his opponent is out for 60 days and was paid only for the rounds fought.

BABE, 39 TODAY, STILL OUT OF YANK FOLD

The home-run king, although busily engaged getting organized for his annual jaunt to Florida tomorrow, said, he'd find time for a small party. He added:

Ruth said he would have no chance to see Col. Jacob Ruppert, Yankee owner, before his departure for the South and that any conferences over the salary question would have to be held in Florida. The Yankees have offered the Babe $50,000 for 1933, compared with the $75,000 he drew last season.

GEORGIE MARKS DEAD

AZUSA, Cal., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Georgie Marks, retired feather and lightweight boxer, formerly of New York, was killed in a collision of his motor car and another machine on Valley boulevard yesterday. Since retiring from the ring about five years ago, Marks had been a film cutter in a Hollywood motion picture studio. He was about 27 years old. Marks never was a title contender.

GRAHAM CLUB MANAGER

STAR TO RUN AFFAIRS AT SOUTH HILLS

By TOM BIRKS

Western Pennsylvania's latest addition to the ranks of country club managers was made known today when the board of directors of the South Hills Country Club announced that John Graham, president of the club, had been appointed manager and secretary, the appointment to take effect on March 1.

John Graham

In addition, it was announced that Graham will continue in charge of the grounds, which means that he still will oversee those fine greens and fairways that has made golfing a great pleasure over the Brentwood layout.

RESIGNS AS PREXY

With the appointment going into effect at the end of the month, it will wind up Graham's reign as president. Mr. Graham has been president of the club for two years.

One of the finest golfers in the district and a state three-handicap man, John Graham has won the club championship 11 times, a feat which possibly constitutes a record.

The appointment of a club manager by South Hills is possibly the forerunner of similar action by many country clubs in the district. In these times of depression and economic worries, many boards of directors wish to have keen executives cutting expenses in logical and practical ways.

The wonderful condition of the course, especially when many other courses were burned out, attracted the golfers and the green fees alone covered the current expenses of the club.

Many country clubs in the district have business meetings carded this week. The board of governors of the Alcoma Country Club will meet tomorrow evening.

UNDERWOOD MAY STAY

According to President Tom Nichols, there is still a possibility that George Underwood will be at the club in the capacity of professional again. Some arrangement possibly will be arrived at by the board and Underwood. He is one of the most likable pros in the district. Whether Jimmy Bruno remains as caddie master also will be decided in the next few weeks. Bruno is one of the highest paid masters in the section.

The 1934 annual convention of the National Association of Greenkeepers of America will be held in Pittsburgh, according to word received here from Chicago. The tentative date is Feb. 1, 1934.

LOCAL SKATING MEET OPENS

Preliminaries in junior girls and senior boys' competition will be staged tonight on the Duquesne Garden ice in the speed skating tournament for boy and girl skaters which got under way last night.

In last night's skating, 12 boys qualified for the 880-yard event, while nine girls made the grade in the 440-yard sprint. Nine heats were required in the boys' event and three in the girls'. The summary:

BOYS

First heat—Tim Darragh, Wilson Crost. Time, 1:29 1-5.

Second heat—Eugene Edgard, Albert Brumett. Time, 1:29 4-5.

Fourth heat—Lee Scully, James Demas. Time, 1:29 4-5.

Fifth heat—Robert Burke, Emil Conway. Time, 1:27 1-5.

Eighth heat—Paul Manion, Ed Wuerthle, Bob Schooley. Time, 1:25.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

By GIB MARSH

As the State lawmakers at Harrisburg continue their work of considering the enactment of new laws and amending the old codes, much attention is being given to the game and fish measures.

One amendment has been offered by Representative Clarence Ederer to change a clause of the big game hunting laws, permitting one member of a big game hunting camp to make the entire camp kill of deer, which is six head of legal bucks.

There is no cause for alarm about that amendment becoming a law. It is unlikely to survive the hearing before the joint committee of the game committee of the House and Senate. When the sportsmen of any state can kill 22,822 head of legal bucks in one season, 24,796 head of bucks in another season, and, in an open season on bucks and does, 95,051 head, there is no need for such an amendment.

During every game season some one member of each hunting camp group is fortunate in having more shooting opportunities than his companions. When he bags his one deer he becomes useless to the other members of the camp, except to take part in the driving activities and then unarmed. If permitted by law there is no doubt some skilled deer hunter could bag the entire season's limit for his camp. While it is true each group of hunters, hunting out of the same camp, taking part in the "drives" together, is entitled to kill six head, nevertheless it would not be good sportsmanship. And especially so when the present law provides a season's limit of one deer per season for each hunter. When the bill's lack of equity is explained to the lawmakers it will not have their approval.

The big game laws of the state are ideal and have proved so, especially for the conservation of the deer herds. The laws regulating the killing of bear also have proved practical. Many big game hunters complained about the bear shooting season being set forward to November 10 from November 30 last year.

Groups of sportsmen somewhere in the state have urged the presenting of a measure to the lawmakers providing for a permanent season from December 1 to 15. The December shooting of bear, which was followed for years, proved too strenuous on the bear stock in the state. With 250,000 to 300,000 deer hunters in the woods during the first two weeks in December, the kill of bear was heavy. Bears became scarce, and the best conservation remedy was putting the bear season forward at least until such times as the stock of bears increases.

WAGNER'S FAN MAIL HEAVY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

"Boloney" seems to be the proper term for the matter contained in many letters received by certain celebrities, but there really is a tender meaning to the fan mail which continues to pour into the Honus Wagner home and the office of the Pirates since the announcement of the return of the prodigal to the Pirate fold.

The mailman who works the Carnegie route wherein Wagner resides feels that Santa Claus is playing a return engagement the past week. The epistles are from far and near, from personal friends of the Flying Dutchman as well as from oldtime fans who knew the distinctive physical lines of the shortstop like a book.

"Dear Honus—I am here in Indiana and employed at the Gary steel plant. Please let me know at which base you will be stationed in order that I may purchase seats for the Pirate games in Chicago."

Pirate President Bill Benswanger and Manager George Gibson are deluged with similar notes. The letters invariably congratulate the home officials for their judgment in restoring Wagner to baseball and most of the writers predict bright things for the Freebooters.

Civic leaders, municipal officers, sport organizations and day to day fans have penned letters. Said Benswanger:

"It actually is surprising the number of letters from local and distant points received since the newspapers printed the story of the return of Honus."

Wagner, meantime, is besieged with invitations to speak at various banquets and the like. Today he had a list of eight engagements which he planned to fill. Honus has an impromptu Will Rogers-like way of putting over his stuff.

Chillysauce

In acts concerning prestige, the American League has outsmarted the National consistently, but Benswanger-Gibson trick that brought Honus Wagner back plugs up some ground. And the Heydler boys could make it an encore by putting in an order for a uniform for a gent named McGraw.

The Giants, without the Bery McGraw, will not draw outstanding crowds around the circuit. John J. knew the knack of getting color into his lineups and he could make a remark at the right time that would throw umpires, players, spectators into an uproar.

Bill McKechnie, Braves' pilot, attended the New York baseball writers' feast Sunday night and Bill remained over in the metropolis for today's schedule meeting.

The Wilkinsburg citizen would like to put over another deal or two before the next race begins. Accompanied by his family, McKechnie will leave by auto in a few days for the St. Petersburg camp of the Boston club.

Hope Abandoned For Jim Corbett

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Hope for the recovery of James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion, who is seriously ill with a heart ailment, has been abandoned by his physician, Dr. G. Willard Dickie, who said:

"His condition is such that he might go at any time, or linger a week or even a month."

CALISTOGA, Cal., Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Tom Sharkey, the famous hard-fisted sailor man of another prize ring era, is beating back to health here amid sorrow at the news of the former champion, James J. Corbett, lies in the shadow of death in the East.

Sharkey himself hobbled into the Calistoga Hotel and the mineral baths a few days ago from San Francisco, where physicians said his days were numbered.

But Tom won't stay down. He took a couple of baths, tossed away his crutches, gave an exhibition in the hotel lobby and announced he was ready to fight or wrestle anybody in town.

BOXING FANS RIOT

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—With extreme dullness prevailing in most other markets, bonds found little incentive for initiating any active movement, and in consequence today's was colorless. United States Governments were firmer after yesterday's flurry of selling in the Treasury issues. In the foreign division, improvement in price levels was the rule.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column, United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

STOCK MARKET PRICE CHANGES NARROW

Tobaccos again softened in spots, and there was a little more profit taking in the gold mining issues, but on the whole, price changes were negligible. General Motors's regular dividend had been too widely expected to prove an important market factor, although the stock rose a fraction. Socony Vacuum advanced fractionally, in response to its regular dividend, but other oils were barely changed.

Dividend news this week has been more encouraging than last, with General Motors ordering its regular quarterly payment of 25 cents, and Socony Vacuum announcing another quarterly disbursement of 10 cents. Bearishly inclined quarters last week tried to interpret the cut in United States Steel's preferred dividend as foreshadowing cuts in disbursements of other companies with similar banking affiliations such as General Motors and American Telephone. Important banking quarters, however, said that there was no basis for any such assumption. While United States Steel suffered huge losses in 1932, General Motors a little better than broke even. And American Telephone had substantial profits, even though they were somewhat under the scale of dividend payments. The Telephone directors meet next Wednesday.

The tobacco shares again responded to published reports that a further cut in wholesale cigaret prices was under consideration. This is but an angle of the general price situation, which Wall street is now watching closely. The reaction in commodity prices, which has carried most indices of raw staples to new low levels for the cycle, even below those of last summer, has begun to spread to retail prices in some lines. The ability of the stock market to retain a substantial part of the summer and autumn recovery, while aggregate commodity prices have lost all of their recovery, has been regarded as encouraging.

The cold snap has had a bolstering effect upon some of the commodity markets, starting in wheat yesterday and spreading to hogs and dairy products today. It may also result in larger electric power production and a bigger movement of coal, although the reports will not show that until next week. Such railroad freight reports as are available for last week are inclusive as yet.

COTTON PRICES RULE STEADY

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Cotton future opened steady, unchanged to 5 lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables, which were partially offset by trade buying. March, 5.89; May, 6.02; July, 6.15; October, 6.34; December, 6.46; January, 6.51.

A moderate commission house demand for small lots helped the tone of the early market and after selling off to 6.02c at the start, prices rallied a point or two. The market was quiet and steady within a point or two of yesterday's close at the end of the first half hour.

At midday May was selling around 6.06, with active months generally showing net advances of 4 to 7 points.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 7.—Cotton—Receipts, 18,300 bales, all American. Spot quiet; prices 1 point higher; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 5.59; good middling, 5.29; strict middling 5.04; middling, 5.89; strict low middling, 4.74; low middling, 4.59; strict good ordinary, 4.39; good ordinary, 4.09. Futures closed steady. March, 4.69; May, 4.72; July, 4.74; October, 4.79; December, 4.82; January, 4.84.

MOTORS TO PAY QUARTERLY DIVIDENDS

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—General Motors Corporation yesterday voted the regular quarterly dividend payments to preferred and common shareholders.

To do so, the company had to dip heavily into its surplus, for the company recorded a loss in the fourth quarter of 1932. The draft on surplus, for the full year, amounted to $63,034,738.

However, the company still had $172,780,695 in cash, U. S. Government and other marketable securities at the end of the year against $205,029,119 at the end of 1931.

PAYMENT DATES

The quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common will be paid March 13 to holders of 43,500,000 shares of outstanding common shares of record February 16. The quarterly payment of $1.25 a share on the 1,875,366 shares of $5 preferred stock will be made on May 1 to stock of record April 10.

The company issued a preliminary earning statement for the year, showing net profit of $164,979 against $96,877,107 in 1931. The 1932 figure was after providing for depreciation of real estate, plant and equipment, a figure that totaled $37,173,647. Despite the lessening of business during the year, there was no change in the company's policy of making liberal charges against operations on account of depreciation.

The 1932 earnings were equivalent to only 9 cents a share earned on the $5 preferred stock. In 1931, the balance available for the common stock, after payment of the full preferred dividend, was equal to $2.01 a common share. These net figures were exclusive of the company's proration of profits or losses of subsidiary or affiliated companies, not consolidated with the central organization, and were after charges and taxes.

NET LOSS SHOWN

The company showed a net loss of $10,390,196 in the fourth quarter. It reported a net income of $9,693,027 in the first quarter of 1932; and of $5,326,377 in the second quarter. In the third quarter, it went into the red for the first time since the corporation was organized, showing for the three-month period a deficit of $4,464,229. This left for the first nine months of the year net income of $10,555,175, which was largely wiped out by the fourth quarter loss.

Financial Topics

Motors Dividend Action Discounted; Profit Cheers Street

Maintenance of the $1 dividend rate on its common by General Motors exerted little influence marketwise. Action of the stock suggested that such covering as had been contemplated was done in advance, only scattered demand making its appearance today. Interest centered in the preliminary earnings statement and the disclosure that the company had been successful by a narrow margin in keeping operations in the "black" for the year. The balance of 9 cents a share reported for the preferred stock contrasted with net equal to $2.01 a shade on the common for 1931.

Preliminary returns on Atchison Railway operations for the year, showing a small balance for the common stock, were encouraging, but the really outstanding performance by the road was the addition of $1,000,000 or thereabouts to its holdings of cash and United States government securities. Such holdings are now estimated at approximately $40,000,000. Atchison is liked not only because of its previously indicated power under normal conditions, but more for the reason that its decidedly strong balance sheet places the road in position with any appreciable pick-up in traffic to be among the first of the major carriers to consider resumption of junior dividends.

The National Transportation Committee, which is now placing the finishing touches on its report covering the entire transportation industry, expects that its recommendations and findings will probably be made public on February 20. Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, spokesman for the committee, said that February 14 had originally been selected as a tentative publication date. The committee members felt, however, that some additional time could well be allotted to the group in order to complete the polishing up process. On all recommendations, it was said, a full agreement had been reached, the remainder of the work being largely of an editorial nature. The report will be distributed widely.

There is still a good deal of talk about cigarette price cut in the offing. Yesterday was the day it was supposed to happen. In certain quarters which claim to be close to the tobacco situation, however, it is firmly asserted there won't be any further price cut. R. J. Reynolds & Co. it is said had $4,000,000 of its 1932 advertising appropriation left over at the end of the year. This could easily be used for the same purpose this year without showing in the expense column this year. From an English source it is reported that about 80,000 shares of Reynolds were placed in the London market during last summer's rally.

With the General Motors' dividend out of the way Wall street was still disposed to pursue a waiting attitude so far as the market was concerned. And judging from comment in most quarters the speculative fraternity is prepared to hold aloof from much market activity until the American Telephone dividend meeting a week from tomorrow is out of the way. There is still a wide divergence of opinion on the outcome of that meeting inasmuch as it is realized that despite the fact the company drew to some extent on subsidiary surplus earnings, its net for last year probably fell considerably short of covering the full $9 rate, now in force.

Because of the prominence accorded the rise in the price of hogs late last spring preceding the summer advance in stocks, extension of the upward movement in hog prices today attracted more than a little attention. Hogs at Chicago were quoted 25 to 30 cents a hundred above Monday's levels, and a $4 top was established comparing with $2.80 around the end of last year. Current prices are the best since last November and about the same as ruled this time a year ago. Most observers, however, calling attention to weather conditions and other seasonal considerations, were inclined to give the present rise a chance to prove itself before taking it too seriously.

Northwestern Loan Request Approved

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—The Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company yesterday was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to borrow $11,127,700 from the Reconstruction Corporation to pay equipment obligations and other charges.

This is the fourth loan from the Reconstruction Corporation authorized by the commission. The first was a loan of $7,600,000 on February 23, 1932; the second, $12,461,350 on September 29, and the third, $1,000,000 on October 12. The third loan was for the purpose of purchasing ties.

Rock Island Asks Loan of $8,000,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.(AP.)—The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to authorize it to borrow $8,000,000 from the Reconstruction Corporation. The loan would run three years and would be used to pay principal and interest on its existing indebtedness. The security would be first and refunding mortgage bonds.

J. M. Balfour Describes Workings of Trusts In Great Britain

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

EXTREME CONSERVATISM characterizes the operations of investment trusts in Great Britain. This was made known to a group of 1'' of Pittsburgh's business leaders by the Hon. James M. Balfour, O. B. E., at a dinner given in his honor last night at the Pittsburgh Club by James C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company.

Mr. Balfour, head of three of Great Britain's leading investment trusts, is visiting this country under the auspices of Calvin Bullock, investment banker. He spent part of his day yesterday at the offices of John A. Beattie & Co., investment counsellors.

While Mr. Balfour made no comment on the operations of investment trusts of the management type in this country, remarks showed the existence of wide variations in operating methods.

* * *

Capital Gains Not Considered Profit

THE BRITISH investment trusts never make a practice of viewing capital gains through the sale of securities held as current profits from which dividends can be paid. Such profits, when taken, are reinvested.

According to Mr. Balfour, the usual practice of the British trusts is to turn from a third to a fourth of their profits from interest or dividends on securities held back into the investment account.

This keeps profits from reaching sensational proportions in prosperous business years, but it has the effect of gradually building up earning power.

* * *

No Part Is Taken In Property Management

THE PRACTICE of the British trusts is to refrain from taking any part in the management of corporations in which their funds are invested. Only in cases of notorious mismanagement do the investment trusts step into the operations of underlying companies, and then only to the extent necessary to secure a new management.

Mr. Balfour declared that directors of most of the trusts have almost unlimited powers except that they cannot invest more than 5 per cent of their capital in any single security with the exception of government bonds. In actual practice the trusts usually place only from a quarter of 1 per cent to 1 per cent of their funds in a single security. This gives them a diversification of about 200 securities.

In concluding his address, Mr. Balfour warned that it is dangerous to put too much reliance in pure statistics in making investment and business decisions. Statistical studies are valuable, but they are only one factor to consider. He said:

"Don't treat statistics with too much respect. They are good servants but bad masters."

NAMES STORES' RECEIVERS

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Joseph P. Wales, of Wilmington, and Harry H. Schwartz, of New York, yesterday were appointed receivers for National Department Stores, Inc., a concern operating about 20 department stores and branches in the East, Mid-West and South.

An involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed against the corporation in United States District Court by Charles Safran, of New York, creditor in the amount of $1,408; Gosswein & Levine, a copartnership of New York, creditor in the amount of $600, and Mathilda Greenberg, of New York, with a claim of $2,000.

The concern filed an answer admitting insolvency. A schedule of assets and liabilities will be filed later, it was announced.

The National Department Stores receivership action does not involve the three local mercantile establishments, the Rosenbaum Company, Frank & Seder and the Lewin-Neiman Company, formerly identified with the organization.

Louis A. Behr, president of the Rosenbaum Company said:

"The Rosenbaum Company is not affected by the appointment of a receiver for National Department Stores, Inc., having become a separate corporation some time ago, and our business will continue as usual."

Jacob H. Frank, president of Frank & Seder, said:

"Such action does not affect in the slightest degree Frank & Seder, as theirs is a separate corporation."

H. A. Koch, general manager of the Lewin-Neiman Company, said:

WOOL IMPORTS DECREASE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Any decline in domestic wool production over the next few years would strengthen the position of the domestic wool industry, according to the Department of Agriculture.

The department states that imports of wool in 1932 of only 15,375,000 pounds of combing and clothing wool were the smallest in many years. This compares with 37,298,000 pounds in 1931 and 102,208,00 pounds in 1929. Imports during the next few years should be small.

Employment in the woolen and worsted industries of the United States showed practically no change in December from November and was 5.9 per cent greater than in December, 1931. Activity is above the 1932 average.

Phelps Dodge Unit Wins Patent Suit

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals in New York has handed down a decision in the suit brought by the Circle Flexible Conduit Company against the National Electric Products Corporation, a fabricating branch of Phelps Dodge Corporation, holding that the A. B. C. armored cable patents of the latter are valid.

These patents have been regarded as of great importance by the electrical industry and the decision of the court reverses a decision in the lower court.

January Postal Receipts Lower

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Postal receipts for 50 representative cities last month totaled $24,673,690, a drop of 2.52 per cent from the same month last year.

It compared with $33,097,443 for last December, but the December total was above the normal figure on account of Christmas.

Reuben Receiver For Publix, Ohio

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 7.—(AP.)—Al E. Reuben was appointed receiver yesterday for the Publix Ohio Corporation, which operates theaters here and in 13 other Ohio cities. The theaters will remain open under Reuben's operation.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed by attorneys for the company in Federal Court.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Bayuk Cigars, Inc., reports for the year ended December 31, 1932, net loss of $1,262,556, after taxes, depreciation, inventory adjustment, etc., as against net profit in 1931 of $255,751 after taxes, depreciation and interest, but before reserves of $1,107,012 for adjustment of inventories which were charged against surplus account.

Pittsburgh Steel Foundry report for the year 1932 shows net loss after interest, depreciation and all charges of $320,890, compared with net loss of $110,665 in 1931.

Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. and subsidiary companies, excluding Skouras Bros. Enterprises, Inc., and St. Louis Amusement Company and their subsidiaries for the quarter ended November 26, 1932, shows net loss from operations of $1,746,762 after depreciation, amortization, interest, minority interest, etc., but excluding profit of $966,645 on redemption of 6 per cent convertible debentures and bonds of subsidiaries which was credited to the deficit account. For the quarter ended November 28, 1931, the company reported net loss of $1,848,868, after charges and taxes, but exclusive of $1,881,927 profit on redemption of convertible debentures and bonds of subsidiaries which was credited to surplus account.

Lima Locomotive Works and subsidiaries report for the year 1932, consolidated net loss of $890,536, after charges, as against net loss of $1,414,128 in 1931. Unfilled orders of January 1, 1933, amounted to $1,238,190, comparing with $1,215,425 on January 1, 1932.

Wahl Company for 1932 reports net loss of $588,611 after charges, depreciation and provision for contingent loss on foreign exchange. This compares with net loss of $297,840 for 1931.

McCall Corporation reports 1932 net profit of $1,163,308, equal to $2.13 a share, against $1,603,185 or $2.90 a share in 1931.

CURB SALES, 1932

The following is a list of the final quotations in 1932 of bonds listed on the New York Curb Exchange to be used in making county personal property tax returns. The value of all bonds on January 1 must be listed in the tax return with the exception of those issued by the United States or the State of Pennsylvania or by any county, city, borough, township, school district or incorporated district thereof or by corporations of the State of Pennsylvania or by such foreign corporations as pay the tax thereon to this state. If in doubt as to what stocks and bonds are taxable, inquire at Room 119, Courthouse.

Students Take Economy Course At Allegheny

Classes Arranged to Do Year's Work In Half Time

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 7.—A score of high school graduates in Western Pennsylvania, including four Pittsburgh district students, will take advantage of an "economy course" offered this year by Allegheny College. Freshman subjects have been arranged in one-term classes which will meet often enough to complete a year's work in half the time.

The plan was devised to aid mid-year high school graduates who otherwise would have to wait until the fall term to matriculate.

CHAPTER VIII.

"Charlie," Sue began, after a few moments of utter silence, "I felt that I couldn't refuse a little sail. I want to talk with you. It's only fair. And this is as good a place as any. Just don't forget that I must get to the airport before the end of the afternoon."

Another long silence. They were clear of the basin now, and the clean white sails were drawing. Very shortly they'd be out of the river, standing northeasterly across Dorchester Bay. He was frowning, in a puzzled, intent way.

She went on—"I realize what you must be thinking. It must seem to you that I'm treating you pretty badly."

He muttered—"Excuse me a minute"—and ducked down to shut off the motor. When he returned to the wheel he said nothing; simply busied himself sailing the boat. The course he had in mind would carry them between the buoys off Thompson Island. He meant to coast the north side of Thompson and then head southeastward around the southern tip of Long Island into Nantucket Roads. His first notion had been to swing around Boston Light and head for East Boston and the airport. The wind was a little south of west, mild and pleasant. It was easy going. He loved the way the solid little boat stood up under her modest canvas. Though anything but a racer, she slipped along at a pretty pace.

LIFE DIFFERENT

Sue's brows were knit again. She watched him. But he didn't so much as glance around. His eyes were on the sails and on the course.

"Well, Charlie"—she was impatient now; he caught that—"if you're not willing to talk at all I don't quite see what you brought me out here for."

Sue was angry. But he couldn't help that. Since it was to be a battle, they might as well face the facts. Or so he thought. Sue swung around, deliberately got out that absurd holder, lit a cigaret, and watched the course ahead. The silence deepened and deepened.

But finally she turned back to him. "I can't make you out at all, Charlie," she said. "Probably you'll say that doesn't matter, either. But I've got something to say to you and I'm going to say it. It's this ... I'm sorry. But we can't help what we can't help. Better face the facts. You said I would change. I didn't believe it. But I hadn't seen the world then. I was just a green little village girl. I didn't know anything. But you were right. I have changed. My life is all different. I wanted to say this as nicely as I could, but since you're evidently determined to be disagreeable, I may as well come right out with it. My life is going to be more and more different. As I was, back home, I didn't know what I wanted. I didn't know myself at all. But I do now. And the way I've come to feel, I doubt if I shall ever marry."

SUE INDEPENDENT

Charlie muttered something.

"What's that? You might at least speak so I can hear you."

"I said—'Not even that Dick fellow?' I'm beginning to wonder if you don't owe that to your father and mother. Or at least to your father.'"

"Being nasty won't get us anywhere, Charlie."

"I suppose not." He steered on.

"I'm not forgetting it, Sue. But I've been thinking. You're quite sure you're not thinking of marrying?"

"Perfectly sure."

"Humph!" was all that came from him just then. But the puzzled frown had gone from the freckled, tanned face. He seemed, all in the moment, to know just what he was about and to feel rather relieved about it.

"Well?" cried Sue, sharply.

"Well?"

"Well what?"

She stamped her foot. Then glanced nervously at her watch. Finally she began again. "I used to take it for granted that a dependent girl—and that's just what I was—really had to marry to get anywhere with her life. Just the old conventional idea, you know. What I'd been taught. Now I know that that isn't so. A girl in my position can do as she likes. I'm perfectly free, you know."

"I wonder if anybody is."

"Don't be silly. I am. I'm independent. I can do as I please. I've got my life to live, and I mean to live it. I've got to. I don't know whether you can grasp it, but that's how it is."

GIRL UNHEEDED

To this, Charlie offered no reply. Simply sailed on. He was heading due east now, running free. A pleasant lapping sound came from the rounded bows. Foam and bubbles ran swiftly by and formed a wake astern. The length of Peddock's Island lay off to the south. Hull next. He could see Boston Light off the port bow.

At last Sue broke out in frank, hearty anger. "This has gone far enough, Charlie. I insist that you turn back right now. You'll have the wind against you. We shall be late."

Charlie glanced off to starboard, toward the receding shores of Hull and Nantasket. The light lay nearly abeam now. He didn't choose to speak his mind until they were well clear of the land. And the Provincetown boat was coming in, almost dead ahead. Sue might scream. His hands were shaking so that he had to grip the spokes of the wheel very tightly. But it was a question—so ran his thoughts as he stole a glance at Sue (she was fuming)—how long he could hold her off. She suddenly stood up. He could see that she was mad enough now to strike him.

"Charlie Janes," she cried, in a choking voice, "you turn this boat back now! Do you hear me? Now!"

He was thinking quickly, desperately. The old Bradford was drawing swiftly nearer. They'd have to pass within hail. "We're not going back," he said.

"What's that? Not go——"

"May as well make up your mind to it, Sue. There's no good arguing. Plenty of time ahead for that. Our next stop'll be the Bahamas. Probably Nassau."

She was staring. Would she scream? They might even hear her on shore. Sound travels so over the water. She looked around. Bent over and peered ahead under the main boom. Saw the Bradford. Nearer and nearer it came. He saw her shoulders rise with a quick inhalation of breath. She did mean to scream. And that wouldn't do.

Synopsis

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER JUNIOR COMIC CLUB

McKeesport's Rotary Club, having heard about all the juvenile talent which appears at the meetings of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, held at the Memorial Theater Saturday afternoon, invited Manager Louis Gilbert to bring some of the members to the meeting held Thursday night at the Penn-McKee Hotel.

The youngsters were more than happy to oblige and they presented a variety of songs and dances. The members of the Junior Komic Club who entertained were Regina Razny, Gertrude and Evelyn Usko, Billy Mossbaugh, Lois Compson, the Schwartz sisters and Vera Hollywood. Manager Gilbert acted as master of ceremonies and Jerry Connor accompanied the kiddies at the piano.

Frank Wampler acted as leader for community singing, assisted by a chorus of eight of the lustiest voices from the Junior Komic Club. Miss Sigrid Gayvert at the piano and E. J. Stribrny with his violin furnished the music for this songfest.

During the week more than 80 boys and girls registered at the Memorial Theater for last Saturday's show. Time would not permit Manager Gilbert to allow them all to appear. However, more than 50 of them entertained and the remaining 25 or 30 will appear first at this week's meeting.

Congratulations to all the boys and girls of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club who are celebrating birthdays today.

Hey There, Lefty!

We wish the man who invented revolving doors would realize this.

Jean says that all lefthanded people are twins. When he went to school it was considered a disgrace to be lefthanded. And future incidents have proved that teacher was right.

Lefthanders are bad boys. They are mentioned only twice in the old Testament and not at all in the new.

One of the ancient prophets had an army of 600 southpaws who could throw a stone at a hair's breadth. They terrorized the Egyptian suburbs and walloped everybody to a white blister. Then they broke the blister.

There was also a lefty named Jehab or something intricate.

He walked up to one of the mummified dukes and skewered him with a sword. The king was fat and the sword disappeared. It was a mighty wallop and it was a shame there wasn't three on base at the time.

Prof. Picard will find the boys with the awkward elbows are quite interesting. If he discovers too much about us we will pay him to keep quiet.

The world ignores the existence of the southpaw. Doors, one-armed lunchrooms and double-breasted coats are all constructed to hamper and hinder his progress through this vale of reform and other sorrows.

Some day we hope to have equal suffrage. In the meantime we hope that Prof. Picard is successful in our behalf.

He has an Eden of refuge in case he fails. His brother can always take him safe again away up in that there stratosphere business.

Energy From Atoms?

We Have Always Used It

Inside of the atom, electrons revolve around the nucleus some trillions of times a second. You need not believe that, nevertheless that is just how fast those electrons travel. Terrific force holds the atoms together, preventing the electrons from shooting off in obedience to centrifugal force.

Science says it is time for the world to harness that force.

As a matter of fact, it is the force that we have always been using. You harness an ox to a cart, put a dog on a treadmill, each animal is an engine made up of a collection of atoms. We harness steam, the explosive force of water subjected to heat. Steam power is that of harnessed atoms.

We harness lightning that used to frighten us, make it run our washing machines, vacuum cleaners and railroads. We do not know what electricity is, how it works nor anything fundamental about it. We may discover these things, using electricity, like Moliere's character who found he had been "writing prose all his life without knowing it."

Our real source of energy, to which we owe all power, is the sun, and that giant engine is an engine of atomic force pure and simple.

If Jeans and other great mathematicians, physicists and astronomers are right, the sun's power comes from breaking down and throwing off into space electrons that make up its inconceivable mass.

This may sound fantastic, but it represents the latest results of scientific research. You need not believe it, nor believe that the world is round either.

The Senate Finance Committee finally decides on its "beer bill," apparently to remain decided. You will be allowed to have beer with 3.05 per cent alcohol and "wine" 3.05 per cent alcohol, although there is no such wine.

The 3.05 beer and imaginary 3.05 wine will be taxed five dollars a barrel. The committee thinks that will bring in about $150,000,000 a year, and is probably mistaken. If prohibition reformers persist in their present attitude, which would not allow beer to be sold anywhere in spite of its legality, there could not be much beer to tax except in tax free speakeasies.

Arthur Krock, in Washington, asserts positively, earnestly, that nobody in the administration will say a single word of criticism about President-elect Roosevelt.

"Everybody has scrupulously kept his pledge of silence made at the White House conference." But one slight exception is revealed by Mr. Krock.

President Hoover, Mr. Stimson and Mr. Mills, separately or together, have let it be known that "the President feels that his successor has been going about the debt discussion business in the wrong way and has got himself into a hole."

That's how the old-fashioned mother-in-law feels when the bride moves in and begins shoving the furniture around.

Cooperation and Charity

Calvin Coolidge's Last Message to the American People Deserves to be Kept in Mind.

Well worthy of reflection and application is Calvin Coolidge's last message to the American people.

It was in a letter written by the former President a few days before his death to Bradley Kelly, head of the American Radio News Corporation and director of Hearst Station WINS in New York.

The message was read over the radio by Claude G. Bowers of the New York Journal as part of a New Year broadcast.

"For the year 1933 it seems to me that we need cooperation and charity. The resources of our country are sufficient to meet our requirements if we can use them to help each other. We should cooperate to promote all kinds of business activity. We should do what we can in the way of charity. If all that is implied in these two words could be put into operation, not only would our economic condition begin steadily to improve, but our destitute would secure ample relief. I can think of no better resolution for the new year than to work in these directions."

History in Buildings

Pittsburgh's architects are putting their present leisure to good use by engaging in projects for the public welfare. One of them is the architectural survey of Western Pennsylvania.

The purpose is to locate buildings of architectural or historic importance on this side of the mountains which were erected before 1860 and to make drawings, photographs and studies of them.

The record will not be confined to residences. Information is sought concerning old churches, courthouses, schools, taverns, barns, mills, furnaces, toll houses and fortifications. Some attention will also be paid to old tombstones and early craftsmanship as exemplified, for instance, in hardware.

Pittsburgh has been too busy to give much consideration to the preservation of old buildings or the compilation of records concerning them. Yet there is unquestionably much of interest and cultural value in such a record.

The Buhl Foundation is financing the survey, and the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society is giving assistance. The public can and should co-operate by furnishing information concerning structures worthy of attention.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Mrs. Confucius Says

Men do not believe that there can be any real friendship between women. But there are no more loyal and devoted friends than the two ex-loves of a Don Juan, the two discarded wives of a bigamist—or two women who are jealous of a third woman.

* * *

The tongue of an enemy may wag bitterly; but only the tongue of a disloyal "friend" can get close enough to stab you.

* * *

My Daughter, a whole army of enemies cannot do you so much injury as one false woman-friend. Your enemy does not know your secrets; but your "friend" knows all your weak spots—and just where to strike.

* * *

True friends are the sweetest flowers in the Garden of Life; false friends are the poison ivy—and the sooner they are rooted out and discarded, the safer you'll be.

* * *

Always choose your women friends among those who are so much younger and prettier than yourself, that they regard you as "harmless"—or among those who are so much more successful that they can enjoy playing Lady Bountiful to you.

* * *

Be kind to everybody, be generous to all; but be cautious to whom you do a great favor. There are few souls large enough to endure the pangs of gratitude; and to feel obliged to you, hurts the armour propre of the little souls. They will hate you, not thank you, for a great kindness.

* * *

When an old friend tells you that other people are saying things to her about you, you may be sure that those "other people" went to your "friend", because they found a sympathetic and willing ear, into which to pour their grievances.

* * *

Some women are like spring onions. No matter how fond you are of them, they'll disagree with you and leave you with a bad taste in your mouth.

* * *

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—A plan for a revival of straight vaudeville, with a range of prices from 35 to 75 cents, is being discussed. Responsible backers have secured options on available theaters in key cities, including New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Cleveland and others.

The start is to be made with an entirely clean slate. Standardized vaudeville acts will not be booked. It is contended that the monotonous routine of never-changing acts has been, in a large way, responsible for the collapse of variety. New people in new acts.

Vaudeville outriders are convinced that never were there so many young people of talent ripe for exploitation. There are dancers, musicians, vocalists, magicians and sundry performers who will bring a fresh charm to the almost-abandoned amusement.

These young and ambitious artists may be secured at salaries which will permit moderate admission charges. There will be no continuous performances. It is believed that vaudeville patrons want to go directly to their seats. And that's a jim-crack idea, too.

* * *

As one with a vaudeville fixation, I am hoping that variety's new slate will include at least one trick bicyclist and a trio of satined Indian club jugglers. Nothing in the amusement world suffuses a glow, with me, like a cyclist, one foot on the handle bar, the other on the seat, circling the stage in armfolded nonchalance. And I would rather catch a barrage of over-the-shoulder hurls of Indian clubs—clip, clap, clip, clap—than author six epic poems. And a triolet.

* * *

I recently talked with a magazine illustrator who is shuttering his studio and embarking for France to live in a Briton vilayet until the sun shines. Five years ago, his annual income was in excess of $30,000. The past year he made $150, a single check for an advertisement sketch. He tells me that he is one of 14 in a studio spire completely short-circuited in the enveloping bastinado. "Most of us," he said, "have only our drawing boards left."

A smack of genius haloes the menu of a little restaurant around the corner from Grand Central. Skimming through the list, one comes upon this: "Cold drumstick of chicken—20 cents." The drumstick rests in a leaf of lettuce on a blue plate. And someone should explain the gastronomic nexus between cold chicken and a background of blue pottery. No other color could do the trick. It must be blue.

Years ago, at Keene's, they featured a luncheon dish which corralled Harris Merton Lyon and me to a corner table, once a week, during a valiant struggle to remain on the payroll of Hampton's Magazine. It was listed as "Chilled sour cream nougat." A bowl of the cream, speckled with chives, white beans and pearl onions which made it unforgettable. Dee-vine!

Keene's, with its mottoed, swinging gates, its racks of wall steins, and its dark-timbered dignity, revealed: Rex Beach, flushed with the backfire of his Alaskan novel success; Bob Davis, piloting Munsey's, and buying stories from the now-great for $40 each; William Johnston, idea editor of the World, and author of "Limpy;" Isaac Marcosson, in his thumb-sized shirt-stripes of purple and yellow, and Charlie Somerville, Park Row's Brummel, with pointed cordovan shoes, a gold-headed cane and chamois skin-covered pipe bowl.

Everywhere they gather over coffee cups, talk turns to the monstrous drain on the Rockefeller fortune in the Radio City experiment. Yet, an insider informs me, current expenses and losses are paid with interest on $450,000,000 worth of tax-exempt municipal bonds set aside for the purpose. The principal remains intact.

There's no use, trying to go on with this afternoon tea business. Just when I have grown accustomed to standing around looking silly, holding a caraway seed tidbit in one hand and a cup in the other, I have to hurdle a new barrier. This afternoon I was stymied in a corner with a halitostic intellectual who wanted to discuss the Dred Scott decision.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Does kindness pay?

You have your doubts. You can relate scores of instances to prove it doesn't pay—instances where people rewarded your generosity with gross ingratitude; where they took cruel advantage of your goodness.

There was that note, Ed, that you signed for Bill. You couldn't have refused to sign that note! A swell pal like Bill, whom you'd known all your life—how could you turn him down? Why, Bill would have given his right arm for you, if you'd been caught in a jam. And yet—look what happened! Bill's off to parts unknown today—and you've had to slap a mortgage on the house to pay his note.

"Isn't that a proof that kindness doesn't pay?" you ask indignantly.

And there was that time, Mary, when you nursed Lois through a long sick spell; went without sleep until you nearly broke down yourself; turned your house upside down. But did she ever thank you? No, she even complained to the neighbors about how you "neglected" her! And now you and Lois aren't speaking.

Even your own family—they'll two-time you. Or get so they actually expect you to carry all the burden, and feel insulted if you try to pass it on!

Kindness pay? You'll say it doesn't! Sometimes you actually admire people who are downright stingy and mean.

"They've got the system," you say enviously. "They don't go around making sentimental gestures and getting stung for their pains. They hang on to their money, and refuse to listen to sob stories, and in the end people respect them for it."

Is that how you feel about kindness? I don't blame you. I've felt that way myself. Gotten all burnt up over each new evidence of ingratitude. Wept big, wet tears of self-pity. Sworn I'd never do another generous deed—never trust another human being. And, what's more, I've put my vow into action.

There have been months when I have hated everyone—months when I've dropped kindness from my budget and lived for myself and in myself. And what did it buy me? Plenty! But not at all what I expected.

Didn't I come out of it with more money? I did. Wasn't I widely praised for my common sense? I was. And yet—those safe and sane and selfish months proved to be the most miserable period of my life.

They left me rich in money but poor in soul. They were easy on my arches, but they raised the very dickens with my self-respect.

I had felt pretty good about myself in those foolish days of reckless kindness. There'd been a glorious exhilaration in trusting people and helping people regardless. It gave life a new dimension—made me feel like a reckless god. But now all that was changed. I didn't feel like a god any more. I didn't even feel like a human being. I felt exactly like a peevish squirrel, jittering over its treasured pile of acorns. I had saved my acorns—but lost my thrills. And the acorns weren't worth the price!

SO I'VE COME TO THE CONCLUSION THAT KINDNESS PAYS—NOT BECAUSE IT DOES SOMETHING FOR THE OTHER FELLOW, BUT BECAUSE IT DOES SOMETHING TO ME, MYSELF.

The other fellow may not be grateful or even square. And the bystanders may sneer at me because of my goodness to him. But I can't let that matter. Kindness isn't an obligation I owe the other fellow—nor is it a social duty which depends, for its success, on applause.

KINDNESS IS A CONTRACT BETWEEN MYSELF AND LIFE. FOR MY OWN SAKE, I MUST BE KIND. IT'S THE ONE THING THAT LIFTS ME ABOVE THE SQUIRRELS AND SETS MY BLUNDERING FEET ON THE PATHWAY OF THE GODS.

Courage, Initiative, Vision, Judgment

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

A few points from a government report should be of interest to taxpayers. During the first seven months of last year we have a deficit of $1,271,721,031. In one year the public debt has increased $3,000,000,000. This puts the public debt at $20,801,707,134.

Meanwhile, the public revenue, despite high taxes, is going down.

It is just as well to bear these figures in mind, along with what they may mean in still more onerous taxes, when we are told that the surest way to bring prosperity back to America is for us to take over the $11,000,000,000 due us from foreign nations and add this amount to our own public debt. Or, at least, a good part of it.

It is just as well to keep this in mind reading Neville Chamberlain's ex cathedra statement that England will condescend to discuss her debt with us—provided it is understood that whatever part of her debt we assume will be proportionately assumed in the case of all the other debtor nations, including the defaulters.

And that we ask nothing in return.

Courage Is Needed Now

The night still is dark, but we can see premonitions of dawn. The determination of the coming administration actually to do something in the reorganization of the governmental machinery in the interest of economy and efficiency is evident in the measure introduced by Senator Byrnes. This clothes the President with extraordinary powers, and makes it difficult for Congress to interfere. It provides that the Presidential action in merging and eliminating governmental agencies can be set aside only by a two-thirds vote in both branches of Congress.

Senator Byrnes, of whom we probably shall hear much, is one of the closest advisers of Mr. Roosevelt, and it is a safe presumption that the measure is in accord with the future President's desires.

It means action; because it means a wish to act and a courage to take the responsibility. That is what has been lacking ever since the days when the late Senator Aldrich said that clothed with such power as is to be given the President now, staggering amounts could be saved by him in the cost of government.

* * *

Mr. Roosevelt Is Hard at Work

The day this measure was introduced, Mr. Roosevelt was explaining his plans for Muscle Shoals and the conversion of the entire Tennessee River watershed into a laboratory for the working out of the problems of water power, flood control, navigation, reforestation, industry and agriculture. There is nothing in the plan which is not practicable, and nothing that should not be done, but it goes far beyond any specific plan proposed before.

Here is evidence that Mr. Roosevelt has been hard at work, but more than that—here is proof that he has vision, that he has the instincts of a builder and the spirit of the pioneer and the courage of a fighter.

Our statesmanship thus far has been confined to schemes to patch the house here and there; its impulse has been to follow precedent, to follow the old lines, in the hope that we will get back to the "old days" and ways. Its fear has been to strike out along new paths.

It is encouraging to find, first, that Mr. Roosevelt has been working out practical plans of real development, and second, to find that he has the courage and confidence necessary for effective action.

Muscle Shoals, the people's property, is to be put to work in the people's interest, but great as that will be, it is but part of a grand scheme to face the present and the future with a new spirit.

* * *

Roosevelt Has Vision, Courage, Confidence

There are some things of which we Americans should be ashamed. We have squandered our national resources as a drunken sailor squanders his pay money, and we have not utilized the opportunities nature has given us when we have not squandered them.

We don't like Communism, but Moscow has been showing us what can be done for the material development of natural resources. This is due to the fact that she is eager and young in progress and faces necessity. We have been sleeping on opportunities like an old man who has lost initiative and courage.

There is a ray of light in the fact that the coming President has vision, confidence and courage.

* * *

All Good Men for a Cabinet Post

And there is another streak of light—that seeming certainty that among the official advisors of Mr. Roosevelt in the Cabinet will be Senator Walsh, of Montana; Carter Glass, of Virginia, and Cordell Hull, of Tennessee. We have commented on what it will mean to have Walsh at the head of the legal department, fighting for the public interest. Carter Glass is concededly one of the best minds of his generation in the field of finance. The man who fought through the Federal Reserve System needs no introduction.

And Cordell Hull for more than a decade has been known among the knowing as one of the three or four outstanding statesmen of the time.

I know the cabinets of former Presidents and there is no doubt that a cabinet containing these three men would rank as high as any since the first Washington Administration, and much higher than four-fifths of them. The country in a crisis requires the services at the council table of the head of the nation of just such men as this trio.

There is not a tool among them that selfish interests can handle; not one whose long and distinguished public service has not been concentrated on advancing the public interests.

* * *

Cordell Hull Is a Statesman's Statesman

Cordell Hull, who has been figuring prominently in the headlines recently, is a statesman's statesman. This tall, lean, keen-eyed, soft-spoken, thoughtful Tennessean is of the small tribe of students in public life. He is neither a poseur nor a headline hunter. He belongs to the old school of statesmanship which has been much too rare in this country for seventy years. He bases conclusions on investigations. He never thinks with his prejudices. A problem drives him to the closet for research and meditation, and when he takes a position his feet are on the ground.

Among the members of House and Senate he is one of the very soundest on economics. His vision is world-wide. His speeches are not oratorical efforts—they are as closely reasoned as the opinion of a jurist.

Modest, retiring, courteous to courtliness, he has been the working miner who has brought the precious metal to the surface which more superficial and showy men have made into pretty trinkets and won applause.

A party man, he is the type that redeems the most degraded word "politician." Some years ago, as national chairman, he won the confidence and regard of his party, and more than once has figured in presidential calculations.

Unless the press correspondents are wrong three men who would make great Presidents will be among the advisers of Mr. Roosevelt.

Isn't It So?

The truth is always right, but seldom popular.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Fill each blank:

1. "O Woman! in our hours of ease
   Uncertain, ——— and hard to please" Scott, "Marmion."
2. "And only the Master shall praise us, and only the Master shall blame,
   And no one shall work for ———, and no one shall work for fame" Kipling, "L'Envoi."
3. "It takes all sorts to make a ———," Douglas Jerrold, "Story of a Feather."
4. "Blow out you ——— over the rich Dead" Brooke, "The Dead."
5. "Thou too sail on, O Ship of State

Match correctly:

6. Carmen	Wagner
7. Peter Ibbetson	Sullivan
8. Le Coq D'Or	Bizet
9. H. M. S. Pinafore	Rimsky-Karsakoff
10. Die Meistersinger	Deems Taylor

11. What three peninsulas jut into the Atlantic?
12. What is jasper?
13. What is the greatest source of mercury?
14. What is a quadruped?
15. In the remotest times, what name did the island of Great Britain bear?
